WHAT IS A HOKIE?
That's a frequently asked question in Virginia Tech athletics, and the answer leads all the way back to 1896 when Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College changed its name to Virginia Polytechnic Institute. With the change came the necessity for writing a new cheer, and a contest for that purpose was held by the student body. Senior O.M. Stull won first prize for his "Hokie" yell which is still used today. Later, when asked if "Hokie" had any special meaning, Stull explained the word was solely the product of his imagination and was used only as an attention-getter for his yell. It soon became a nickname for all Virginia Tech teams and those people loyal to Tech athletics. The official school colors – Chicago maroon and burnt orange – also were introduced in 1896. They were chosen because they made a "unique combination" not worn elsewhere at the time.

The HokieBird – Virginia Tech's lovable mascot

OFFENSIVE LINE

Blake DeChristopher

AT A GLANCE

Key Losses: center Beau Warren

Key Returnees: tackle Blake DeChristopher; tackle Andrew Lanier; guard Jaymes Brooks; guard Greg Nosal

All four returnees started every game last season, with DeChristopher and Brooks both earning second-team All-ACC honors.

Points of Interest: It was a productive spring for the O-line with redshirt sophomore Andrew Miller claiming the starting center job and the quality depth that the Hokies have been so eagerly seeking beginning to emerge. Nick Becton, David Wang, Vinston Painter and Michael Via appear ready for more active roles with the Hokies this fall.

Spring Standout: With starting left guard Greg Nosal sidelined for the spring following shoulder surgery, redshirt sophomore David Wang stepped in and wowed the coaches with his physical play. Wang got better in every phase of the game and showed he's ready to play.

LEFT TACKLE

Andrew Lanier (r-Sr.) – A battler who started every game last season … Entered 2010 as the No. 2 man but took over the starting job when Nick Becton developed turf toe … Has maintained a slight edge over Becton ever since … Works hard and uses his athletic ability … Has put on weight and needs to maintain it throughout the season.

Nick Becton (r-Jr.) – The scheduled starter last year until a bout with turf toe limited him to a few series per game … Stayed healthy and got back in the thick of things during the spring … Has all the tools but needs to stay focused … Is expected to get a lot of snaps this fall.

LEFT GUARD

Greg Nosal (r-Sr.) – Is expected to resume his starting duties this fall after undergoing shoulder surgery in January … Sat out spring practice and should return during the summer … Started all 14 games in 2010 and played over 800 snaps … A converted tight end who is tough and athletic.

David Wang (r-So.) – Named the most improved offensive player during spring practice … Took advantage of Greg Nosal's absence and impressed the coaches with his physical play … Has a lot of power and pop … May be asked to learn both guard positions … His emergence should be a real boost for the offensive line.

CENTER

Andrew Miller (r-So.) – Didn't take long to establish himself at the center positon … Saw some backup duty there and at guard in the fall … Stepped in and showed he was a perfect fit during the spring … A tough, hardnosed player with ability … Has a chance to be really good.

Michael Via (r-Jr.) – Started three games at center as a redshirt freshman in 2009 and did a good job … Has played mostly tackle since … Will concentrate on the center spot this fall … Is smart and athletic, but needs to be more physical.

RIGHT GUARD

Jaymes Brooks (r-Sr.) – Has 28 consecutive starts under his belt … Earned second-team All-ACC honors in 2010 … Worked to improve his footwork during the spring … Has a lot of power and explosiveness … A key performer for Tech.

Courtney Prince (r-Jr.) – Is starting to show progress at guard after moving over from defense … Possesses the tools and athletic ability to get the job done … Is still learning but will battle Matt Arkema for the No. 2 spot … Has worked hard for the opportunity.

Matt Arkema (r-Fr.) – Is expected to battle Prince for the No. 2 spot despite his youth … Showed signs of consistency during the spring but still has work to do … Has good ability and potential … Also worked some at center … Coaches would like to get him on the field.

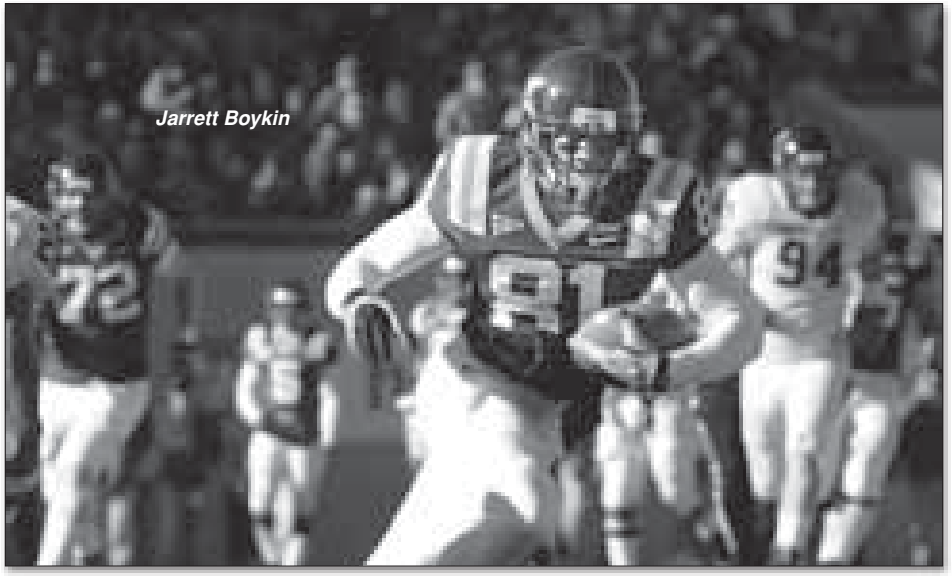
RIGHT TACKLE

Blake DeChristopher (r-Sr.) – Heading into his fourth season as a starter … Has 37 career starts, including 22 in a row … A hard worker who went out in the spring and got better … Was second-team All-ACC in 2010 … The leader of a veteran line.

Vinston Painter (r-Jr.) – Has adjusted well to a spring move from guard to tackle … Excelled in the weight room during the off-season and carried the confidence he gained to the field … Put himself in line for playing time with his best spring outing … Now needs to carry it all through to August.

> Coach Newsome on the offensive line: We've got four starters back. It's a very mature group … a bunch of guys who have a lot of snaps. Any time you have that much experience you've got a chance to be good. And then, I think we developed some younger guys in the spring. Last year, we were pretty good for most of the season, and I think this year's group has a chance to be better.

RECEIVERS & TIGHT ENDS



Jarrett Boykin

SPLIT END

Jarrett Boykin (Sr.) – A gifted receiver … Needs just four catches to become Virginia Tech's all-time leader in pass receptions … His 2,123 receiving yards rank third among Tech players … Had a great spring, becoming faster and more physical in the run game … Ranks third among all returning ACC players with 30 or more career catches in career yards-per-catch at 17.26.

D.J. Coles (Jr.) – Is beginning to show the consistency that has been missing from his game in the past … Got a lot of reps and made a lot of progress during the spring … Worked hard in off-season workouts … Is big, fast and athletic … Has the ability to be a playmaker.

E.L. Smiling (r-Fr.) – A young talent who got a good look from the coaches during the spring … Another big-bodied player with speed … Has ability but is still learning the offense … Will continue to get better with reps.

FLANKER

Danny Coale (r-Sr.) – Joins Boykin as one of the Hokies' all-time best receivers … Already ranks in Tech's top 10 in catches and receiving yards … Understands the game and masters the little things … Sure-handed and competitive … Averaged a team-leading 18.8 yards a catch last fall … Coaches looking for him to be a team leader.

Marcus Davis (r-Jr.) – Really stepped in and did some good things when Dyrell Roberts got hurt last fall … Gained a boost in confidence that carried into the off-season program and spring practice … Bought into the weight room … Has shown flashes of explosive ability … Now, he just needs to show that ability with more consistency.

Dyrell Roberts (Sr.) – A big-play threat as a receiver and return man … Caught 21 passes last fall before he was sidelined for the final five games by a thigh injury … Missed contact work in the spring … Has been fully cleared for competition … Was getting his weight back by the finish of school … No. 2 at Tech in all-time kickoff return yards.

TIGHT END

Chris Drager (r-Sr.) – Knows both sides of the ball and uses it to his advantage … Moved to tight end for spring practice after two years at defensive end where he started 11 games in 2010 … Quickly established himself in the top spot … Came to Tech as a tight end … Played in 11 games there in 2008, including one start … Is tough, physical and smart.

Eric Martin (r-So.) – Gives the Hokies a dependable No. 2 man at the position … Saw action last season in two-tight end sets … Blocks well but needs to play better in space … Worked on the areas that he needed to work on during spring practice … Showed better quickness and speed.

Randall Dunn (r-Jr.) – Was one of the Hokies' most improved players during spring practice … Not your typical tight end, but can be an effective weapon for the Hokies … Made some big plays during spring scrimmages … Can stretch the field in the passing game … May be used in an H-back role.

AT A GLANCE

Key Losses: tight end Andre Smith

Key Returnees: split end Jarrett Boykin; flanker Danny Coale; flanker Dyrell Roberts

Boykin, Coale and Roberts were Tech's top three receivers for the second consecutive season, combining for 113 catches for 1,882 yards and 11 touchdowns in 2010.

Points of Interest: To help offset the departure of starting tight end Andre Smith, the coaches moved starting defensive end Chris Drager back to offense where he began his career as a tight end. Drager solidifies the starting spot, but the rest of the depth chart may not be fully determined until the freshman class arrives.

Spring Standout: For the second year in a row, Marcus Davis has used spring practice to elevate his game. He caught 23 passes for 297 yards and four touchdowns during scrimmages and the Maroon-White game. The redshirt junior has boosted his confidence level, and it's showing up in his game.

"Coach Stinespring on the tight ends: I still have concerns, but I do think we have two guys who can be every-down players in Chris Drager and Eric Martin. I think Chris has really helped the tight end spot. Moving him back helps offset the loss of Andre Smith. Now, I'm really looking for someone else to help enhance the position.

"Coach Sherman on the wide receivers: I like the way the receivers came out in the spring and competed and pushed each other. They had a workman-like attitude throughout the whole spring. After the bowl game, they were a hungry group and disappointed in the way they ended the season. They had a new attitude in the spring and wanted to get better at the little things, to learn from that experience. This summer is going to be very important to us going into preseason with a new quarterback, but I like where we are headed.

RUNNING BACKS & QBS

TAILBACK

David Wilson (Jr.) – An explosive runner and playmaker who is ready to take over the top spot … Was productive while sharing time at the position the past two seasons … Has averaged 9.3 yards every time he has touched the football during his time at Tech … Scored five touchdowns rushing, four receiving and two on kickoff returns in 2010 … Split time between football and track during the spring but was always focused when he was on the field … Athletically, is among the best tailbacks the Hokies have ever had.

Josh Oglesby (r-Sr.) – Moved back to tailback after sharing time at fullback last fall … Has developed into a more complete player … Is tough, strong and experienced … A good receiver out of the backfield … Runs hard, but coaches are looking for a little more burst … Will play an important role this fall.

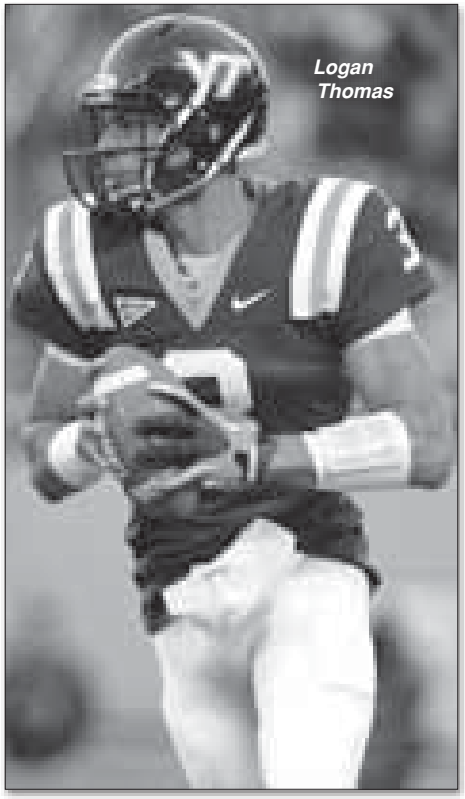
Tony Gregory (r-So.) – Is set to rejoin the mix at tailback … Suffered a torn ACL on punt coverage during the UNC game … Sat out contact work during the spring … Has been cleared for summer activity … A talented runner with excellent speed and quickness … Can give the Hokies a lift if he returns to form.

James Hopper (r-So.) – Moved over from defense and had a solid spring … Was a high school tailback … Is smart, tough and knows what to do … Showed a burst and quickness … Will help provide depth.

FULLBACK

Joey Phillips (r-Jr.) – Became a starter on the goal-line offense last fall … Picked up a lot of snaps during spring practice … A good receiver out of the backfield … Works hard on and off the field … A Super Iron Hokie in the weight room.

Martin Scales (r-Jr.) – One of the Hokies' top special team performers last season … A physical player who excels in the weight room … Played some tailback in high school … Has a lot of promise.



Logan Thomas

Riley Beiro (r-Fr.) – A converted tailback with toughness … The only freshman to earn Super Iron Hokie honors during scout team testing in the fall … Adjusted to the position with a good spring.

QUARTERBACK

Logan Thomas (r-So.) – Established himself as the Hokies' No. 1 quarterback with a productive spring … Was named the most valuable offensive player of the spring … Gained the confidence of the players and coaches … Threw the ball really well and made good decisions … Was consistent day-in and day-out … A quick learner who is big, tall, athletic and smart … Still has work to do … Will continue to study defenses and work on foot quickness drills over the summer … Is focused on being the best he can be when fall rolls around.

AT A GLANCE

Key Losses: quarterback Tyrod Taylor; tailback Ryan Williams; tailback Darren Evans

Key Returnees: tailback David Wilson; fullback Josh Oglesby

With backfield mates Williams and Evans opting to leave early for the NFL Draft, Oglesby returned to his original position in the spring, joining Wilson at tailback. Wilson averaged 5.5 yards a carry last season when he ran for 619 yards and five TDs. He also caught 15 passes for 234 yards and four scores.

Points of Interest: Redshirt freshman Mark Leal made a run at the No. 2 quarterback job during the spring and could make things interesting in August. There will also be plenty of interest in how young tailback Tony Gregory performs as he returns from a year-long absence due to a torn ACL.

Spring Standout: Redshirt sophomore Logan Thomas established himself as the starting quarterback with his spring showing. From day one to day 15, he threw the ball well and made good decisions. Thomas was able to get a lot of things done that will help him in August.

Ju-Ju Clayton (r-Jr.) – Got very few reps during the fall, but understood his role and did a great job with it … Knows the offense and understands what is happening on the other side of the ball … A solid, steady player … Was the No. 2 quarterback in 2009 and saw action in five games … Had some turnovers during the spring that need to be eliminated in August.

Mark Leal (r-Fr.) – Made a push for the No. 2 spot during the spring … Showed tremendous progress over the last 10 practices … An accurate passer with a quick delivery and strong arm … Has a way to go when it comes to a total grasp of the offense and opposing defenses … Will still be a strong candidate for the No. 2 spot in August.

"Coach Shane Beamer on the running backs: I feel good about the running backs as a whole. We have three guys we feel like we can count on at fullback, and each one brings a little something different to the table. I wish we had a little bit more depth at tailback, but first and foremost, we've got really great people at the position who want to be good, who are working at it and who it is important to. We've talked about the tradition of running back play that Coach Hite established here over the years and we're working hard to make sure that tradition continues.

"Coach O'Cain on the quarterbacks: I was very pleased with the progress we made in the spring as a position from top to bottom. Logan established himself, no question, as the No. 1 quarterback, not only in the way he performed in scrimmages, but also in the way he performed every day in practice. He did not have a bad practice in 15 days, and that is the thing you want out of your quarterback – consistency.

DEFENSIVE LINE

END

James Gayle (r-So.) – Is emerging as an elite player … The defensive MVP of spring practice … Posted six sacks during spring scrimmages and the Maroon-White game … Solidified a starting job … Is strong and explosive … Earned the prestigious Excalibur Award in the weight room during the winter … Played in every game and started two last fall.

J.R. Collins (r-So.) – Will move into the other starting end position … Plays extremely hard and loves the game … Picked up some reps at tackle during the spring and may be used inside at times in the fall … An active player who chases the football and can run people down … Is hard to block one-on-one.

Duan Perez-Means (r-Fr.) – Put himself in the two-deep with a good showing during the spring … Proved he could make plays … Must continue to improve and get stronger … Works hard and gives top effort … Needs to make a good summer preparation.

Tyrel Wilson (r-So.) – Finished the spring in the two-deep after seeing most of his playing time during the fall on special teams … Plays tough but could use a few more pounds … Beats people with his quickness … Must stay focused heading into August.

Zack McCray (r-Fr.) – A smooth athlete with talent … Has not completely turned himself loose yet and played as fast as he needs to … Has the ability to make plays … Showed some progress during the spring, but still has work to do.

TACKLE

Antoine Hopkins (r-Jr.) – The only returning starter on the defensive line … Started 12 games in 2010, posting 45 tackles, including 6.5 for loss … Has loads of talent and ability … Needs to improve his practice habits … Stepped up his level of play in the spring … Can be a force in the middle.

Derrick Hopkins (So.) – Came out of spring practice with a starting job next to his brother … Was one of two true freshmen to see playing time last fall … Really stepped his game up during the spring … Was active and made plays, including three sacks and five tackles for loss … Honored as the Hokies' top defensive newcomer.

Kwamaine Battle (r-Sr.) – Coaches admire the way he has battled back from a torn ACL suffered during the second game of the 2010 season … Returned for spring practice in April … Hasn't fully returned to playing shape, but the coaches have no doubts he will … Started the first two games of 2010 … The only senior on the D-line.

Isaiah Hamlette (r-Jr.) – Played well in the Maroon-White game, but must continue to improve … A hard worker who can run and rush the passer … Has to be stronger at the point of attack … Needs to make a good summer preparation.

Dwight Tucker (r-Jr.) – Missed valuable time during the spring with a sprained right ankle … Has ability and some game experience … An effort player who runs well … Can deliver a blow but has to stay on his feet … Will have to work his way back into the mix when practice resumes.

Nick Acree (r-Fr.) – Plays hard and works hard … Dropped some weight to gain more mobility … Excels in the weight room … Needs to carry that success over to the field … Is working to improve his technique and fundamentals.

> Coach Wiles on the defensive line:
> I think defensive end is going to be a bright spot for us, and I believe the Hopkins brothers give us playmakers that are very active inside at the tackle positions. Our first group right now can be very good, but we've got depth issues. We need another playmaker or two inside to solidify our two-deep at tackle. I feel better about our end position than I do about our tackle spot right now in terms of backups. In August, we're going take a look at our freshmen at both positions to see if they can be better than the backups we've got, and if so, they are going to be in the two-deep.

Antoine Hopkins

AT A GLANCE

Key Losses: tackle John Graves; end Steven Friday; end Chris Drager

Key Returnee: tackle Antoine Hopkins

With Drager's spring move to tight end, Antoine Hopkins is the only returning starter up front. Hopkins started the last 12 games of 2010 and will play an important role this fall.

Points of Interest: Depth issues prompted the Hokies to move end J.R. Collins inside to tackle on occasion during the spring. The move proved to be productive and could be an option in the fall. The coaches are also planning to take a long look at the incoming freshman class for candidates.

Spring Standout: Redshirt sophomore defensive end James Gayle was named the most valuable defensive player of the spring. He earned a lot attention on the way to cementing a starting job, and he deserved it. Now, he needs to show he can do it this fall.

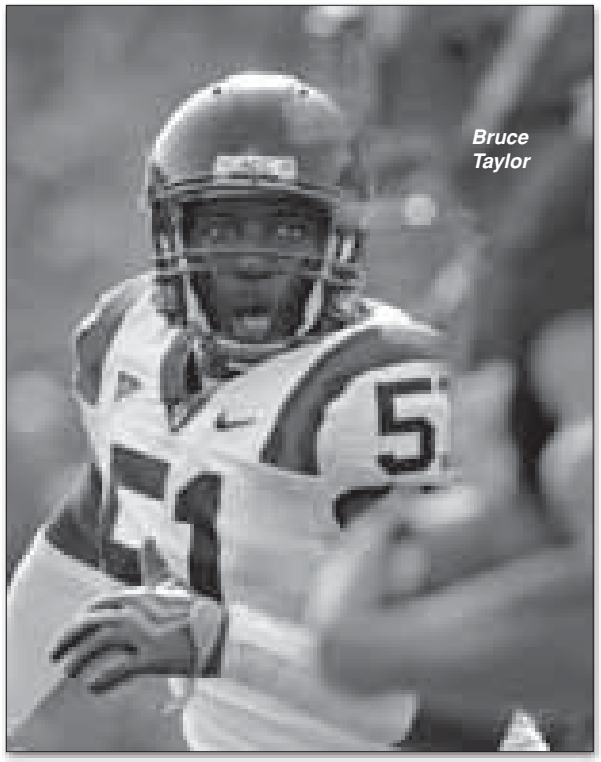
LINEBACKERS

MIKE

Bruce Taylor (r-Jr.) – Had an outstanding season in 2010, starting every game and leading the team in tackles with 91 … Was second-team All-ACC … Big and mobile … Has good football instincts and a desire to be the best … Is rapidly becoming a complete football player … Sat out most of spring practice with a shoulder injury … Has already been cleared to return to work … Will be looked to for leadership this fall.

Barquell Rivers (r-Sr.) – Got a lot of reps during the spring and made some plays … Appears close to returning to the field on game day … Started every game at mike linebacker in 2009 … Ruptured his left quadriceps tendon in early March 2010 … His only snap last season came in the bowl game … Is a heady player who is tough and physical … Has the coaches' trust … Needs to get in great shape during the summer … His return would be a big boost.



Bruce Taylor

Jack Tyler (r-So.) – A playmaker with good vision who really came along at the end of last season … Played well in the ACC title game and started in the Orange Bowl … A walk-on who earned a scholarship with hard work … Sat out the spring with a stress fracture in his back … Has been cleared to return in mid-summer.

BACKER

Tariq Edwards (r-So.) – Moved into the top spot with an outstanding spring performance … Made a commitment to reaching his potential … Took a big step by getting stronger in the off-season program … Followed that up with on the field production during the spring … He's long, quick and can run … Can be good in the run game and the passing game … Gives the Hokies athletic ability and explosiveness at the backer position.

Telvion Clark (r-So.) – Another young linebacker who took some big steps during the off-season and spring practice … Posted 22 tackles during the team's last three spring outings, including the Maroon-White game … Can really run and has a lot of physical tools … Is focused and more mature … Will be in the thick of the battle for playing time come August.

Chase Williams (r-Fr.) – Coaches are hoping he can develop into a player who they can use at either inside linebacker spot … Has the athletic ability needed at backer and the smarts and instincts for the mike spot … Coaches considered playing him last year as a true freshman, but hamstring concerns led to a redshirt year … Made good progress in the spring … A player the Hokies need to keep healthy.

WHIP

Jeron Gouveia-Winslow (r-Jr.) – Looked much more comfortable at the position during the spring after struggling at times in the fall … Was very active and made plays … Played with confidence … Understands the defense and has football savvy … Needs to have a good preparation in the weight room over the summer.

Alonzo Tweedy (r-Jr.) – Is developing a better feel for the whip positon … Showed more understanding of the job during the spring and made plays … Let his athletic ability come through … Can really run and hit … One of the Hokies' top players on special teams the past two seasons … A player you want to get on the field.

Nick Dew (r-Fr.) – A talented young player who moved to whip in the spring … Coaches feel good about moving him closer to the football … Possesses outstanding speed and quickness … Shows a confidence about himself … Could see early playing time on special teams … Has to get more comfortable with the defense and add a few pounds, but has a bright future.

> Coach Foster on the inside linebackers: We had some injuries in the spring where a couple of guys had to sit out. The good thing is that it gave us a chance to move some people around, which allowed us to create some depth. It's going to be the first time in a couple of years that I've had the depth that I foresee us potentially having. I'm excited about this group.

> Coach Brown on the whip linebackers: I'm excited about where we finished off the spring at the whip position. I think our top guy, Jeron Gouveia-Winslow, really performed well. He was very active and in on a lot of plays. And Alonzo Tweedy is starting to get comfortable out there and letting his athletic ability come through. Now, we've got two guys manning the position solidly, which will help us down the stretch.

AT A GLANCE

Key Losses: backer Lyndell Gibson

Key Returnees: mike linebacker Bruce Taylor; whip linebacker Jeron Gouveia-Winslow

Taylor came on strong in the starting role at the mike position. He started every game and led the team in tackles (91) and tackles for loss (15.5) on the way to second team All-ACC honors. Gouveia-Winslow started seven games, contributing 41 tackles and a pair of interceptions.

Points of Interest: Former starting linebacker Barquell Rivers made some big strides during the spring in his efforts to return to playing time. Rivers, who ruptured a quadriceps muscle in March 2010, would give the Hokies some quality depth if he is able to reach playing condition by August.

Spring Standout: The departure of Lyndell Gibson at the backer position opened the door for Tariq Edwards. Edwards seized the opportunity to earn the defense's most improved player of the spring award and a starting job.

DEFENSIVE SECONDARY

CORNERBACK

Jayron Hosley (Jr.) - One of the nation's top corners … Named to Playboy's preseason All-America team after garnering first-team A-A recognition in 2010 from the Walter Camp Foundation … Led the nation in interceptions (9) and was 19th in punt returns (12.6) … Didn't rest on his laurels in the spring, showing focus and consistency … Has great ball skills and instincts … Will be looked to for leadership … Will start at the boundary position.

Kyle Fuller (So.) – One of two true freshmen to play in 2010 … Saw action in every game, starting six … Can play either corner but is listed No. 1 at the field spot … His experience is a real plus … Showed some consistency during the spring … Is physical and loves the game of football … Must continue to stay focused when practice resumes.

Cris Hill (r-Sr.) – An experienced senior who is scheduled to provide backup at boundary corner, but is capable of handling duty at either corner spot … Is tough and hardworking … Has excellent speed and athletic ability … Also a key contributor on the Hokies' special teams.

Detrick Bonner (r-Fr.) – Turned some heads with his showing in the spring … Showed good ability while getting reps at both corner spots … Can run with receivers and make plays … Is smart and picks up things quickly … Now he needs to get the details of the game that come with game reps … Heads into summer listed No. 2 at field corner.

FREE SAFETY

Eddie Whitley (Sr.) – Took over the job last season and started 13 games … Was third on the team in tackles with 80 and intercepted two passes, including a game-changing end zone pick at UNC … Has a high football IQ … Does a good job of getting the defense lined up … Gives you everything he's got and can be a great leader … Has good ability … Coaches would like to see him make a few more plays.

Theron Norman (r-Fr.) – A tall, athletic player whose strong point is making plays on the football … Was good at the free safety spot during the spring before injuring his left shoulder in the eighth practice … Was a real setback for plans to work on his tackling and created a void at the position … Is not expected to return until October.

Eddie Whitley

ROVER

Antone Exum (r-So.) – Has taken over the top spot at rover after serving as the No. 2 free safety during the fall … Played in every game in 2010, with five starts in games when Tech went to its nickel defense … Led the team in pass breakups with nine … Possesses outstanding abilities … Has come a long way in the mental part of the game and is still learning … Has as much talent as anyone the Hokies have had at the position.

Boye Aromire (Fr.) – Entered Tech in January after finishing up his senior season at H.D. Woodson High in Washington, D.C. … Began spring practice at cornerback … Switched to rover midway through the 15 practices … Lost a lot of time mentally because of the move … Coaches were pleased with his athletic ability, speed and upside … Needs to get in a film room and get a better feel for the rover position so he can be ready come August.

AT A GLANCE

Key Losses: cornerback Rashad Carmichael; rover Davon Morgan

Key Returnees: cornerback Jayron Hosley; free safety Eddie Whitley

Hosley had a breakout season in 2010, leading the nation with nine interceptions and earning first-team All-America honors from the Walter Camp Foundation. Whitley started 13 games and finished third on the team in tackles (80), while adding six pass breakups and a pair of interceptions.

Points of Interest: Depth is a concern at the free safety and rover positions due to injuries to key backups. That could lead to a couple of incoming freshmen getting a serious look when practice resumes in August.

Spring Standout: After earning first-team All-America honors, leading the nation in interceptions and winning the national defensive back trophy, junior cornerback Jayron Hosley could have zoned out during the spring. Instead, he chose to practice like a big-time player. Play-in, play-out Hosley remained focused and in turn became a better player and a better leader.

"Coach Gray on the secondary: There are still some things that have to materialize in the fall for the overall group to be as good as it can be. But, I like the first group. If we play with the proper technique and fundamentals, we can be one of the better groups in the country, which is always our goal, year-in and year-out. It's the depth, especially at the safety spots, that is going to be my biggest concern.

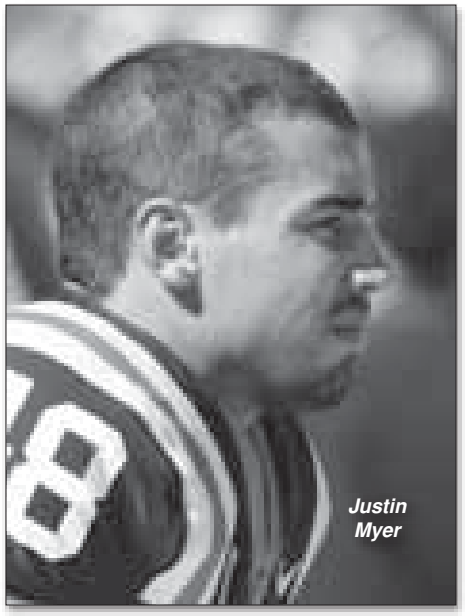
SPECIAL TEAMS

PLACE-KICKER

Cody Journell (r-So.) – Came out of spring practice as the top candidate … Made seven of 10 field goals during spring scrimmages and the Maroon-White game … Has a consistent flight on his kicks … His experience being in the program is a plus … Still has to maintain his consistency when practice resumes … Was a prep All-America kicker at nearby Giles High School.

Justin Myer (Sr.) – If he could ever get his consistency down, he could be a great kicker … Has talent and a big leg … Is quick into the ball and he gets it very high and very long … Set to handled kickoffs for the fourth straight season … Continues to be in the running for the PK job.

Tyler Weiss (r-Sr.) – Already has game experience and has shown flashes of ability … Is a right-down-the-middle guy but doesn't have a big leg … Started for Murray State as a freshman in 2007 … Made seven of 10 field goal attempts and all 32 of his PATs.



Justin Myer

PUNTER

Danny Coale (r-Sr.) – Entered the competition during the spring … Showed the most consistency among the candidates … Needs to get from a three-step operation down to a two-step punter … Averaged 44-yards on three punts in the spring game … If the competition continues to be inconsistent, is likely to get the starting nod.

Ethan Keyserling (r-Fr.) – Dressed for several games, while sharing the backup punting duties last season … Has good potential … Takes quick steps and gets the ball out with height … Consistency will be the key.

Scott Demler (r-Jr.) – Shared the backup duties with Keyserling last fall, dressing for some games … Has been working to get the ball off quicker … Shows a strong leg … Gets some height on his kicks … Faces the same challenge as the other candidates – to be consistent.

SNAPPER

Collin Carroll (r-Sr.) – Handled all the snapping duties last season and as a freshman in 2008 … Started the 2009 season doing the same before concentrating on just the short snaps after the Miami game … Has worked hard on his technique and is very dependable … Will be hard to beat out.

Joe St. Germain (r-Fr.) – Redshirted last season after joining the team as a walk-on … Has good skills and coverage ability … Helps provide good depth.

HOLDER

Trey Gresh (r-Fr.) – Took over the primary duties during the spring and did a good job … Was the holder for the kicking competition while redshirting in the fall. Other candidates could include Mark Leal (r-Fr.) and Derek DiNardo (r-Fr.).

RETURN MEN

David Wilson (Jr.), Dyrell Roberts (Sr.), Jayron Hosley (Jr.) and Danny Coale (r-Sr.) – Wilson led the ACC in kickoff returns in 2010, while Roberts was second in the league and fourth in the nation during the 2009 season … Wilson tied school season and career marks for kickoff returns for a touchdown with two … Hosley ranked second in the ACC and 19th nationally in punt returns last fall … Coale is the backup to Hosley on punts … Other players who may be in the mix for return duties are Cris Hill, Detrick Bonner and Willie Byrn.

Collin Carroll

"Coach Beamer on the special teams: Probably as big a concern as anything is our punting situation and our field goal situation. I think all of our punters are talented enough. The question is can they become consistent enough? If any one of the candidates could get consistent over the summer, he could win the job. If it stays the way it is now, I would go with Danny Coale because he's a guy who has been in the battles, a guy you trust. As for field goals, I think Cody Journell is going to be our guy. We'll continue the competition in the fall, but I think Cody will be fine.

AT A GLANCE

Key Losses: punter/holder Brian Saunders; place-kicker Chris Hazley

Key Returnees: kickoff man Justin Myer; snapper Collin Carroll; punt returner Jayron Hosley; kickoff returner David Wilson

Myer was the Hokies' top kickoff man for the third straight year, while Carroll handled all the long and short snapping duties after giving up the long snapping duties for much of the 2009 season. Hosley and Wilson were among the top return men in the ACC during the fall and combined for three touchdowns on returns during the season.

Points of Interest: For the fifth consecutive year, the Hokies will enter the season with a new place-kicker. Each of the past four years that kicker has been a fifth-year senior, but that trend could change this season with redshirt sophomore Cody Journell appearing to be the leading candidate.

Spring Standout: Surprise punting candidate Danny Coale got the biggest ovation of the Maroon-White game with a towering 53-yard punt. Coale put himself squarely in line for the starting duties if a consistent challenger fails to emerge.

Frank Beamer, the first Tech alumnus to guide the Hokies' football program since the 1940s, has won more games at Tech than any other head football coach. Prior to Beamer, no other grid coach in Virginia Tech history had served more than 10 seasons as head coach. Only one of the 120 Division I-A head coaches has been at their current school consecutively longer than Beamer.

HEAD COACH
FRANK BEAMER

COACH HAS LED HOKIES TO 18 CONSECUTIVE BOWL APPEARANCES

When Frank Beamer accepted the job as head football coach at his alma mater in 1987, his goal was for the Virginia Tech football program to reach a consistent level of excellence. The Hokies have come a long way since then, and, along the way, Beamer has become one of the most respected and successful coaches on the college football scene.

That respect was shown in December when Beamer was named the first recipient of the Joseph V. Paterno Coach of the Year Award, which honors a coach based on his team's performance on the field, in the classroom and within the community.

Under Beamer, Tech football has enjoyed unprecedented success with 18 consecutive bowl appearances, seven straight 10-win seasons, four ACC titles, four ACC Coastal Division crowns, three BIG EAST Conference titles, five BCS bowl appearances and a trip to the national championship game. Since the beginning of the 1995 season, only Ohio State and Florida have posted more wins than Virginia Tech, and the Hokies have finished in the Top 20 in 16 of the previous 19 seasons, including six top-10 finishes during the last 13 years. Tech's run of 10 wins or more in seven straight seasons is the longest current streak in the FBS.

Frank Beamer and his wife Cheryl (left), with their daughter Casey (right), their son Shane, and his wife Emily with their daughter Sutton. Sutton's baby sister, Olivia, is not pictured.

This past season, after starting with a disappointing 0-2 mark, Beamer rallied the troops and led the Hokies to 11 straight wins and an 11-3 overall mark, including a win over Florida State in the ACC Championship Game and a trip to the Orange Bowl. Tech became the first FBS team ever to win 11 consecutive games after starting a season 0-2.

The Hokies couldn't have asked for anyone better to guide their football program into the ACC. In 2004 – Tech's first season in the league – Beamer and his staff led a young team picked to finish sixth in the league to an ACC title and a BCS Bowl. That team also won the league's 2004 Fall Sportsmanship Award for football, yet another tribute to the program Beamer and his staff have built. A year later, the Hokies produced an 11-2 record, won the ACC Coastal Division title, earned a spot in the inaugural league championship contest and appeared in a bowl game. Beamer was named the ACC Coach of the Year both seasons.

After the 2006 squad went 10-3 with a bowl appearance, Beamer's 2007 Tech team, buoyed by the winningest senior class in school football history, won the conference title and played Kansas in the Orange Bowl. Beamer was named the 2007 Southeast Coach of the Year by Sports Unlimited magazine and was a finalist for both the Paul "Bear" Bryant and Eddie Robinson Coach of the Year awards. The Hokies went 11-3 and finished ninth in the final national polls.

The 2008 season may have been Beamer's finest effort as he took one of the youngest teams in his tenure, played one of the toughest schedules and, despite several setbacks and disappointing losses, led the Hokies to an ACC title and a 20-7 win over Cincinnati in the FedEx Orange Bowl. In 2009, the Hokies kept rolling, winning 10 games including an impressive victory over Tennessee in the Chick-fil-A Bowl. Last year, after an unexpected 0-2

STABILITY AT THE TOP EQUALS SUCCESS

One of the keys to the continuing success of Virginia Tech football has been the stability of the program. That stability begins at the top with head coach Frank Beamer, whose 24 years at the Hokie helm have helped the program develop a sense of the stability and consistency currently enjoyed by just a handful of other Division I-A schools. Only one of the 120 Division I-A head football coaches has been at their current schools consecutively longer than Beamer – Penn State's Joe Paterno.

COACHING EXCELLENCE

Virginia Tech defensive coordinator Bud Foster won the prestigious Broyles Award as the nation's top assistant coach following the 2006 season. Foster was a finalist for the award in 1999, 2001 and 2005. He was also named the No. 1 defensive coordinator in Division I-A by rivals.com prior to the 2005 season.

THE HIGHEST COMPLIMENT

In a Seattle Times poll of more than 40 Division I-A head football coaches prior to the 2005 season, Virginia Tech's Frank Beamer was picked as the most respected coach among current I-A head coaches.

start, he led Tech to 11 wins, an ACC title and a berth in the Discover Orange Bowl to cap off another impressive season. He was also named the winner of the inaugural Joseph V. Paterno Coach of the Year Award, recognizing Beamer for team's performance on the field, in the classroom and in the community.

Beamer, who was the consensus National Coach of the Year in 1999, is third among active Division I FBS coaches in victories with 240 over 30 seasons as a head coach. Now entering his 25th year at the Tech helm, his overall record as the head man of the Hokies stands at 198-95-2. He became Tech's winningest football coach during the 1997 campaign. Counting six years as head coach at Murray State prior to joining the Hokies, Beamer's overall record is 240-118-4.

A spot in the Nokia Sugar Bowl to play top-ranked Florida State for the national championship focused widespread attention on Virginia Tech and its football program following the 1999 season. Although the Hokies fell short in their bid for the national title, they proved that they belong among the top teams in the college ranks.

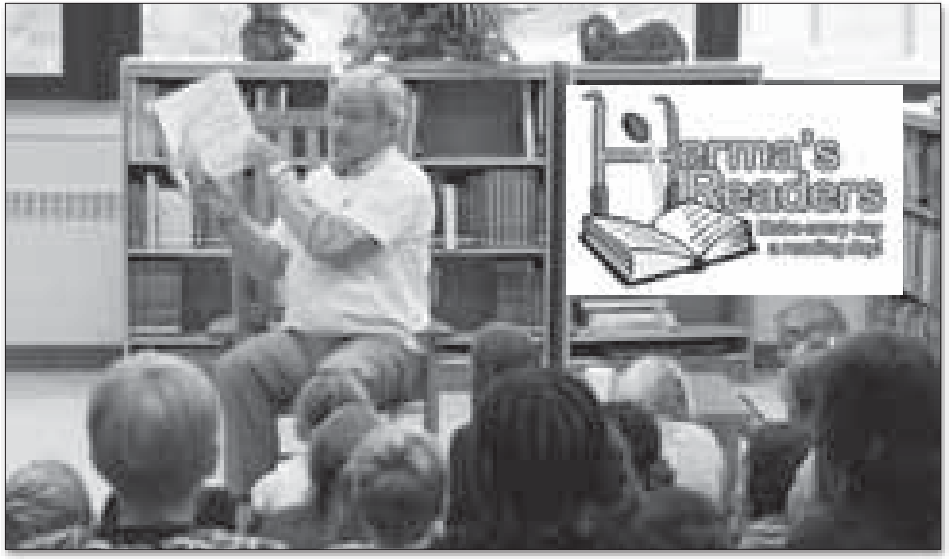
For his part in the Hokies' magical 1999 season, Beamer earned eight national coach of the year awards. He was named the Bobby Dodd Coach of the Year, the GTE Coach of the Year, the Eddie Robinson Coach of the Year, the Paul 'Bear' Bryant Coach of the Year, The Associated Press Coach of the Year, the Walter Camp Football Foundation/ Street & Smith's Coach of the Year, the Maxwell Football Club Coach of the Year and the Woody Hayes Coach of the Year. He also was named the BIG EAST Conference Coach of the Year for the third time.

Tech won the BIG EAST title in 1995 and 1999 and shared it in '96. Beamer was voted BIG EAST Coach of the Year by the league's coaches each of those seasons.

There have been plenty of other accolades for the Hokies' coach. Prior to the 2005 season, a Seattle Times poll of more than 40 coaches voted Frank Beamer as the current head coach for whom they had the most respect. When BIG EAST Conference football celebrated its first 10 years of existence in 2000, Beamer was voted the Coach of the Decade by the league's media. In 1997, he was inducted into The Virginia Tech Sports Hall of Fame.

The rise of the Tech football program has made Beamer a man in demand. It has opened doors to places he may never have dreamed of as a youngster growing up in Southwest Virginia.

In September 2000, Beamer was invited to the White House where he joined a select group that stood in the Rose Garden behind then-President Bill Clinton as he made remarks on the Conservation and Reinvestment Act. Beamer was one of the keynote speakers at the American Football Coaches Association Convention in 2000; and, in April 2001, he joined former Prime Minister of Great Britain Lady Margaret Thatcher as one of the featured speakers at SUCCESS 2001, one of the nation's most popular business seminars.



Coach Frank Beamer reads to youngsters from Margaret Beeks Elementary School to help promote the power of reading and literacy across the commonwealth of Virginia through Herma's Readers, a non-profit organization he formed as a tribute to his late mother, Herma Beamer.

In April 2004, Beamer was presented with a Humanitarian Award by the National Conference for Community and Justice for his contributions to fostering justice, equity and community in the Roanoke Valley. An avid NASCAR fan, Beamer has been the official starter for races at Bristol Motor Speedway and Richmond International Raceway.

In 1990, Beamer received a new contract and a substantial pay raise. He refused the raise, however, until a time that all classified and faculty employees of the university could have the same opportunity for pay raises. Most state salaries had been frozen at the time. When offered a pay increase in 2006, he did not sign the agreement until his assistant coaches were taken care of first.

Another indication of Beamer's love for the university came on the night he was inducted into The Virginia Tech Sports Hall of Fame. He called it the biggest honor of his entire career. With the induction, he became the first active coach at the university to be honored in that fashion.

The 64-year-old Beamer, the first alumnus to guide the Hokies since the 1940s, took over the Tech reins from Bill Dooley in January 1987. He began work a few days after the Hokies had beaten North Carolina State in the Peach Bowl. It took a while for him to get the Hokies moving in the right direction because the football program was hit with NCAA sanctions at the time.

But everything came together in the 1990s. The Techmen finished 9-3 in 1993 after beating Indiana, 45-20, in a wild Independence Bowl game. Tech followed up with an 8-4 season in 1994, losing to Tennessee, 45-23, in the Gator Bowl.

The Tech teams in 1995 and 1996 were among the best in school history. The 1995 team swept the BIG EAST Conference championship outright, and the 1996 club tied for the title with Syracuse and Miami.

The 1995 team was 9-2 during the regular season and then came up with a stirring 28-10 victory over Texas in the Sugar Bowl. The 1996 team went 10-1 during the regular season and lost to powerful Nebraska, 41-21, in the Orange Bowl after giving the Cornhuskers a fierce battle for three quarters.

The Hokies fell to 7-5 in 1997 and were beaten badly by North Carolina in the Gator Bowl, 42-3. But they came right back with a 9-3 mark in 1998 that included an impressive 38-7 victory over Alabama in the inaugural Music City Bowl in Nashville, Tenn.

The two winningest seasons in school history followed in 1999 and 2000 with the Hokies posting back-to-back 11-1 records. Tech registered its first-ever 11-0 regular-season record in '99 before losing its national championship battle with FSU.

In 2000, the Hokies' only blemish was a loss at Miami in the ninth game of the season. Both seasons, Tech climbed as high as No. 2 in The Associated Press poll, finishing No. 2 in '99 and No. 6 in 2000. The Hokies climbed as high as No. 5 in the 2001 AP poll and finished 18th. In 2002, Tech was ranked as high as No. 3 in the AP poll after posting consecutive wins over nationally ranked LSU (14th), Marshall (16th) and Texas A&M (19th). The Hokies' youthful team finished the season ranked 18th.

During the 2003 season, the Hokies ended No. 2 Miami's 39-game regular-season winning streak with a 31-7 victory. The Canes were the highest-ranked opponent Tech had ever beaten on the gridiron. The Hokies climbed as high as No. 3 in the polls before falling victim to inconsistent play during the final month of the season. Still, Tech earned eight wins for the 10th time in 11 seasons.

The 2004 season saw the Hokies bounce back to win their last eight games of the regular season, including victories against three nationally ranked teams – No. 6 West Virginia, No. 16 Virginia and No. 9 Miami.

Beamer's early Tech teams also registered many exciting victories. One of the most impressive came in 1990 when the Hokies capped the year with a 38-13 victory over arch-rival Virginia. During the 1989 season, Tech knocked off ninth-ranked West Virginia, 12-10, in Morgantown.

During his undergraduate days at Tech, Beamer started three years as a cornerback and played on the Hokies' 1966 and 1968 Liberty Bowl teams. He received a B.S. in distributive education from Tech in 1969 and a master's in guidance from Radford in 1972. Then came the start of the Beamer coaching career.

He began as an assistant at Radford High School from 1969 through 1971. Then, after one season as a graduate assistant at the University of Maryland, he went to The Citadel where he worked five seasons under Bobby Ross and one year under Art Baker. His last two years at The Citadel, Beamer was the defensive coordinator. In 1979, he went to Murray State as the defensive coordinator under Mike Gottfried. He was named head coach at MSU in 1981 and went on to compile a six-year record of 42-23-2.

The Tech coach was born in Mt. Airy, N.C., and grew up in Hillsville, Va. At Hillsville High, he earned 11 varsity letters as a three-sport athlete in football, basketball and baseball.

Beamer is married to the former Cheryl Oakley of Richmond, Va. They have two children, Shane, a former member of his dad's football team at Tech and now the associate head coach at Virginia Tech; and daughter Casey, a 2003 graduate of Virginia Tech who works for the Carolina Panthers of the NFL. Shane and his wife, Emily, have two daughters, Sutton and Olivia.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Frank Beamer, the first Tech alumnus to guide the Hokies' football program since the 1940s, has won more games at Tech than any other head football coach. Prior to Beamer, no other grid coach in Virginia Tech history had served more than 10 seasons as head coach. Only one of the 120 Division I-A head coaches has been at their current school consecutively longer than Beamer's 24 years. That coach is Joe Paterno (45 years at Penn State). With last season's visit to the Discover Orange Bowl, head coach Frank Beamer has led the Hokies to 18 straight bowl games. The 18 bowl appearances mark the second-highest by any active coach. Penn State's Joe Paterno leads the way with 37.

NATIONAL COACH OF THE YEAR

Coach Frank Beamer was tabbed the consensus national football coach of the year for 1999 after leading the Hokies to an 11-0 regular season and a berth in the national championship game.

UNDER THE DIRECTION OF COACH BEAMER AND HIS STAFF, THE HOKIES HAVE ...

- played for the national championship for the first time in school history.
- become one of only three Division I schools to go to bowl games each of the last 18 seasons.
- earned seven conference titles and seven "major" bowl bids in a 16-year span.
- become the only team in the FBS to produce 10 or more wins each of the past seven seasons.
- compiled a school-record streak in the Associated Press Top 25 Poll at 84 consecutive weeks.
- posted 11 wins in a season for the first time.
- registered the program's first back-to-back 11-win seasons.
- produced the school's first 11-0 regular-season record in football.
- averaged 9.7 wins a season over the last 18 years.
- won Sugar Bowl and Orange Bowl titles.
- won four Atlantic Coast Conference titles.
- won an ACC Championship in their first season of competition.
- played in four ACC Championship games.
- produced the ACC Coach of the Year and Player of the Year during their inaugural ACC season.
- been the first team in BIG EAST history to win all the league's major awards in the same season.
- earned the highest national rankings in school football history, including five top-10 finishes and back-to-back top-6 finishes.
- finished in a final Top 25 poll 15 times in the last 18 seasons.
- won more games (198) than under any other coaching staff in school history.
- been to four times as many bowl games (18) than under any other staff.
- won more bowl games (8) than under any other coaching staff.
- posted 18 straight seasons of seven or more wins for the first time in school history.
- had 160 of their last 191 games televised (84%).
- compiled a 125-42 record in televised games since the start of the 1995 season.
- blocked more kicks in the 1990s than any other Division I-A team.
- become one of only eight Division I-A schools ever to lead the nation in both scoring offense and defense in the same season.
- had at least one player from every defensive position score a touchdown.
- produced a No. 1 pick in the National Football League draft.
- had 73 players taken in the NFL Draft and more than 165 players sign with NFL teams.
- had two players who entered the program as walk-ons drafted in the top four rounds of the NFL draft.
- had 17 different players earn AP All-America honors over the last 13 seasons.
- had players win 12 major conference individual awards in the last 13 years.

BILLY HITE

ASSISTANT TO THE HEAD COACH AND SENIOR ADVISOR

Long-time assistant coach Billy Hite, who helped develop 27 running backs who have gone on to sign with NFL teams, makes the move to a new role for the 2011 season as he will be the Assistant to the Head Coach and Senior Advisor of the staff. This move comes after 34 seasons on the Tech coaching staff and his 10 years as the Hokies' associate head coach.

While the running backs coach, Hite helped produce nine of Virginia Tech's top 11 career rushing leaders and he was on the sidelines for more Virginia Tech football games than any other coach. He will continue to be there on game days in his new role.

Hite came to Blacksburg as a member of Bill Dooley's football staff in 1978. He served as a recruiter and head jayvee coach his first two years, then took over as the offensive backfield coach in charge of tailbacks and fullbacks in 1980. He had been coaching Tech's running backs up until his promotion last February.

Hite remained at Tech when Frank Beamer took over in 1987 and was elevated to the position of assistant head coach by Beamer the following year. He was promoted to the new position of associate head coach in December 2000. In 1989, Hite filled in as the acting head coach when Beamer was sidelined following coronary angioplasty surgery and had to miss a home game versus Tulane. Hite didn't let the program down as he led the Hokies to an emotional 30-13 victory.

Hite's first tailback in 1980, Cyrus Lawrence, went on to establish Tech season and career marks for rushing yards. During the mid-1980s, Hite was credited with the development of Tech's famed "Stallions" backfield that featured Maurice Williams and Eddie Hunter.

In 2000, tailback Lee Suggs shattered school and BIG EAST Conference scoring records on the way to leading the nation in touchdowns and scoring. Suggs, who also led the conference in rushing, was selected the Co-BIG EAST Offensive Player of the Year.

During the 2001 season, with Suggs sidelined by an injury, true freshman tailback Kevin Jones came on to lead the team in rushing and set a Tech record for rushing yards by a freshman. Jones was named the BIG EAST Rookie of the Year.

In 2002, Suggs and Jones combined to become the most productive Tech twosome ever in terms of single-season rushing yardage, combining for over 2,000 yards. During the 2003 season, Jones earned consensus All-America honors before opting to leave early for the NFL Draft. He was a first-round pick of the Detroit Lions.

Last year, the tailback trio of Darren Evans, Ryan Williams and David Wilson combined to rush for 1,920 yards and 21 touchdowns and after the season, Williams was taken in the second round of the 2011 NFL Draft by Arizona.

In 2009, Williams earned All-America honors after breaking the school's single-season rushing record with 1,655 yards. A year before, Evans eclipsed the 1,200-yard mark and broke the school's freshman rushing record en route to all-conference honors. Evans also rushed for a school-record 253 yards in Tech's win over Maryland.

Hite, who was on the sidelines for 397 consecutive Tech games as a coach from 1978-2010, coached in 21 bowl games for the Hokies.

A native of Hyattsville, Md., Hite was a former star tailback at the University of North Carolina. He received a bachelor's degree in education in 1974. Hite began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at UNC in '74. He was a part-time assistant for the Tar Heels from 1975-77. Hite received one of his highest honors when he was inducted into the DeMatha High School Hall of Fame in 1992.

Hite is married to the former Anne Heen of Memphis, Tenn. They have two daughters, Kirsten, 26, and Bryn, 22, and a son, Griffin, 18.

JIM CAVANAUGH

DIRECTOR OF RECRUITING AND HIGH SCHOOL RELATIONS

Jim Cavanaugh, who has played a major role in Virginia Tech's success since joining Frank Beamer's coaching staff in 1996, will assume a new position on the staff this season as the Director of Recruiting and High School Relations. This promotion comes after 15 seasons as the Hokies' strong safety and outside linebackers coach and his nine years as Tech's recruiting coordinator.

No one has been more instrumental in bringing top-notch talent to the Tech program than Cavanaugh. He was named the No. 2 recruiting coordinator in the country last January by Sporting News and, over the past 13 years, his recruiting skills have helped the Hokies attract, among others, prep All-Americans Michael Vick, Nathaniel Adibi, Victor Harris, D.J. Coles, Bryan Randall, Jonathan Lewis, Marcus Vick, Mark Shuman, Xavier Adibi, Dyrell Roberts, Chris Ellis and Corey Marshall.

Along with his success in attracting talent, Cavanaugh was instrumental in helping players develop their talent once they joined the Tech program. During his first season on the job, in 1996, outside linebacker Brandon Semones led the team in tackles and earned second-team All-BIG EAST honors.

Cavanaugh also helped in the development of highly successful players, such as Pierson Prioleau, Cory Bird, Kevin McCadam, James Anderson, Cody Grimm and Aaron Rouse. Prioleau was a third-team All-America pick by The Sporting News in 1997 and is still playing in the NFL. Grimm went from walk-on to All-American under Cavanaugh and was drafted by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, starting several games for them last season.

McCadam was a fifth-round NFL selection by the Atlanta Falcons in 2002. Anderson, a two-year starter at whip linebacker, was a third-round NFL draft pick of the Carolina Panthers in 2005 and had a breakout year last season, while Rouse was drafted in the third round by the Green Bay Packers in 2007.

Tech's appearance in the 2011 Discover Orange Bowl marked Cavanaugh's 27th postseason game as a coach and 19th in a row. A former star receiver at William & Mary, he is a veteran of 41 years coaching, including 37 as a full-time coach on the collegiate level. He has worked at two other Virginia schools – VMI and the University of Virginia – during his career and has been on the staff of five ACC schools – NC State, UVa, Maryland, North Carolina and Virginia Tech.

Cavanaugh coached at the University of North Carolina for eight years, and from 1982 through 1987, he worked under Bobby Ross and Joe Krivak at Maryland. He served two years at North Carolina State, three years under coach Bob Thalman at VMI, one year at Virginia and two years at Marshall. Cavanaugh began his collegiate coaching career as a graduate assistant at NC State in 1972. He has been a part of 11 conference championships and has been associated with four Hall of Fame Coaches (played for Marv Levy at W&M; coached with Lou Holtz at NCSU; coached with Ross at Maryland; and coached with Thalman at VMI).

During his years as a receiver at William & Mary, Cavanaugh surpassed the Tribe's career record in receiving with 117 catches and over 1,600 yards. He also earned honorable mention All-America honors in 1967 and was co-captain of his team in 1969. Cavanaugh was inducted into the William & Mary Sports Hall of Fame in April 2001.

Married to the former Marsha Carnell, he has two children – Ryan, who has worked in the NFL, and Lauren, who graduated from Tech in 2002.

Ryan and his wife, the former Melissa Searls, have two daughters, Mallory (6) and Samantha (4), while Lauren and her husband, Rob Reddick, have three children, Matthew (7), Marshall (5) and Mille (3).

BRYAN STINESPRING

OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR AND TIGHT ENDS/OFFENSIVE TACKLES COACH

Bryan Stinespring, an integral member of the Virginia Tech staff as both a coach and recruiter, is in his 10th season overseeing the Hokies' offense. Stinespring was promoted to offensive coordinator in December 2001 and began those duties during the Hokies' Gator Bowl game against Florida State on New Year's Day. He also coaches the tight ends and offensive tackles along the line.

The 2011 season marks Stinespring's 19th year as a full-time coach on Frank Beamer's staff at Tech. In 2006, he returned to coaching the tight ends after eight seasons as the offensive line coach.

During his time as the offensive line coach, one of Stinespring's star pupils, center Jake Grove, won the 2003 Rimington Trophy and became the university's third unanimous All-American. He was the first center taken in the 2004 NFL Draft.

Last year, Stinespring's offense flourished and was led by ACC Player of the Year Tyrod Taylor who quarterbacked the Hokies to an ACC title. In 2009, freshman Ryan Williams led a rushing offense that ranked 14th in the country; and, in 2007, Stinespring had four players from his offense taken in the NFL Draft, including offensive tackle Duane Brown in the first round. In 2005, three of his linemen were named to the All-ACC team with two of them earning first-team honors.

Stinespring took over the offensive line duties in the spring of 1998 and helped mold Tech's young line into a unit that showed steady improvement during the '98 season. Two members of that line – tackle Derek Smith and guard Dwight Vick – went on to sign with NFL teams.

In 1999 and 2000, the offensive line helped clear the way as the Hokies set new BIG EAST rushing marks in back-to-back seasons. Center Keith Short, guard Matt Lehr and tackle Dave Kadela all earned second-team All-BIG EAST honors in '99. Lehr repeated as a second-team pick in 2000, while Kadela moved to first team. In 2002, tackle Anthony Davis earned all-conference honors as the offensive front cleared the way for record-setting tailbacks Lee Suggs and Kevin Jones, who combined for over 2,100 yards.

Prior to taking over the O-line duties, Stinespring coached Tech's tight ends and assisted with the offensive line for five seasons. He was the Hokies' recruiting coordinator for eight years (1994-2001) and continues to be instrumental in helping attract top high school talent to campus. In 2001, he served as Tech's assistant head coach along with his other duties.

Stinespring initially joined the Tech staff in 1990 as a graduate assistant coach and spent two seasons in that capacity helping with the offensive line. After serving as the director of sports programs in 1992, he was elevated to a full-time coaching position prior to the 1993 season.

A native of Clifton Forge, Va., Stinespring was a walk-on player for James Madison University in the early 1980s. He is married to the former Shelley Franklin of Richmond, Va. Bryan and Shelley have a son, Daniel, 17; twin daughters, Caroline and Olivia, who are 13 years old, and another daughter, Ella, 8.

SHANE BEAMER

ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH AND RUNNING BACKS COACH

Former Virginia Tech long snapper and receiver Shane Beamer is in his first season on the Hokies' coaching staff as the associate head coach and running backs coach after spending the previous four seasons at the University of South Carolina.

Beamer coached several spots for the Gamecocks, including the spurs and strong safeties, as well as serving as the special teams coordinator in both 2009 and 2010. Beamer was also Carolina's recruiting coordinator, duties he took on following the conclusion of the 2008 regular season.

In 2009, Beamer's special team units recorded five blocked kicks, tying for the SEC lead and tying for the eighth-highest total in the nation. Beamer helped coach a defense that ranked third in the SEC and 15th in the country in total defense and second in the league and eighth in the land in passing defense.

Beamer's first class as the recruiting coordinator (2009) was ranked the nation's 12th-best class by both Rivals.com and Scout.com and the 2010 and 2011 recruiting classes were again ranked among the nation's top 25. Beamer was nominated for the 2009 Frank Broyles Assistant Coach of the Year award following the season.

Beamer joined the South Carolina staff in 2007, coaching the outside linebackers and serving as the co-coordinator of special teams in his first season in Columbia. He worked with the cornerbacks in his second campaign. That 2008 unit was one of the most productive on the field as they were part of a defensive squad that finished the regular season ranked second in the nation in pass defense and 13th in total defense.

Beamer went to South Carolina after spending the previous three seasons at Mississippi State University. He was hired by Sylvester Croom in January 2004 to coach the Bulldog cornerbacks under defensive coordinator Ellis Johnson. In his first two seasons at MSU he guided three defensive backs to Freshman All-SEC accolades.

He made the move to running backs coach in the spring of 2006. He also served as the program's recruiting coordinator.

Beamer went to Mississippi State from the University of Tennessee, where he spent three seasons as a graduate assistant helping with the cornerbacks, coaching the place-kickers, punters and long snappers and assisting in all special teams areas.

He also oversaw game opponent scouting while at UT and earned a master's degree in sport science in December 2003.

Prior to joining the staff at Tennessee, Beamer worked one season (2000) as a graduate assistant at Georgia Tech, helping with the Yellow Jacket quarterbacks and wide receivers.

Beamer earned his bachelor's degree from Virginia Tech in 1999 and was the Hokies' starting long snapper for three seasons. He also contributed as a wide receiver. He played on four bowl teams and three Big East Conference championship squads.

He concluded his college playing career by helping the 1999 Hokies to a No. 2 final regular-season ranking and a berth in the national championship game played against Florida State in the Sugar Bowl.

Born in Charleston, S.C., Beamer is the son of longtime Virginia Tech head football coach Frank Beamer. He is married to the former Emily Gladney, a Starkville, Miss., native. The couple has two daughters, Sutton and Olivia.

CURT NEWSOME

OFFENSIVE GUARDS AND CENTERS COACH

Curt Newsome is entering his sixth season on the Hokies' staff, coaching the center and offensive guard positions after handling the entire offensive line the previous five seasons. Prior to his arrival in Blacksburg, he was an assistant coach at James Madison University for seven seasons.

A familiar face in the Virginia high school ranks, he is also one of the top recruiters in the region and helped sign prep star Tyrod Taylor in 2006.

Last year's line featured three All-ACC selections while the 2009 line featured four All-conference selections. In 2009, Ed Wang was drafted by the Buffalo Bills and Sergio Render signed a free agent deal with Tampa Bay. These lines came on the heels of a 2008 line that helped pave the way for 1,200-yard rusher Darren Evans as the Hokies gelled late en route to ACC and Orange Bowl titles.

In 2007, Newsome had to deal with player injuries throughout the season, but had a line playing its best ball at the end of the year, led by eventual first-round draft pick Duane Brown. In 2006, his young line came along as the season progressed. Senior Brandon Frye was taken in the NFL Draft by Houston and started several games for Seattle last season.

Newsome served as the offensive line coach and assistant head coach his last three seasons at James Madison, helping guide the Dukes to the Division I-AA national championship in 2004. He joined the JMU staff in March 1999 and worked as the defensive line coach his first three seasons. In 2002, he coached Madison's offensive tackles and tight ends.

During his stint at JMU, Newsome coached All-Americans on both sides of the ball - defensive end Chris Morant, who was a two-time first-team All-American, and offensive guard Matt Magerko, who received first-team AP All-America honors in 2004 when the Dukes won the I-AA national title.

Prior to joining the JMU staff, Newsome was head coach in 1998 at Newport News' Heritage High School, where he was the AP's Virginia Scholastic Coach of the Year. He coached from 1987 to 1997 at Kecoughtan High School and also coached at both Phoebus and Ervington high schools.

Newsome received a bachelor's degree in physical education from Emory & Henry in 1982. He and his wife, Melinda, have a son, Curtis, 23, and a daughter, Elizabeth, 16.

MIKE O'CAIN

QUARTERBACKS COACH

Mike O'Cain is in his sixth season as the quarterbacks coach at Virginia Tech. A veteran of the Atlantic Coast Conference, O'Cain was formerly the head coach at NC State and offensive coordinator at both North Carolina and Clemson. This season, he will take over the gameday playcalling duties for the Tech offense.

The 32-year coaching veteran spent the past four seasons developing Tyrod Taylor into a dynamic playmaker who led Tech to three ACC titles in four years and was named the league's player of the year as a senior.

O'Cain returned to the sidelines in 2006 after a one-year hiatus in which he served as the color commentator for the Hokie Playback broadcasts of home Virginia Tech football games. Prior to that, he coached at Clemson in 2004, serving as the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach. In 2003, he was a big reason Charlie Whitehurst established 33 school records, including the passing yardage and completion records for a season. Whitehurst is now in the NFL with the Seattle Seahawks while Taylor was drafted by the Baltimore Ravens last April.

In his first year at Tech, he brought along Sean Glennon, who passed for over 2,000 yards in his first year as a starter, while the 2007 combo of Glennon and Taylor combined for 2,723 passing yards and 24 total touchdowns.

O'Cain began his coaching career at Clemson in 1977 as a graduate assistant. He coached the offensive backfield at The Citadel for the 1978-80 seasons before moving to Murray State, where he was an assistant under Tech head coach Frank Beamer from 1981-84.

After one year as the assistant head coach at East Carolina, O'Cain joined Dick Sheridan as quarterbacks coach at NC State. O'Cain served as a top assistant under Sheridan from 1986-92 and was a part of a staff that coached the Wolfpack in six bowl games. In 1993, Sheridan decided to retire just five weeks prior to the start of August practice and O'Cain was promoted to head coach. Despite a short period of time for preparation, O'Cain took NC State to a 7-4 regular-season record and an invitation to the Hall of Fame Bowl.

The next year, O'Cain guided the Wolfpack to a second-place ACC finish with an 8-3 record. He completed the season with a victory over Mississippi State in the Peach Bowl to become just the second coach in NC State history to take a team to a bowl in his first two seasons with the program.

In 1998, O'Cain guided the 'Pack to a win over No. 1 Florida State, then won at Texas in 1999. For the Seminoles, that was one of just two losses in ACC play during the team's first nine years in the league. He coached the Wolfpack to their third bowl trip in his tenure.

After the 1999 season, O'Cain joined the North Carolina football staff as the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach. He helped the Tar Heels to a winning season in 2000, and then moved to Clemson in December to replace Rich Rodriguez as quarterbacks coach. He spent four years at Clemson, taking part in three bowl games.

A native of Orangeburg, S.C., O'Cain was a three-year letterwinner at Clemson, where he was the most valuable player and a captain of Clemson's 1976 team, working as both the punter and quarterback. He is still ranked in Clemson's history for passing efficiency. He received his bachelor's degree in recreation parks administration from Clemson in 1977.

O'Cain and his wife, Nancy, have two daughters, Jenny (26) and Lizzi (24).

KEVIN SHERMAN

WIDE RECEIVERS COACH

Kevin Sherman is heading into his sixth season as the Hokies' wide receivers coach and is loaded with a slew of veteran receivers who have been playing since they were freshmen two years ago.

The transition wasn't easy as this group had to replace a veteran group of four seniors who each had over 1,000 yards receiving for their career.

The young group has continued to improve under Sherman, and last year the junior trio of Danny Coale, Jarrett Boykin and Dyrell Roberts combined to catch 113 passes for 1,882 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Sherman, who spent five seasons serving in the same capacity at Wake Forest University before coming to Tech, is a native of nearby Radford and a graduate of Radford High School and Ferrum (Va.) College.

Three of his receivers from the 2007 team were drafted and both Eddie Royal (Denver) and Josh Morgan (San Francisco) are now starring in the NFL. In 2006, five receivers contributed regularly, and three had at least 400 yards receiving.

That senior quartet of Royal, Morgan, Justin Harper and Josh Hyman combined for 2,026 yards receiving and 15 touchdowns in 2007.

During his time with the Demon Deacons, Sherman worked closely with All-ACC performers John Stone and Fabian Davis, both of whom went on to successful professional football careers with Oakland and Tampa Bay, respectively.

Sherman also oversaw the development of Jason Anderson. Anderson set a school record for most receiving yards by a freshman and eventually left in 2004 as Wake's career leader in yards per reception.

Sherman became an assistant coach at WFU after working four years as an assistant coach at Ohio University. Sherman was one of eight Ohio assistant coaches who accompanied head coach Jim Grobe to Winston-Salem in December 2000.

At Ohio, Sherman was responsible for the split end and Z-back positions, which saw increasing action in the Bobcats' Pro-I offense. Sherman helped guide the career of Z-back Raynald Ray, who compiled 925 receiving yards during his career.

As a group, the 1999 receiving corps grabbed more receptions (72) than any group since 1994, while the 2000 unit totaled the highest number of receiving yards (1,046) in seven years.

Prior to his stint at Ohio University, Sherman coached at Virginia Military Institute (VMI). In his four seasons with the Keydets, he coached in several capacities under three different head coaches. Beginning as the running backs coach, he later became the quarterbacks and receivers coach and coordinator for the passing game.

While at VMI, he coached All-America running back Thomas Haskins, who led the Southern Conference in rushing for three consecutive years, and quarterback Al Lester, who threw for nearly 4,000 yards in his career.

A 1992 graduate of Ferrum, Sherman served as captain of the Panther football team and was chosen as the team's Most Valuable Player as a senior in 1990. During the 1991 season, he served as a student assistant football coach before becoming an assistant football coach at Methodist (NC) College in 1992.

Sherman is married to the former Jennifer Williams. The couple has two children, a son, James, and a daughter, Nioka.

BUD FOSTER

DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR AND INSIDE LINEBACKERS COACH

Regarded as one of the top defensive minds in the game, Bud Foster enters his 25th season at Virginia Tech. The 2006 Broyles Award winner has helped mold nationally ranked defenses on a yearly basis during his 16 years as a coordinator.

Foster, who was a finalist three previous times (1999, 2001, 2005) for the award given to the nation's top assistant football coach, has gained a well-deserved reputation as one of the nation's most respected defensive coaches while serving on Frank Beamer's football staff at Tech.

In 2008, despite losing seven starters to NFL camps from the 2007 team, his young and inexperienced group finished seventh in the nation in total defense and in the top 20 of five other categories. In 2009, his group rounded into form late and finished 12th in the country in total defense and was led by All-American Cody Grimm. His young group led the nation last year in turnover margin and tied for second in the country in passes intercepted (23) with All-American Jayron Hosley leading the way as the Hokies claimed another ACC title.

The 2007 group was also among the nation's elite, featuring a pair of first-team All-Americans in Brandon Flowers and Xavier Adibi, along with six all-conference selections.

The 2006 unit led the nation in total defense for the second straight year. The unit also led the nation in passing and scoring defense. The 2005 squad led the country in total defense and ranked among the top three teams in three other categories. It produced two first-team All-Americans along with four all-conference players. Tech's 2004 defense ranked in the top five nationally in total defense, pass defense, scoring defense, interceptions and turnovers gained.

After helping Tech to the national championship game in 1999, Foster was recognized as the 2000 Division I-A Defensive Coordinator of the Year by American Football Coach magazine. Tech's 1999 defensive unit led Division I-A in scoring defense and ranked third in two other categories.

Following numerous seasons, Foster has been pursued by big-time programs for their defensive coordinator position, but he has opted to continue his long-standing football association with Beamer. That association dates back to 1979 when Foster was a strong safety and defensive end at Murray State and Beamer was the defensive coordinator. Foster began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at MSU in 1981, Beamer's first season as the head coach.

Since coming to Tech in 1987, Foster has worn several coaching hats. He coached the inside linebackers for one year in 1987, then tutored the outside linebackers for the next five seasons. Foster assumed responsibility for both sets of linebackers prior to the 1993 season and also took over special-teams coaching that year. The following year, he coached the inside linebackers and special teams. Foster assumed the position of co-defensive coordinator in 1995 and took over as the sole defensive coordinator in '96. The inside linebackers continue to be his primary responsibility.

A 1981 graduate of Murray State, Foster was an outstanding strong safety and outside linebacker from 1977 to 1980. After two years as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Foster was elevated to a full-time staff position. The Nokomis, Ill., native coached outside linebackers for three seasons before taking over the inside and outside linebackers in 1986. He also served as MSU's recruiting coordinator and worked with special teams.

Foster and his wife Jacqueline have three children: Amy Porter, Grant and Hillary. Daughter Amy has a 3-year-old daughter, Jaiden Olivia.

CORNELL BROWN

OUTSIDE LINEBACKERS AND ASSISTANT DEFENSIVE ENDS COACH

Former Virginia Tech All-American and Tech Sports Hall of Fame member Cornell Brown is in his first season on the Hokies' coaching staff, working with the outside linebackers and helping out with the defensive ends.

The Lynchburg, Va., native joined the coaching ranks in 2005 as a coaching assistant working with linebackers for the Cologne Centurions in the NFL-Europe League. Brown became a full time defensive line coach for the Frankfurt Galaxy the following year and helped the team to back-to-back World Bowl appearances, winning the league title in 2006. While coaching the defensive line, he helped develop free-agent tackle Remi Ayodele of the Super Bowl Champion New Orleans Saints.

NFL-Europe's schedule allowed Brown to also work as a graduate assistant coach at Virginia Tech during the Hokies' 2006 and 2007 seasons. He helped develop defensive units that led the nation in total defense and scoring defense in '06 and were ranked third and fourth, respectively, in those categories in 2007. He had a helping hand in developing draft choices Chris Ellis, Carlton Powell and Jason Worilds.

Brown attended Virginia Tech and played defensive end from 1993 through 1996, helping the Hokies to a bowl game each season.

Brown became the first Virginia Tech football player to gain consensus All-America honors as a junior when he was named to five first teams in 1995. Brown was a first-team A-A pick by AP, UPI, the Football Writers Association, The Sporting News and Football News. He finished the year with 103 total tackles, including a BIG EAST-leading 14 sacks.

He was selected National Defensive Player of the Year by Football News and was one of five finalists for the Defensive Player of the Year. In 1996, Brown missed three games, but still earned first-team honors from Walter Camp and second-team recognition from AP. He posted eight sacks, five other tackles behind the line, 19 quarterback hurries and 58 total tackles during the '96 season.

Brown had his Tech jersey retired on Nov. 20, 2002, during the West Virginia game.

A sixth-round draft pick of the Baltimore Ravens, Brown played seven seasons in the NFL and was a member of the Ravens' Super Bowl XXXV championship team.

TORRIAN GRAY

DEFENSIVE SECONDARY COACH

Former Virginia Tech defensive standout and NFL product Torrian Gray, who is in his sixth season as the Hokies' defensive secondary coach, has made a big impact on Tech's defense.

Last year, the defense – led by first-team All-American Jayron Hosley – finished tied for second in the country in passes intercepted. Hosley led the nation with nine picks and combined with Rashad Carmichael for 13 total interceptions, the most in the nation for a cornerback combo. Carmichael went on to be drafted by the Houston Texans last April in the NFL Draft.

His 2009 group finished 11th in the country in pass defense and eighth in pass efficiency defense and was led by eventual NFL draft pick Kam Chancellor. In 2008, led by All-American Victor Harris, Gray's secondary was ranked among the nation's leaders in pass defense (129.1 ypg) and interceptions (20).

In 2007, Gray oversaw a pass efficiency defense ranked fifth in the country, led by three All-ACC performers in Harris, Brandon Flowers and D.J. Parker. Flowers thrived under Gray, earning All-America honors for the second time, including first-team honors en route to becoming a second-round pick in the NFL Draft. In 2006, Gray led a secondary that ranked as the nation's No. 1 pass defense and the No. 2 team in pass efficiency defense.

Prior to coming to Blacksburg, Gray spent the previous two seasons as assistant defensive backs coach with the NFL's Chicago Bears. During the 2005 season, the Bears ranked fifth in the NFL in passing defense and finished tied for second in interceptions (24) as defensive backs Nathan Vasher and Mike Brown were both elected to the Pro Bowl.

Gray began his coaching career at the University of Maine, serving as defensive backs coach for two seasons (2000-01). Gray spent the 2002 and 2003 seasons as defensive backs coach at the University of Connecticut.

During his playing career at Virginia Tech (1992-96), Gray helped the Hokies to four consecutive bowls for the first time in school history. He played on 97 percent of the Hokies' defensive plays over his last three seasons, starting at rover in 1994 and '95, and handling the starting free safety duties in 1996.

Gray was named All-BIG EAST all three seasons and helped Tech to conference championships his last two years. He shared the team lead in interceptions in both 1993 and 1994 and was named the Hokies' Outstanding Defensive Back in 1996. Gray earned a bachelor's degree in consumer studies from Tech. He was drafted in the second round of the 1997 NFL Draft (49th overall) by the Minnesota Vikings. He started five games as a rookie, including two playoff contests. He contributed as a starter in the nickel package and as a special teams player before retiring in the spring of 2000 due to a knee injury. The Vikings advanced to the playoffs in each of his three seasons.

A native of Lakeland, Fla., Gray is married to the former Elena Fullman. He has a daughter, Tori, who is 13.

CHARLEY WILES

DEFENSIVE LINE COACH

Charley Wiles, a former All-America player for Frank Beamer at Murray State, has produced five All-Americans of his own since joining Beamer's Virginia Tech staff as defensive line coach in 1996.

Among the top players Wiles has helped develop during his 16 seasons directing the Tech line are ends Corey Moore and Cornell Brown.

In 1999, Moore won the Mike Fox/Bronko Nagurski Award as the nation's best defensive player and the Lombardi Award as the best lineman. He also became Tech's second unanimous All-American and was chosen the BIG EAST Defensive Player of the Year two consecutive years. Brown was a two-time All-America pick, taking consensus honors as a junior in 1995 when he was named the National Defensive Player of the Year by Football News and the BIG EAST Defensive Player of the Year.

In 2005, Wiles helped mold end Darryl Tapp into a first-team All-America selection, a first-team All-ACC selection, and a Hendricks and Lott Awards finalist. Tapp now plays on Sundays for the Philadelphia Eagles.

Wiles also coached John Engelberger, who was named to the second team on The Associated Press All-America team, and tackle David Pugh, who was a third-team All-America pick by The Sporting News. In 2008, end Chris Ellis and tackle Carlton Powell were both taken in the NFL Draft. In 2009, Jason Worilds flourished under his guidance and was drafted in the second round by the Pittsburgh Steelers. Two other players also signed NFL free agent deals.

In all, 19 of Wiles' players have won all-conference honors, including Tapp, who was a first-team All-ACC pick during each of the Hokies' first two seasons in the league. In 2008, ends Orion Martin and Worilds both earned second-team honors and were among the league leaders in sacks and tackles for loss.

During the 1999 season, Wiles coached a veteran line which he helped mold into what The Sporting News rated as the best Division I-A defensive line in the college ranks prior to the season. That line helped the Hokies finish first in the nation in scoring defense and third in rushing defense and total defense. Tech's 2001 defensive line was rated as the fourth-best in Division I-A by The Sporting News.

Wiles is on his second tour of duty at Tech. He originally joined Beamer's Tech staff as a graduate assistant in 1987 and worked in that capacity for two years. Wiles first had a player-coach relationship with Beamer, when Beamer was the head man at Murray State. Wiles won Kodak Division I-AA All-America honors as an offensive lineman in 1986.

When he left Tech after the 1988 season, Wiles spent a year on the staff at East Tennessee State. He then returned to Murray State for a six-year coaching tenure, winding up as the Racers' co-defensive coordinator. In 1995, he helped coach the Racers to an 11-0 regular-season mark and a berth in the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs. Wiles also served as MSU's recruiting coordinator, helping land many of the Racers' top players.

When Wiles rejoined Beamer at Tech in 1996, he fulfilled a goal he had set during his first stint in Blacksburg. The Hokies have competed in bowl games during each season since he rejoined the staff.

A native of DeLand, Fla., and a three-sport star at DeLand High School, Wiles is married to the former Andrea Wilder of Booneville, Ind. They have a daughter, Kendell, 15, and a son Eric, 12.

DR. JOHN BALLEIN

ASSOCIATE ATHLETICS DIRECTOR FOR FOOTBALL OPERATIONS

The Virginia Tech athletic department could choose no better person to head up all football operations than associate athletics director for football operations Dr. John Ballein, whose rich history with the university makes him the perfect person for the job. Ballein, who received his doctorate of education from Virginia Tech in 2006 and worked on Coach Frank Beamer's first Virginia Tech staff in 1987 as a graduate assistant coach, handles all administrative and operational duties dealing with the football program and is considered Coach Beamer's right-hand man.

After a year as the running backs coach at Western Kentucky University in 1988, Ballein returned to Tech as recruiting coordinator and has been with the Hokies ever since. He was promoted to assistant director of athletics for football operations in 1996 and, in 2000, received another promotion to his current position for his excellent work throughout the years with Tech football.

A native of Bentleyville, Pa., Ballein was a linebacker at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, where he graduated with a degree in health and physical education in 1983. He later earned his master's in education from Old Dominion University in 1987. In 1983-84, Ballein served as a teacher and a football coach at Woodrow Wilson High School in Portsmouth, Va., and then at Western Branch High in Chesapeake, Va., in 1985-86.

What makes Ballein so important is the rapport he has with all the players. His office, adjacent to Coach Beamer's, is a preferred hangout for the players, and he is one of the most beloved and respected members of the staff.

"At Virginia Tech, Coach Beamer talks a lot about family," former Hokie standout and Denver Broncos wide receiver Eddie Royal said. "One of the main reasons that the program truly feels like family is John Ballein. I don't know how he does it, but he doesn't miss a thing. If you've messed up, he's the first person there to help you get back on track. If you've done something special, he's the first person there to shake your hand and tell you great job. Now that I'm away from the program, he's the person who checks in to make sure I'm doing okay. The reason he's so popular with all the players is because you can tell he's genuine. He really cares about us, and that makes it easy to really care about him."

Ballein is married to the former Stephanie Green, a Hokie basketball player in her undergraduate days. They have two daughters, Jordan Gray, 15, and Jalyn Ann, 13.

John Ballein and his wife, Stephanie, with daughters Jalyn and Jordan.

FOOTBALL SUPPORT STAFF

BRUCE GARNES
DEPUTY DIRECTOR OF FOOTBALL OPERATIONS

Bruce Garnes, a 1994 graduate of Virginia Tech, is in his 13th year assisting with operations for the Hokies' football office and his first as deputy director.

For 12 years, he has served as the liaison between the academic community and football and has helped the Hokies with their recruiting efforts. Garnes also assists Dr. John Ballein, the associate athletics director for football operations, with Tech's coaching clinics.

A native of Martinsville, Va., Garnes graduated from Tech with a bachelor's degree in sport management. He received a master's at Tech in counseling education in 1996.

In 1998 and 1999, Garnes interned with the Dallas Cowboys in the equipment room.

A 1989 graduate of Magna Vista High School in Ridgeway, Va., Garnes, 40, is single and enjoys jogging, spending time with co-workers and watching all Virginia Tech athletic teams compete.

LESTER KARLIN
EQUIPMENT MANAGER

Lester Karlin, a veteran of 33 years as the Hokies' equipment manager, is one of the most popular people on the Virginia Tech athletic staff.

Karlin is a certified equipment manager and a member of the Athletic Equipment Managers Association. In addition to ordering equipment for the football team, he is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the equipment room.

A native of Norfolk, Va., Karlin graduated from Tech in 1974 with a bachelor's degree in health and physical education. From 1971 to 1973, he served as the student assistant in the football equipment room.

Karlin worked for two years in the World Football League, serving as the equipment manager for teams in Houston, Texas, and Shreveport, La. He returned to Blacksburg and his alma mater in 1978.

Karlin, his wife Suzie, and their daughter Sarah live in Blacksburg. Their daughter Rachel and her husband Christopher Potter, live in nearby Christiansburg with their son Caleb, who was born in June, 2010.

Karlin is a life member of the Blacksburg Volunteer Rescue Squad and a member of the Blacksburg Volunteer Fire Department. He spends his spare time either working in his yard or at the rescue squad or fire department.

GIVING COACHES AND PLAYERS AN EDGE IN PREPARATION

To ensure athletes have all the information they need to be ready on game day, the video office equips Hokie football players and coaches with everything required to scout opponents and to improve personal performance.

Virginia Tech's XOS Technology, a system also utilized by NFL teams, gives the coaching staff a wealth of information at their disposal in a matter of seconds. During the week, the department gathers tape of Tech practices and games in addition to opponent footage and labels every play in terms of down, distance, formation, protection and end result. This information is matched with video and then entered into a computer database accessible to coaches and players at any time.

"Players at this level have to realize that there is a lot more involved than just playing the game," Tech defensive coordinator Bud Foster said. "(The XOS Technology) has been a great tool. Besides the quality, it's right there at your fingertips."

To fully utilize the upgraded technology, Tech has provided each individual position meeting room with a pull-down projection screen and video projector connected to the computer database, giving coaches and players 24-hour, easy access to information. All of the coaches' meeting rooms are also equipped with computers, so that each member of the staff can instantaneously pull up footage of any scenario. When on the road, the videography department gives coaches and players laptop computers containing hours of scouting material to analyze while away from the Tech campus.

"The greatest teaching tool is the ability to show someone what they're doing, right or wrong," head coach Frank Beamer said. "With our video equipment, we can do that quickly. The ease with which we can do these things and the way we can put certain plays and scenarios together makes us more efficient in preparing for games on Saturday."

KEVIN HICKS

DIRECTOR OF BROADCASTING AND VISUAL MEDIA

Responsibilities: Hicks serves as the director of broadcasting and visual media, responsible for organizing video to aid the coaching staff in preparation for upcoming games, producing highlight videos of each sport, running the video board at Lane Stadium and overseeing a staff that includes four full-time staff members, as well as undergraduate student assistants and graduate assistants.

Joined VT Staff: May 1998; 14th year.

Record at Virginia Tech: Hicks spent four years as a student intern while pursuing an undergraduate degree from Tech. He was hired as assistant video coordinator and promoted to head video coordinator within a year.

Prior to Virginia Tech: Hicks is a 1994 graduate of Tabb High School in Yorktown, Va.

Education: Virginia Tech, 1998 (communication studies).

Family: Hicks and his wife, Kristen, reside in Blacksburg with their daughter, Kassidy, and son, Kollin.

WALK-ONS AT VIRGINIA TECH

From walk-on to NFL draftee. Sound improbable? Not at Virginia Tech, where it's happened numerous times.

Take John Engelberger for example. The San Francisco 49ers selected Engelberger as the 35th-overall pick in the 2000 NFL Draft.

Engelberger, who arrived in Blacksburg as a walk-on in 1995, was following in the footsteps of tight end John Burke, who graduated from Tech's walk-on program as a fourth-round draft pick of the New England Patriots in 1994.

Five years ago, Will Montgomery was taken by the Carolina Panthers in the seventh round and ended up starting four games at offensive guard as a rookie and several games for the Washington Redskins each of the past two years.

And in April of 2010, Cody Grimm completed his fairy tale story by being selected in the seventh round by Tampa Bay. He arrived at Tech as an undersized walk-on who played special teams for three years, earning a scholarship along the way for his hard work. But he had a breakout senior season, one in which he earned All-America honors and caught the eyes of NFL scouts in the end. He went on to start several games at safety for the Bucs last year, returning an interception for a touchdown.

Walk-on players are an important part of Virginia Tech football. With scholarship reductions, not all high school football players earn scholarships to compete in college. But that doesn't mean there isn't an opportunity for those individuals, especially at Virginia Tech, where walk-on athletes have a history of contributing.

The walk-ons at Virginia Tech are treated in the same first-class manner as the rest of the squad. Former walk-ons have eventually earned scholarships, earned starting positions, gained all-conference and All-America honors and some eventually played pro football.

"The important thing for a walk-on is to know he's going to be given a chance," Tech head coach Frank Beamer said. "The way you track that is to look at programs around the country to see how many scholarships are given to walk-ons.

"We're one of the top two or three programs in the country in that category. So for a guy who's interested in walking on, there's not a better place than right here at Virginia Tech. We give people a chance and we treat them the same as everybody else."

Engelberger was a recruited walk-on, meaning he was invited to try out for the team. He arrived in Blacksburg in 1995 as a 6-foot-4, 210-pound tight end and got into the weight room, transforming his body into that of a big-time college football player. After his redshirt year, he earned a scholarship for his tireless work ethic. Thanks to endless hours of work on the practice field and in the weight room, Engelberger finished his career as one of the best defensive ends in Tech history. His dedication to the game paid off as he played nine years in the NFL as a starting defensive end for the San Francisco 49ers and Denver Broncos.

Burke walked on in 1989 and eventually earned a starting position for the Hokies. He was a four-year letterman at Virginia Tech (1990-93) where he caught 21 passes for 303 yards and two touchdowns. Burke was drafted by the New England Patriots in 1994 and was a member of the Patriots' 1997 Super Bowl XXXI team. He also saw action with the New York Jets, San Diego Chargers and the Oakland Raiders.

Burke, Engelberger, Grimm and Montgomery aren't the only Hokies to excel in the walk-on program. Tech had five walk-on players start or see playing time in the 1996 Orange Bowl against Nebraska. All five of those former walk-ons earned scholarships and paid big dividends for Tech in the 1996 season.

None of these players would have lived their dream and reached their potential if Virginia Tech hadn't extended the opportunity they were seeking. Their eventual success has become a cherished part of the Hokie football tradition and heritage.

"Our walk-on program is so successful for two reasons," said John Ballein, the associate athletics director for football operations, who directs the program. "First, our coaches work at it. When they're out on the road, they're looking for players who can fit into our program. Secondly, we have a head coach in Coach Beamer who is loyal to each player in this program."

Tech's walk-on program has provided countless young men a chance to play collegiate football and prove that the evaluation and recruiting process is far from flawless. It allows a young man to mature physically, improve his football skills and contribute to the success of Virginia Tech football.

"No one really knows the difference between a walk-on and a scholarship player because each person is treated exactly the same," Ballein said. "Players know they have an opportunity to earn a scholarship and that they'll be in the best weight program in the country. Combine all those factors and you have the reason why Tech's walk-on program has been successful."

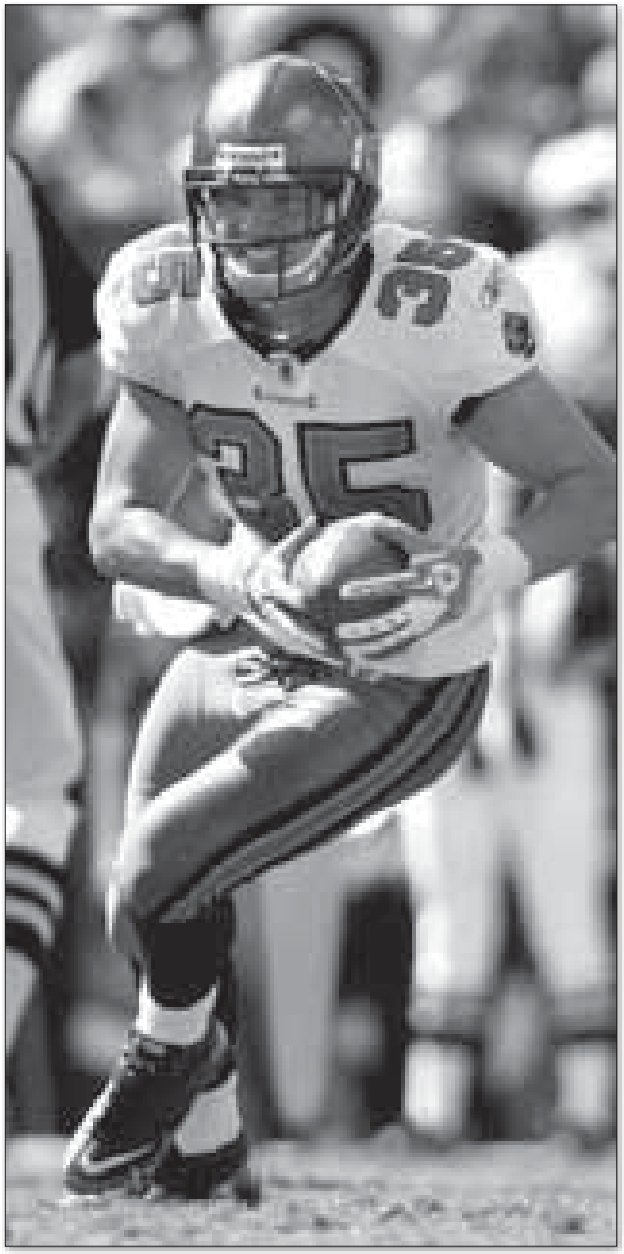
There are two types of walk-ons at Virginia Tech: the invited walk-on and the true walk-on. The invited walk-ons are players recruited by coaches to come into the Tech program. The true walk-ons are students already enrolled at Tech who try to earn a spot in the program. Tech has two workouts (one in the spring and one in the fall) for these players. From there, some are invited back to try and earn a spot on the team.

Hokie walk-ons not only get the chance to play in one of the best programs in the nation, they get a chance to play for one of the best coaches in college football as well.

"I think our walk-on program is successful because we work at it," Beamer said. "We work at recruiting guys who will have a chance to be a player in our program. We evaluate them very carefully. We only have so many spots for walk-ons now and so it is very important that we get kids who have a chance to earn a scholarship.

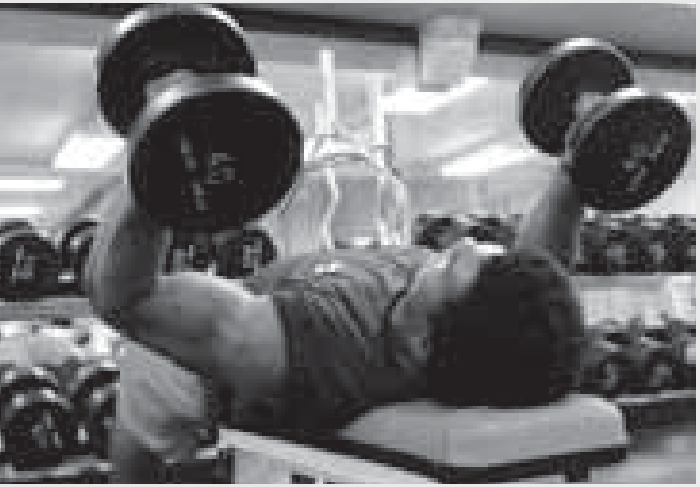
"I've always liked walk-ons because a lot of them have something to prove and they work harder and they go right by some scholarship guys as far as playing time."

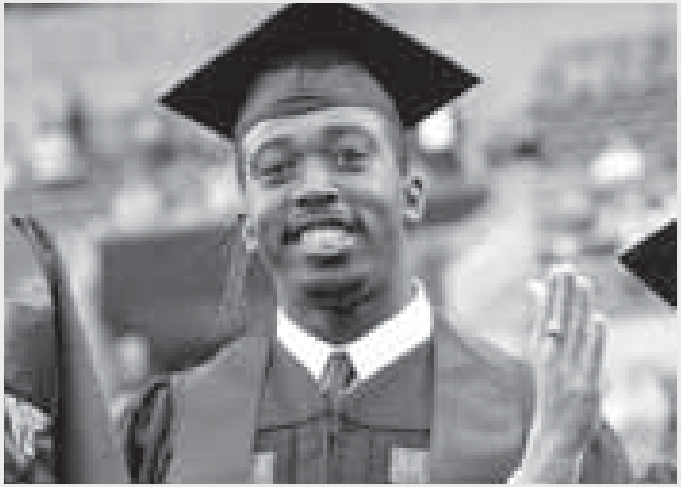
The success of the Tech walk-on program continues to grow right along with the success of the football program. This year the Hokies will welcome another class of walk-ons who are anxious to prove they could be the next great walk-on story at Virginia Tech.



Cody Grimm, who was named the Defensive MVP of the Chick-fil-A Bowl, came to Tech as a walk-on, but left as an All-American and was drafted by Tampa Bay in April 2010.

STUDENT SERVICES





Between the academic services, student life, strength & conditioning, nutrition, psychology and athletic training programs in place, Virginia Tech does everything to help a student-athlete succeed on the field and off.

STUDENT-ATHLETE ACADEMIC SUPPORT SERVICES

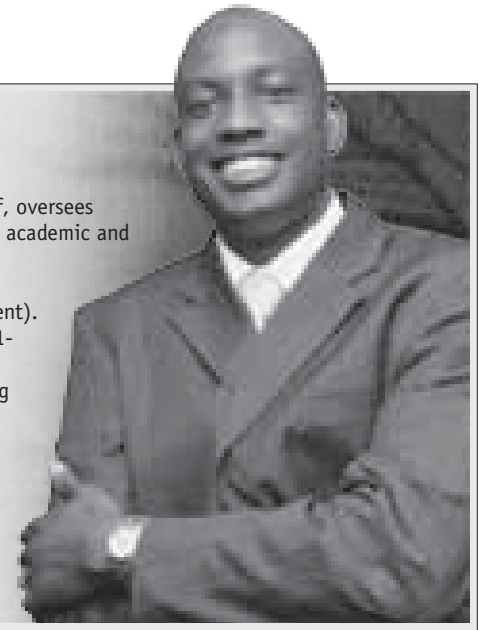
PROVIDING THE TOOLS NEEDED FOR SUCCESS IN THE CLASSROOM

Student-Athlete Academic Support Services (SAASS) is committed to providing a comprehensive academic and personal development program with counseling and advising for student-athletes, offering academic counseling to ensure students receive a complete system of support consistent with university and NCAA policies.

Student-athletes have access to the department's spacious facilities, located in the West Side of Lane Stadium. Opened during the 2006-07 academic year, the SAASS suite, located in the Quillen Family Academic Center, features 18 private tutor rooms, a state-of-the-art classroom, a 36-station computer lab with printer access, a conference room, three quiet areas for reading and studying and a reference library. The office is available between classes, after practice and in the evenings. Hours of operation are flexible and may be tailored to maximize the student-athlete's limited time. The collection of SAASS programs housed in Lane Stadium guarantees that all student-athletes achieve success during their time at Virginia Tech.

JERMAINE HOLMES

DIRECTOR OF STUDENT-ATHLETE ACADEMIC SUPPORT SERVICES



Responsibilities: As director, Holmes provides leadership for SAASS and, along with his staff, oversees the development and execution of programs aimed to help Hokie student-athletes balance their academic and athletic demands and achieve success in both areas.

Joined VT Staff: January 2009; third year.

Education: B.S. Virginia Tech, 1996 (business); M.S. Virginia Tech, 1998 (resource management).

Of Note: A former Hokie himself, Holmes was a member of the Tech football squad from 1991-1996.

Before Virginia Tech: Holmes served as director of Student Life at Virginia Tech before taking an athletic academic counselor position at Cal State Fullerton. He then returned to Tech in 2009 after serving as assistant director of Student-Athlete Support Services at The Ohio State University. He started with the Buckeyes in 2004 as an athletic academic counselor and was promoted to assistant director of a support unit that served nearly 1,000 student-athletes. Holmes managed that department's day-to-day activities, office operations, facilities and staff, in addition to overseeing the academic support programs for all student-athletes and serving as the academic counselor for Ohio State's football and track programs.

Family: Holmes and his wife LaTanya reside in Blacksburg with their son Aiden.

ATHLETICS OFFICE OF STUDENT LIFE

ASSISTING IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE TOTAL PERSON

At Virginia Tech, student-athletes don't just play sports. With help from the Athletics Office of Student Life, Hokie student-athletes work outside the athletic venue to develop into responsible adults who are assets to their communities.

Led by the Virginia Tech Student-Athlete Advisory Committee, Hokie student-athletes volunteered countless hours in the local community last year. In addition, over 360 Virginia Tech student-athletes earned a 3.00 grade point average during one or both semesters, while achieving great success within athletics as well.

Inspired by the NCAA Student-Athlete Affairs commitment areas, the Athletics Office of Student Life creates programs designed to enhance student-athletes in five areas: athletic excellence, academic excellence, personal and leadership development, and community outreach and career development. The program has been previously honored for its commitment to serving the good of the student-athletes by the Division I-A Athletic Director's Association as a program of excellence.

STUDENT-ATHLETE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC) is a committee made up of student-athletes assembled to provide insight on the student-athlete experience. It also offers input on the rules, regulations and policies that affect student-athletes' lives on NCAA member institution campuses. Two members of each sports team serve on SAAC each academic year.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

The Office of Student Life aims to help student-athletes lead balanced lifestyles, encouraging emotional well-being, personal growth and decision-making skills. Each team is required to attend two personal development programs during the year to educate student-athletes.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT

Virginia Tech student-athletes go through their collegiate athletic experiences with the understanding that they will need to secure a job upon graduation. The Office of Student Life works to enhance student-athlete career development by collaborating with the Virginia Tech Career Services Office. Student-athletes also receive assistance in learning about majors and minors, preparing for career fairs, and obtaining scholarships and internships.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

The Office of Student Life is also responsible for nominating student-athletes for academic honors and awards. Athletes are nominated for on-campus, Atlantic Coast Conference and national awards. Student-athletes with a 3.0 GPA are rewarded and honored on the Athletic Director's Honor Roll. In 2010-11, 362 student-athletes were named to this prestigious list, just slightly lower than the 370 who were honored during 2009-10.

COMMUNITY OUTREACH

Virginia Tech student-athletes are now involved more than ever in the local community. In conjunction with the mission of the Office of Student Life and the Ut Prosim motto, student-athletes are encouraged to volunteer throughout their college experience. Each team partners with a local community organization and volunteers time at community-wide events. Along with large volunteer efforts, student-athletes engage in community support with visits to local hospitals and elementary and middle schools. Community organizations can also request Tech student-athletes to attend local outreach events. Involvement in this program helps maintain and improve the positive relationship between student-athletes and the surrounding community.

In 2010-11, the Virginia Tech football team once again partnered with The United Way of Montgomery, Radford and Floyd to raise funds for local programs and services.

The team also promoted education to local students through the Hokie Book Challenge, a community service initiative designed to teach the youth of Montgomery County the importance of reading. The team auctioned off uniforms and helmets with all proceeds going to Herma's Readers, a non-profit organization that promotes the power of literacy.

REYNA GILBERT-LOWRY

ASSISTANT ATHLETICS DIRECTOR FOR STUDENT LIFE

Responsibilities: As assistant athletics director for student life, Gilbert-Lowry develops programs geared to enhance student-athletes' personal development, career awareness and community service endeavors. This includes coordinating each team's philanthropic projects, working with the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee and nominating student-athletes for academic awards. She also helps plan the annual Athletics Director Honors Breakfast and the All Sports Banquet.

Joined VT Staff: 2008; fourth year.

Prior to Virginia Tech: Before joining the Hokies, Gilbert-Lowry served as the compliance coordinator and CHAMPS/Life Skills coordinator at Nova Southeastern University in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. In 2005, she was also the coordinator of athletic academic services. Prior to NSU, Gilbert-Lowry served as an academic advisor at the University of Central Florida.

Education: Northern Illinois University, 2001 (psychology), where she lettered four years on the women's gymnastics team and was named MVP her senior year; Ball State University, 2004, earning a master's in sport and exercise psychology, and a minor in counseling.

Personal: A native of Orlando, Fla., Gilbert-Lowry currently lives in Blacksburg.

In November, the team sold pink bracelets to raise funds for breast cancer research and presented a check for $10,000 to the Breast Cancer Research Foundation at the November 4 game versus Georgia Tech.

Following two devastating tornadoes in nearby Pulaski County, the Athletics Department sponsored a relief drive to assist the victims and collected donations at the Spring Game. A total of $8500 was donated to the Pulaski County Tornado Relief Drive.

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE

ONE OF THE NATION'S TOP PROGRAMS HELPS STUDENT-ATHLETES GET BIGGER, FASTER AND STRONGER

Before the lights ever come on, before the players run out of the tunnel for the first game and before the first touchdown is ever scored, college football players work on getting themselves physically and mentally prepared for the rigors of a five-month season. Crucial to this process is the athletic performance program, which includes strength and conditioning, sports nutrition and sport psychology.

Thanks to the direction of Associate Athletics Director for Athletic Performance Mike Gentry, the Virginia Tech athletic performance program is among the best in the nation, helping to make the football program one of the best as well.

One of the main support centers of Tech football is the strength and conditioning program. The results of hard work by the staff and the student-athletes have paid huge dividends as the Hokies have pushed their streak to 18 consecutive bowl game appearances.

The Tech football strength program centers around four major lifts. The bench press and squat are lifts for building all-around strength; the push jerk and power clean help players develop explosive power. Gentry's program also includes conditioning and speed development, which the players do in the speed and agility room, Rector Field House (Tech's indoor practice facility) and on the Hokies' track facilities.

Each player has personal goals which he works to achieve. The team is broken down into four groups based on positions relevant to the players' body size. The players work to progress from Maroon, Orange, Hokie, Iron Hokie and Super Iron Hokie status to the Excalibur Award.

The Excalibur Award was created to push the athletes to higher levels. This level is a predetermined performance test which measures achievement for the individual's position. It comprises four tests in strength (bench press, squat, push jerk and power clean) and five tests in performance (vertical jump, 40-yard time, 10-yard time, sit-reach test and 20-yard shuttle).

Assisting Gentry in the weight room this year are four full-time assistant strength and conditioning coaches. Former football players Jarrett Ferguson and Keith Short serve as the director and coordinator, respectively, of strength and conditioning for football. Former Hokie players Ryan Shuman and Brandon Dillard are the graduate assistants for football's strength and conditioning program.

THE FOOTBALL PROGRAM BOASTS MANY TOP-OF-THE-LINE FACILITIES AND TRAINING PROGRAMS

• The team trains in the 17,000-square foot training center on the first level of the Merryman Athletic Center. The weight room facility features free-weight equipment, a full line of Hammer Strength equipment, 12 platforms and a 6,000-square foot state-of-the-art speed and agility room.

• Tech also uses a 10-by-40-yard sand pit located outdoors and adjacent to the weight room for resistive running drills to improve speed. The Hokies also have the practice fields for use in running drills.

• Players can also train in the Jim "Bulldog" Haren Weight Room. Located in Jamerson Athletic Center, the 5,000-square foot weight room was officially dedicated in September 1985 to Haren, a former Hokie player and long-time supporter of the Virginia Tech Athletics Department. With the two facilities, the Hokies have more than 22,000-square feet of strength and conditioning training space.

DR. MIKE GENTRY

ASSOCIATE ATHLETICS DIRECTOR FOR ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE

Responsibilities: As associate athletics director for athletic performance, Gentry's duties include overseeing the strength and conditioning training of athletes in all 21 varsity sports at Virginia Tech, and he is directly involved in training the football team. Gentry also supervises the sports nutrition and sport psychology programs.

Joined VT Staff: 1987; 25th season.

Record at Virginia Tech: Gentry was inducted into the USA Strength and Conditioning Coaches Hall of Fame in 2010. He was named the second-annual Samson Strength & Conditioning Coach of the Year in the March 2005 issue of American Football Monthly.

In May 2003, Gentry was honored by the Collegiate Strength and Conditioning Coaches when he was named a Master Strength and Conditioning Coach. Gentry is currently one of only 36 coaches in the country to have received the CSCC's highest award. In 1995 and 1996, Gentry was recognized by the National Strength and Conditioning Association as a finalist for the National Strength and Conditioning Professional of the Year.

Prior to Virginia Tech: Gentry worked as an assistant strength coach at UNC and as the head strength coach at East Carolina University prior to coming to Virginia Tech in February 1987.

Education: Western Carolina, 1979 (physical education); UNC Chapel Hill, 1981 (master's degree); Virginia Tech, 1999 (doctorate; curriculum and instruction with emphasis in motor behavior).

Family: Gentry has a son, Roy Christopher (Bo), 21, a member of the Hokie football team. Gentry is married to the former Wendy Ann Williams.

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE

SPORT PSYCHOLOGY

Virginia Tech offers another important service to all of its student-athletes – sport psychology. Dr. Gary Bennett coordinates the sport psychology department, which offers psychological and performance enhancement services for student-athletes. Bennett works to serve the needs of Tech student-athletes. He is also employed at the Cook Counseling Center on campus.

The sport psychology department offers an injury group to afford injured athletes the opportunity to meet with a sport psychologist and other injured athletes and talk about the recovery process. On average, Bennett conducts 30 individual sessions per week and meets weekly with teams as the need arises.

The response to the sport psychology program has been positive. The student-athletes are very receptive to the services offered by the doctors. The sport psychology office reaches out to athletes who may not have considered going to the counseling service that is offered to all students at Virginia Tech.

SPORTS NUTRITION

Eating healthy and choosing nutritious diets are important aspects of a Virginia Tech student-athlete's life, and that's why the athletics department implemented the sports nutrition program in July of 2002. Jennifer Schafer is the department's director of sports nutrition.

The nutrition program offers individual and team education to student-athletes concerned with lean muscle gain, fat loss, dining hall eating, eating for energy and other performance issues.

It offers student-athletes the opportunity to use the Bod Pod, which measures body composition (body fat and lean body mass percentages). Research shows that lean muscle mass increases athletic performance, so the machine helps student-athletes reach their potential.

Student-athletes also have other resources available to them, including the Nutrition Oasis, which provides recovery drinks, fruit and bagels, and Quick and Easy Recipe Books, which are designed to help student-athletes shop for healthy foods.

The nutrition staff provides educational materials as well and is available for one-on-one consultations with student-athletes regarding their nutrition needs and goals.

DR. GARY BENNETT
SPORT PSYCHOLOGIST

Responsibilities: Bennett meets with student-athletes on an individual basis for personal counseling and to discuss the mental aspects of the game. He also works on team buliding, communication and performance enhancement. Bennett has taught and supervised pre-doctoral level interns.

Joined VT Staff: 2000 (Full time since 2007); 12th year.

Record at Virginia Tech: Bennett began working at Virginia Tech in 1995 at the Cook Counseling Center. Now, as the sport psychologist, he also serves on the committees for nutrition, performance and substance abuse; and the planning committee for the "Summit for Student-Athlete Success" events. He also works with various teams in the area of performance enhancement.

Education: Centre (Ky.) College, 1981, B.A. English, where he played baseball; University of Kentucky, 1988, master's in rehabilitation counseling; UK, 1995, Ph.D. in counseling psychology.

Of Note: Bennett is licensed as a clinical psychologist and has additional training in sport psychology. He is certified as a sport psychology consultant by the Association of Applied Sport Psychology and is a member of Division 47 (Exercise and Sport Psychology) of the American Psychology Association.

Personal: Bennett lives in Blacksburg and enjoys playing golf and basketball, as well as hiking and skiing, in his spare time.

SPORTS MEDICINE

PROVIDING THE HOKIES WITH EXPERIENCED, PROFESSIONAL CARE

The Sports Medicine Department at Virginia Tech is constantly evolving to incorporate new ideas utilizing state-of-the-art resources for the betterment of all Hokie student-athletes. Under the leadership of Associate Athletics Director for Sports Medicine Mike Goforth, the department is constantly improving and developing new strategies to provide the most current and comprehensive care.

Their team of certified athletic trainers, orthopaedic surgeons, Board Certified primary care physicians, chiropractors, physical therapists, sport psychologists, nutritionists, massage therapists and orthotists are available on site to manage the health care needs of Tech athletes. The staff continually looks for ways to enhance the services provided for their athletes as evidenced by its participation in local and national projects pertaining to related topics such as concussion management, prevention of antibiotic resistant types of staph infection (MRSA), high ankle sprains and collegiate health care management strategies. Research is considered instrumental to the sports medicine department. The department has participated in several projects with the engineering department and school of education, respectively.

Tech is entering its ninth full year in the 4,300-square-foot Eddie Ferrell Memorial Training Room, which consolidated the training rooms that existed in the Merryman Center and Cassell Coliseum. The facility gives the training staff a centralized area to care for the needs of all Virginia Tech student-athletes. There is top-of-the-line equipment and a unique style of architecture, developed by Glenn Reynolds, AIA and Larry Perry as the consulting engineer. In 2010, Reynolds again helped Tech spearhead another 3,000-square-foot expansion of the training room that will be completed by 2013.

The Ferrell Training Room nearly doubled the size of the former Merryman Center facility. Tech now has more than 10,000 square feet dedicated to sports medicine, placing it in the top five percent nationally. The $10 million Merryman Center includes 2,400 square feet of medical space and a physician's suite. The suite is equipped with a new state-of-the-art X-ray system, a fluoroscopy unit and a minor procedure room. The training room also has offices for the staff, dozens of training tables, two cold tubs, whirlpools, an underwater treadmill, a Biodex System 3 and various other pieces of rehabilitation equipment and treatment modalities.

In addition, a training room has been constructed in Rector Field House to serve the football team when it practices indoors, and the Gordon Family Mobile Sports Medicine Unit is a portable training room that can be transported to various venues.

Athletes have many options to help prevent or protect them from injuries. The sports medicine staff takes great pride in treating athletes year-round. Special attention is paid to off-season activity. The staff will analyze past injury data from each participant and construct a preventative program that is followed over a nine-week period between the end of the season and the beginning of spring practice. This same procedure is followed during the summer.

A vital part of student-athlete medical services is access to the LewisGale Hospital at Montgomery's SWVA Center for Orthopaedics and various specialty services offered through HCA Southwest Virginia and its affiliated hospitals.

"We are privileged to have access to the finest physicians and services that HCA has at its disposal," said Goforth. "It is comforting knowing that our local hospital has the best care available in this region of the country for our student-athletes."

If physical therapy is needed, student-athletes can be seen in the Ferrell Training Room by physical therapists Chris Rogers and Erin Gibson, both of whom play a large role in the overall program developed to return an injured athlete to 100 percent. Team chiropractor, Dr. Greg Tilley, provides Tech athletes with specialized treatment for spine-related conditions and plays a huge role in performance enhancement through various chiropractic techniques.

"As certified athletic trainers, for us to have the resources of folks like Erin Gibson, Chris Rogers, Greg Tilley and Gary Bennett is a tremendous asset," Goforth said. "The knowledge and skills that they bring is invaluable."

Team orthopaedic surgeons Dr. Marc Siegel and Dr. James Farmer bring a wealth of experience and skill to assist when athletes need orthopaedic consultation for certain types of sports-related injuries.

Over the past 11 years, Tech has developed the reputation for producing top-level certified athletic trainers. Graduates are now employed in positions across the country at various levels of the profession. This year, the staff will consist of three graduate assistant athletic trainers: Chris Denault, Jon Clark Teglas and Brett Griesemer.

MIKE GOFORTH

ASSOCIATE ATHLETICS DIRECTOR FOR SPORTS MEDICINE

Responsibilities: As associate athletics director for sports medicine, Goforth oversees healthcare needs of all student-athletes and organizes all trainers and doctors while supervising all other services Tech offers.

Joined VT Staff: 1998; 13th year.

Prior to Virginia Tech: Goforth came to Tech from the Hamilton Medical Center/Bradley Wellness Center in Dalton, Ga., where he was the director of wellness and sports medicine. He has an extensive background in sports medicine, working at East Tennessee State University, William Fleming High School, Tusculum College, Greene County Sports Medicine/Industrial Cooperative and Pioneer Sports Medicine/Physical Therapy Clinic. He also has numerous opportunities to consult on program development throughout the country.

Education: East Tennessee State University, 1991, physical education; Virginia Tech, 1995, master's in sport management.

Family: Goforth and his wife, Tracy, a teacher at Blacksburg Middle School, have two sons – Ethan, 14, and Luke, 10.

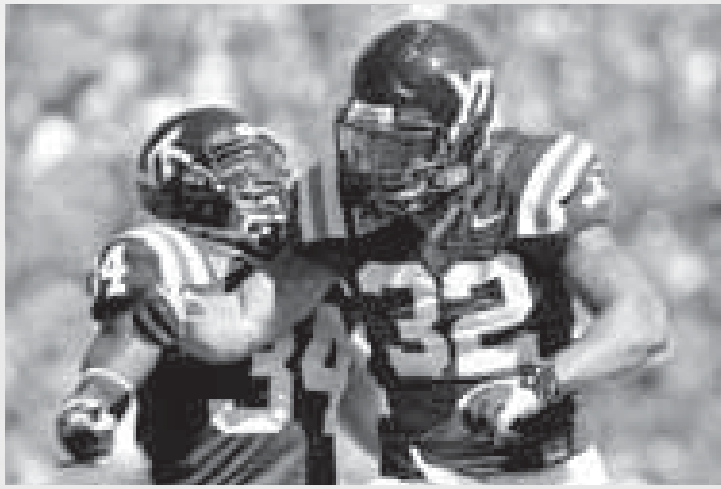
2010 REVIEW



2010 SEASON IN REVIEW

ACC TITLE HIGHLIGHTS A SEVENTH-STRAIGHT 10-WIN CAMPAIGN

The Virginia Tech football squad opened the 2010 season with a big showdown against No. 3 Boise State at an electric FedExField. The Hokies found themselves with a 17-0 deficit by the end of the first quarter, but with the leadership of senior quarterback Tyrod Taylor and two touchdowns by Ryan Williams, Tech went into halftime only trailing 20-14. After three lead changes in a back-and-forth game, Boise State ultimately came out with the victory as the Broncos' quarterback Kellen Moore threw a 13-yard touchdown pass in the final minute for a 33-30 win.

After the heartbreaking loss, the Hokies found themselves playing the Dukes of James Madison University just five days later. Virginia Tech struck first when Taylor completed a touchdown pass to junior receiver Jarrett Boykin at the end of the first quarter. The Hokies then had to settle for three straight field goals by senior kicker Chris Hazley, allowing the Dukes to hang around as the Hokies carried a slight lead, 16-14, heading into the final quarter. JMU took its first lead of the ball game early in the fourth quarter and did not relinquish it, shocking the Hokies with a 21-16 victory and handing them their first 0-2 start since the 1995 season.

The Hokies found themselves down 10-0 against East Carolina midway through the first quarter, but Williams scored on a 2-yard run at the end of the quarter to put the Hokies on the board. Both teams scored twice in the second quarter and the Pirates led 24-21 at halftime. After an ECU field goal early in the third quarter, the Hokies went on to score 28 unanswered points, including an interception return for a touchdown by senior cornerback Rashad Carmichael en route to a 49-27 win.

Tech then traveled to Chestnut Hill to face Boston College. With the game scoreless at the end of the first quarter, Tech was able to score early in the second quarter on a 3-yard touchdown run by Darren Evans. This would be the only touchdown of the game as Hazley's four field goals lifted the Hokies to a 19-0 victory.

Tech arrived in Raleigh to face No. 23 NC State and quickly fell behind 17-0 early in the second quarter. After a Taylor touchdown pass to tight end Andre Smith, Virginia Tech headed into halftime trailing 17-7. A big kickoff return for a score by David Wilson to open the second half sparked the Hokies, and they took their first lead of the game at the start of the fourth quarter. A Boykin touchdown gave the Hokies a 34-30 lead, but State still had a chance to win on its final drive until sophomore Jayron Hosley made a game-saving interception with just over a minute to go. Tech tacked on a late score to complete a 41-30 win, the biggest comeback under head coach Frank Beamer.

The Hokies were on a three-game winning streak when they headed home to face Central Michigan. Although CMU took a 7-0 lead early in the first quarter, the Hokies proved to be too much for the Chippewas as they never lost the lead after they went up 14-7 early in the second quarter and rolled to a 45-21 win.

Tech then welcomed Wake Forest for Homecoming and was able to get on the board first, taking an early 7-0 lead after Taylor completed a 2-yard touchdown pass to backup quarterback Logan Thomas. Virginia Tech held the lead for the remainder of the game as Evans had three rushing touchdowns and Taylor threw for 292 yards in the 52-21 victory.

At 5-2, Tech returned to the polls ranked 23rd when it faced the Duke Blue Devils the next week. This one was never in doubt as Taylor completed 13-of-17 passes for 280 yards and three touchdown passes in the 44-7 win.

The Hokies found themselves trailing 14-0 at the end of the first quarter to Georgia Tech in a Thursday night game and after a scoreless third quarter, the Hokies were able to score 14 points in the fourth quarter to take the lead. Georgia Tech scored with two minutes remaining to even the score at 21, but Wilson returned the ensuing kickoff 90 yards for the touchdown as the Hokies went on to win 28-21 in dramatic fashion.

With a breakout performance from Marcus Davis, the Hokies were able to defeat the North Carolina Tar Heels 26-10 the next week on the road. Davis caught two touchdown passes and Tech's defense held North Carolina scoreless in the second half, while forcing six turnovers.

Up next was another classic battle with Miami. With the game knotted at 17 early in the fourth quarter, Williams made a game-changing play when he broke free for an 84-yard touchdown run. Seven minutes later, Hosley intercepted a pass and returned it to the Miami 25-yard line, setting up Taylor's 18-yard touchdown run to seal the 31-17 win.

Tech concluded the regular season with a home game against in-state rival Virginia as 16 seniors were looking to end their careers in Lane Stadium with a win. After a slow first quarter, the Hokies were able to get a couple of big plays to turn the momentum around, including an interception by free safety Eddie Whitley and a big stop by Bruce Taylor when the Cavaliers attempted a fake punt. All three tailbacks scored touchdowns as Virginia Tech handily defeated Virginia for the seventh-straight season, 37-7.

Virginia Tech fans flocked to Charlotte to see the Hokies take on Florida State for the ACC title. The Seminoles got on the board first with a field goal on their first drive. But the Tech defense was able to put points on the board after Bruce Taylor deflected a pass and Jeron Gouveia-Winslow caught it and took it into the end zone. The Hokies never lost the lead after that as Virginia Tech amassed 442 yards of total offense and scored five more touchdowns, defeating the Seminoles 44-33 to claim their fourth title in seven years.

The Hokies became the first team in FBS history to start 0-2 and reel off 11 wins in a row, but finished the season with a 40-12 loss to fifth-ranked Stanford in the Discover Orange Bowl.

THE ACC CHAMPIONSHIP:

TAYLOR LEADS HOKIES TO ACC CROWN, 44-33

Bank of America Stadium • Charlotte, N.C.
Dec. 4, 2010 • Attendance: 72,379

Virginia Tech earned its third ACC football championship in a four-season span, as Tyrod Taylor passed for three touchdowns and ran for another in the Hokies' convincing 44-33 victory over No. 20 Florida State in the Dr. Pepper ACC Championship Game.

A 24-yard interception return for a touchdown by Jeron Gouveia-Winslow put Tech in front 7-3 midway through the first quarter and the Hokies never relinquished the lead. Tech converted 13 of 18 third downs and did not have a turnover on the way to 442 yards of total offense.

Taylor passed for 263 yards and added 24 yards on the ground, while receiver Danny Coale hauled in six passes for 143 yards. Taylor was named the game's MVP for the second time in his career.

The Tech defense contributed a pair of interceptions and held the Seminoles to 53 yards on the ground.

HOKIE ALL-AMERICANS

VIRGINIA TECH'S UNANIMOUS ALL-AMERICA SELECTIONS

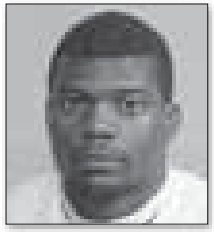
JIM PYNE
Center • 1993

In 1993, Jim Pyne achieved something even Bruce Smith failed to do – earn unanimous All-America honors. Pyne helped pave the way for an offensive unit that set school season marks for total offense and scoring in 1993.

The Hokies averaged 444.1 yards and 36.4 points per game and finished 14th nationally in total offense, 11th in scoring offense and 10th in rushing.

Pyne was named first-team All-America by the AP, UPI, Walter Camp, the Football Writers Association and the Football Coaches Association (Kodak). He was one of the 12 semifinalists for the Lombardi Award, which goes to the nation's top lineman.

In four seasons at Tech, Pyne played more than 2,700 snaps and allowed just one quarterback sack. He started 35 consecutive games and 41 of the 42 games in which he played.



COREY MOORE
Def. End • 1998, 1999 (Unanimous)

Following an outstanding senior season in 1999, Corey Moore was voted first-team on all six major All-America teams to become the Hokies' second unanimous All-American. He was selected first-team by the AP, the Football Writers Association, the Football Coaches Association, Walter Camp, The Sporting News and Football News.

Moore posted a BIG EAST record 17 sacks during the '99 season to go with 11 other TFLs and 60 total tackles.

He also earned All-America honors in 1998 when he led the BIG EAST with 13.5 sacks. He gained first-team All-America recognition from the Football Coaches Association. Moore was a second-team pick by the AP and The Sporting News and a third-team choice of Football News.

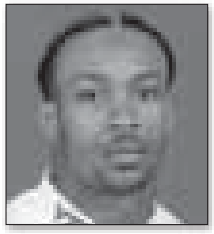
JAKE GROVE
Center • 2003

Jake Grove became the third unanimous All-American in Tech football history when he was named to the first team of all five recognized All-America squads: the Football Writers Association of America, the American Football Coaches Association, The Sporting News, the Walter Camp Football Foundation and the AP.

As a senior, he was named first-team All-BIG EAST and was presented the Rimington Trophy in Lincoln, Neb., honoring the nation's top collegiate center.

In 13 regular season games, Grove graded out at 91.8 percent on over 700 offensive plays and led the offensive line in knockdowns with 48.

He went on to be drafted in the second round by the Oakland Raiders in the 2004 NFL Draft as the first center taken.



JIMMY WILLIAMS
Defensive Back • 2005

Jimmy Williams became Tech's fourth unanimous All-American in football history when he was named to the first team of all five recognized All-America squads: the Football Writers Association of America, the American Football Coaches Association, The Sporting News, the Walter Camp Football Foundation and the AP.

As a senior, he was named first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference and was one of three finalists for the Jim Thorpe award, honoring the nation's top collegiate defensive back.

In 13 games, he recorded 44 tackles, including two for loss and a sack, along with 14 quarterback hurries, five pass break ups and an interception.

He went on to be drafted in the second round by the Atlanta Falcons in the 2006 NFL Draft.

THE HOKIES' OTHER FIRST-TEAM SELECTIONS

CARROLL DALE E • 1959

After earning second-team Associated Press All-America honors as a junior in 1958, Carroll Dale went on to become the first Virginia Tech football player to earn first-team All-America honors following the 1959 season. Dale was named to the Football Writers Association (LOOK Magazine) and Newspaper Enterprise Association first teams as a senior and was once again a second-team choice by the AP. He led Tech in receiving four straight years and finished the '59 season with 17 receptions for 408 yards and six touchdowns.

BOB SCHWEICKERT QB • 1964

One of the finest triple-threat quarterbacks in the history of the Southern Conference, Bob Schweickert was named to the LOOK All-America team picked by the Football Writers Association following the 1964 season. Schweickert fought off injuries during the '64 season to rush for 576 yards and nine touchdowns and pass for 833 yards and nine more TDs. He also handled the punting duties with a 37.7-yard average. As a junior in 1963, Schweickert earned third-team All-America honors from The Associated Press.

FRANK LORIA S • 1966, 1967 (CONSENSUS)

Safety Frank Loria was the first Tech football player to gain first-team All-America honors in back-to-back seasons and became the Hokies' first consensus All-America pick in 1967. As a junior in 1966, Loria helped Tech to the Liberty Bowl, contributing three interceptions and returning three punts for touchdowns. He was named to first-team A-A squads picked by The Associated Press and the Football Writers Association and was a second-team selection by the Helms Athletic Foundation. Loria was named to six major All-America squads following the 1967 season. He finished the year with three interceptions and 420 yards on punt returns, including a 95-yard return for a TD against Miami. His first-team honors came from the AP, United Press International, NEA, the Football Coaches Association, the Football Writers Association and the Walter Camp Foundation.

MIKE WIDGER LB • 1968

Mike Widger capped an incredible junior season by earning first-team All-America honors from The Associated Press and the Football Writers Association. Widger compiled a record 825 tackling points and was among the national leaders in pass interceptions (7) and return yardage (203 yards). He returned two of his interceptions for touchdowns and scored another TD after pulling the football loose from a Kansas State running back and racing 46 yards to the end zone.

BRUCE SMITH DT • 1983, 1984 (CONSENSUS)

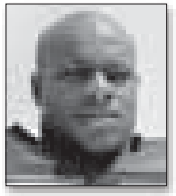
Bruce Smith was named to first-team All-America squads picked by the Football Coaches Association and the Newspaper Enterprise Association after registering an incredible 22 quarterback sacks as a junior in 1983. Smith, who also was named to The Associated Press second team that year, finished with a total of 55 tackles, 31 of which were behind the line of scrimmage. As a senior in 1984, Smith accumulated 16 sacks and nine other tackles behind the line. He finished the year with 69 total tackles and was a consensus All-America pick, making first teams selected by the AP, the Football Writers of America, Kodak and Walter Camp.

EUGENE CHUNG OT • 1991

When Eugene Chung was named to the Football Writers Association All-America team following his senior season, he became the first Tech offensive lineman to win first-team All-America honors. Chung started every game at tackle for the Hokies in 1991, allowing just one quarterback sack in 730 plays. The Washington Gridiron Club honored Chung as the National Lineman of the Year.

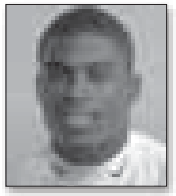


CORNELL BROWN DE • 1995 (CONSENSUS), 1996

Cornell Brown became the first Virginia Tech football player to gain consensus All-America honors as a junior when he was named to five first teams in 1995. Brown was a first-team A-A pick by AP, UPI, the Football Writers Association, The Sporting News and Football News. He finished the year with 103 total tackles, including a BIG EAST-leading 14 sacks. He was selected National Defensive Player of the Year by Football News and was one of five finalists for the Defensive Player of the Year. In 1996, Brown missed three games, but still earned first-team honors from Walter Camp and second-team recognition from AP. He posted eight sacks, five other tackles behind the line, 19 quarterback hurries and 58 total tackles during the '96 season.

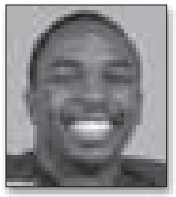
BILLY CONATY C • 1996

Considered one of the top offensive linemen in school history, Bill Conaty saw action on 98 percent of Virginia Tech's offensive plays in 1996 and went on to earn first-team All-America honors from The Sporting News. Conaty helped the Hokies to a 10-2 record and a trip to the Orange Bowl that season, grading a winning percentage in 10 of the 12 games and leading the squad with 65 knockdown blocks. He finished his career by setting an all-time school record for starts and consecutive starts with 48.



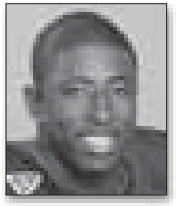
MICHAEL VICK QB • 1999

In a spectacular freshman season that saw him lead Virginia Tech to its first-ever 11-0 regular season and its first appearance in the national championship game, Michael Vick became the first Tech freshman football player to earn first-team All-America honors. Vick was named first-team by The Sporting News. He also was a second-team pick by The Associated Press. The redshirt freshman quarterback was third in the voting for the 1999 Heisman Trophy and second in the voting for the AP Player of the Year. Vick led Division I-A in passing efficiency (180.37), setting an NCAA record for a freshman in the process. He completed 59.2 percent of his passes for 1,840 yards and 12 touchdowns. He also contributed 585 yards and eight TDs rushing.



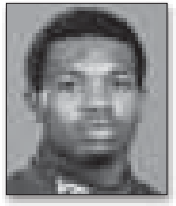
ANDRÉ DAVIS PR • 2000

André Davis finished the 2000 season second in the Division I-A ranks in punt returns and earned first-team All-America honors on the American Football Coaches Association team as a return specialist. Davis returned 18 punts for 396 yards for a school-record average of 22 yards per return. He tied another school season mark when he returned three punts for touchdowns. His 87-yard TD return against East Carolina was the second-longest in school history.



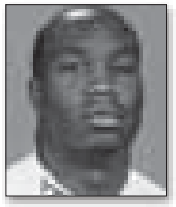
KEVIN JONES RB • 2003 (CONSENSUS)

One of the highest-rated recruits ever to sign with Virginia Tech, Kevin Jones rushed for a school-record 1,647 yards, including 241 yards against Pittsburgh, on 281 attempts with 21 touchdowns as a junior in '03. He went on to earn first-team All-America honors from The Sporting News, The Walter Camp Football Foundation, FWAA and AFCA. He was named to the second team by AP.



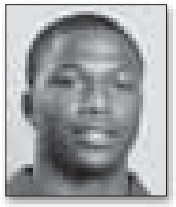
DARRYL TAPP DE • 2005

Considered one of the best defensive ends in school history, Darryl Tapp capped an incredible career, earning first-team All-America honors by AFCA and second-team honors by The Associated Press. During his senior season, Tapp, who started all 13 games, recorded team-bests for sacks, tackles for loss and forced fumbles. He recorded 10 sacks, 14.5 tackles for loss and three forced fumbles. Tapp was also fifth on the team in tackles. He won the Dudley Award, given to the state's top player, and was a Lott Trophy finalist.



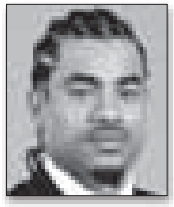
XAVIER ADIBI LB • 2007

Xavier Adibi teamed with fellow linebacker Vince Hall throughout his career to form what was arguably the best linebacking duo in school history. Though he enjoyed a breakout season as a junior, Adibi put up eye-popping numbers as a senior on his way to first-team All-America honors from the American Football Coaches Association. He led the team with 115 tackles, including 12 tackles for loss, while chipping in three sacks and two interceptions – one of which he returned for a touchdown. In addition to being named first-team All-ACC, Adibi was also awarded a spot on The Associated Press All-America third team.



BRANDON FLOWERS CB • 2007

Despite leaving a year early for the NFL, cornerback Brandon Flowers became only the seventh Hokie to be named a two-time All-American when he was placed on the American Football Coaches Association first team after his junior season. He was also named second team by both the Associated Press and the Walter Camp Football Foundation. Flowers was a third-team AP honoree as a sophomore. In 2007, he placed third on the team with 86 tackles from his secondary spot, adding eight tackles for loss in the process. After leading the ACC in 2006 in passes broken up and passes defended, opponents shied away from him as a junior, but he still managed nine breakups, 14 passes defended and a career-high five interceptions.



VICTOR "MACHO" HARRIS CB • 2008

One of the nation's top cornerbacks, Victor Harris earned first-team All-America honors from Sporting News and was a second-team pick by The Associated Press after a stellar senior season. Harris considered entering the NFL Draft following his junior year, but decided to return, earning his degree along with A-A honors. He tied for 11th nationally in interceptions with six, two of which he returned for touchdowns. A two-time first-team All-ACC selection, he finished fourth in the league in interceptions and passes defended, and third in punt returns. His 15 career interceptions rank third all-time at Tech, while his four career TDs on picks are an all-time record for a Hokie.

JAYRON HOSLEY CB • 2010

Jayron Hosley tied a 43-year old Virginia Tech season record for interceptons on the way to being selected first-team on the Walter Camp All-America squad. Hosley led the nation in interceptions with nine and tied for third in most passes defended with 17. The sophomore cornerback was also a second-team A-A pick by The Associated Press and earned the National Defensive Back Trophy from the College Football Performance Awards. Hosley was named first team All-ACC after topping the league in both interceptions and passes defended. He also ranked second among ACC players in punt returns.

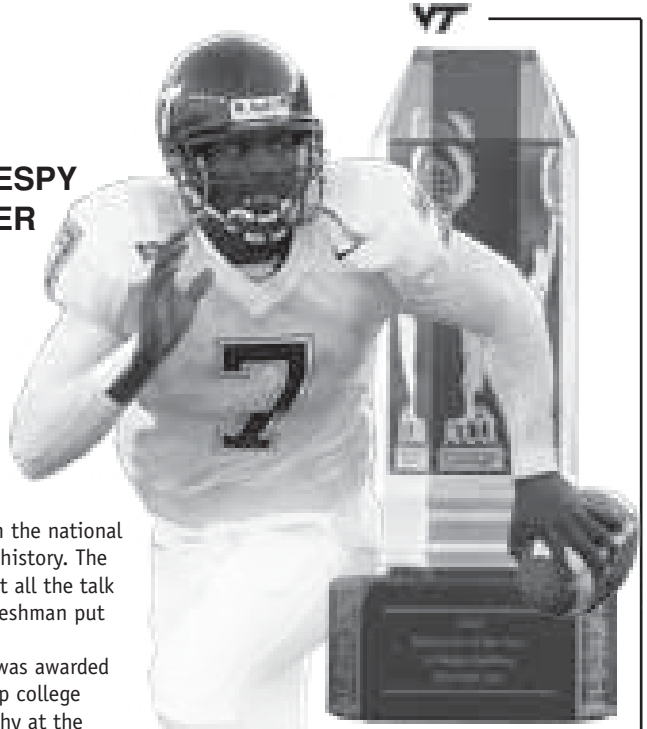
NATIONAL HONORS

JAKE GROVE WON THE RIMINGTON TROPHY IN 2003

Jake Grove arrived on the Virginia Tech campus as a lightly-recruited guard from Forest, Va. He left as a unanimous All-American, winner of the Rimington Trophy as the nation's top center and a second-round draft pick of the Oakland Raiders.

Heading into his junior season, Grove made the switch over to the center position and became a natural fit. By the time he headed into his final season, he was gaining headlines and recognition for his play. He was rewarded by being named to all five major All-America first teams. He was awarded the Dave Rimington Trophy, given to the nation's top collegiate center.

MICHAEL VICK WON AN ESPY AS THE NATIONAL PLAYER OF THE YEAR IN 1999



When Michael Vick took to the field against James Madison on Sept. 4, 1999, little did people in attendance or watching on television realize they would be witnessing the beginning of the most exciting two years in Virginia Tech football history.

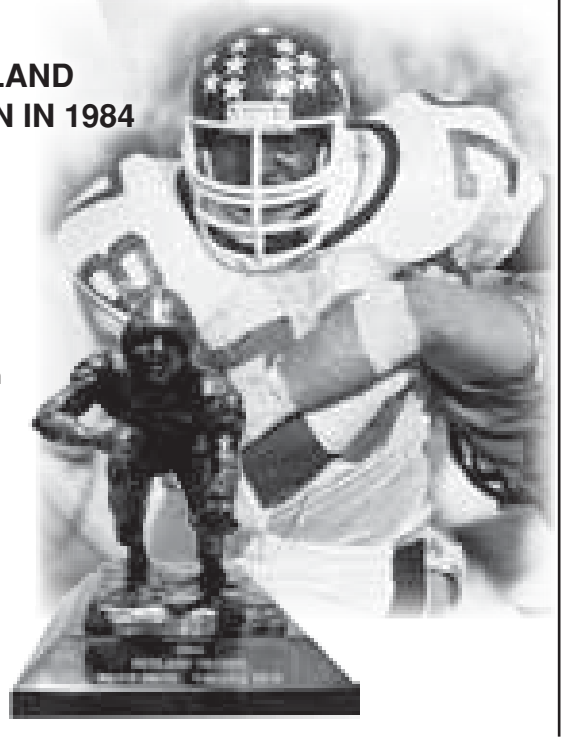
In 1999, Vick led the Hokies to a perfect 11-0 regular season and a berth in the national championship game, both firsts in school history. The Hokies lost that game to Florida State, but all the talk was about the performance the redshirt freshman put on in that game.

For his accomplishments that year, he was awarded an ESPY by ESPN, given to the nation's top college football player. Vick was awarded the trophy at the ESPY ceremonies on Feb. 14, 2000, in Las Vegas as he mingled with some of sports' all-time greats.

COREY MOORE EARNED THE LOMBARDI AND NAGURSKI AWARDS IN 1999

In three years on campus, Corey Moore amassed 35.0 sacks for losses, totaling 292 yards. He left Tech as the most decorated player ever to put on the Hokie uniform. He won the 1999 Bronko Nagurski Award as college football's Defensive Player of the Year. Moore also won the 1999 Lombardi Award as college football's lineman of the year. He became Tech's second-ever unanimous All-American, joining Jim Pyne. Moore won the Dudley Award as the top college player in Virginia, the BIG EAST Defensive Player of the Year award and was selected as Football News' Defensive Player of the Year.

BRUCE SMITH WON THE OUTLAND TROPHY AS THE TOP LINEMAN IN 1984



Bruce Smith, "The Sack Man" of Virginia Tech football, capped his sensational college career in 1984 by winning the Outland Trophy as America's top lineman.

The big announcement was made by Wilt Browning at a press luncheon in Tech's Bowman Room. Browning, a sports columnist of The Greensboro Daily News and a committee member of the Football Writers' Association of America, began by reading a long list of former Outland Trophy winners. He then said, "Add to that list today, the 1984 winner – Bruce Smith of Virginia Tech."

"The one thing though, that stuck in my mind was the statistic on his tackles for losses," Browning said. "In four years at Virginia Tech, he accounted for losses totaling more than five times the length of a football field (504 yards). That's amazing."

Smith was a consensus All-American and was the first Virginian to win one of the national awards (including the Heisman and the Lombardi).

RETIRED NUMBERS & JERSEYS

84 CARROLL DALE

A native of Wise, Va., Carroll Dale entered Virginia Tech in 1956 as an offensive and defensive end. After seeing varsity action as a reserve in the first game of the '56 season, Dale went on to start the remaining 39 games of his college career and became Tech's first bona fide All-American. As a junior in 1958, he was named the Southern Conference Player of the Year. In 1959, Dale was captain of the Tech team and earned first-team A-A honors. Dale led the Hokies in pass receiving each of his four seasons and finished his Tech career with 67 catches for 1,195 yards and 15 touchdowns. He went on to a pro football career that lasted more than a decade and was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1987. His Tech jersey was the first to be retired.

10 FRANK LORIA

Despite his 5-9, 175-pound frame, Frank Loria was one of the most tenacious football players ever to play for Virginia Tech. Loria, who started every game at safety from 1965-67, rapidly established himself as one of Tech's all-time greats. During his junior year, he earned first-team All-American honors. As a senior in 1967, Loria became Tech's first consensus All-American, making seven first-team All-American squads. He finished his Tech career with seven interceptions and a number of punt return records. He went on to coach at Marshall. In 1970, at age 23, he died in an airplane tragedy that claimed the lives of the Marshall football team and staff. He was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1999. His number was retired prior to the 1971 season.

78 BRUCE SMITH

Known as "The Sack Man" of Virginia Tech football, Bruce Smith capped his sensational college career in 1984. As a Tech player, Smith had a career total of 71 tackles behind the line of scrimmage for losses totaling 504 yards. Smith had 46 career quarterback sacks, including 22 during his junior season in 1983 when he was named first-team All-America. In 1984, the Norfolk, Va., native won the Outland Trophy as America's top lineman and was a consensus All-American. Smith was the No. 1 player picked in the 1985 National Football League draft. During his pro career, he established himself as one of the greatest defensive players ever to play the game. He ended his career in 2003 as the NFL's all-time sack leader with 200.

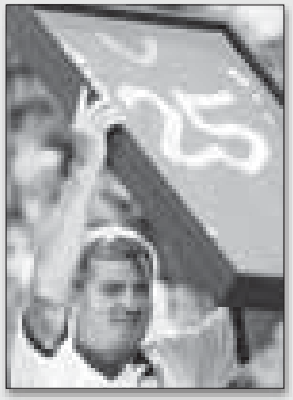
73 JIM PYNE

Center Jim Pyne became Virginia Tech's first unanimous All-American when he made all five major teams that were selected in 1993. In addition to All-America honors, Pyne was named winner of the Dudley Award as Virginia's Player of the Year. During his four seasons at Tech, he established himself as one of the Hokies' top linemen of all time, leading the charge for the 1993 team that rewrote the school record books for scoring and total offense. Pyne started 35 consecutive games and 41 of the 42 Tech games in which he played. He allowed just one quarterback sack by the man he was assigned to block during more than 2,700 career snaps. Pyne spent nine seasons as an NFL lineman before becoming an assistant coach in the pro ranks.

BEAMER AMONG FIVE WHO HAVE HAD JERSEYS RETIRED

In 2002, the Virginia Tech Athletics Department developed a new policy on retiring football jerseys. This special honor is bestowed to acknowledge an individual who has won an established national award in their sport, while allowing the number to continue to be worn by others. Tech no longer retires numbers. That year, three jerseys were retired in ceremonies. The jerseys of Frank Beamer, Cornell Brown and Michael Vick were the first to be honored. In 2006, Jake Grove had the same honor bestowed upon him. Corey Moore's jersey was retired in 2009.

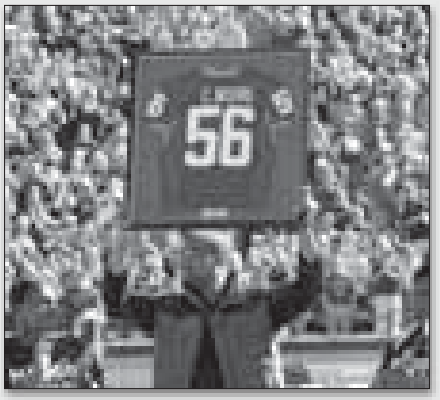
Michael Vick
Sept. 1, 2002
Winner of the 2000 ESPY as College Football's Performer of the Year.



Frank Beamer
Sept. 12, 2002
Winner of eight national coach of the year awards following Tech's 1999 season.

Cornell Brown
Nov. 20, 2002
Named the 1995 National Defensive Player of the Year by Football News in 1995.

Jake Grove
Sept. 23, 2006
Winner of the 2003 Rimington Trophy, given to the nation's top collegiate center.



Corey Moore

BEAMERBALL

- During the Frank Beamer era at Tech, putting points on the scoreboard has always been a team effort – the offense, the defense and the special teams. It's called BeamerBall, and what sets it apart are the contributions of the defense and special teams.
- Eight of Tech's last 10 teams are ranked among the school's top 10 highest scoring teams in terms of total points. During Beamer's time at Tech, a player at every position on the defensive unit has produced at least one touchdown, and 34 different players have scored touchdowns while playing on Tech's special teams. Altogether, the defense and special teams have combined for 129 TDs since Beamer arrived in 1987, including 112 in Tech's past 218 games.
- Under Beamer, Tech's defense has scored 82 TDs, with 54 coming on pass interceptions, 26 on fumble returns and two on fumble recoveries. The special teams have added 47 TDs, including 16 on blocked punts, 18 on punt returns, eight on kickoff returns, four on blocked field goals and one on a fumble recovery.
- Fittingly, the trend started in Beamer's first game as Tech's head coach when true freshman Jon Jeffries returned a kickoff 92 yards for a touchdown against Clemson. It was the Hokies' first TD under Beamer, and it was the first of many scored by the special teams.
- Under Beamer, 80 different players on defense and special teams have scored TDs. Twenty-three of those players – Don Stokes, Jock Jones, Roger Brown, Lawrence Lewis, Antonio Banks, Jim Baron, Keion Carpenter, Pierson Prioleau, Anthony Midget, Cory Bird, Kevin McCadam, Willie Pile, Jimmy Williams, Roland Minor, Vince Hall, D.J. Parker, Brandon Flowers, Chris Ellis, Vincent Fuller, Eric Green, Rashad Carmichael, David Wilson, Jayron Hosley – scored twice.
- Eddie Royal, Xavier Adibi, Jason Lallis, Ike Charlton and Ricky Hall each had three scores; André Davis had four; Victor Harris had five, and DeAngelo Hall had seven.
- Since the start of the 1993 season, Tech is 74-13 in games it scores at least one TD on defense or special teams. Tech is 78-23 under Beamer when scoring a non-offensive touchdown.

BEAMERBALL II

- Tech's tradition for blocking kicks is another part of BeamerBall. It was carried to new heights in 1998 with 10 blocks during the regular season and two more in the Hokies' Music City Bowl game against Alabama.
- Tech now has 127 blocks in Frank Beamer's 295 games as the head coach. The Hokies have blocked 62 punts (16 returned or recovered for TDs), 38 field goals and 27 extra points.
- The most prolific kick blockers under Beamer have been defensive lineman Bernard Basham (7 kicks) and safety Keion Carpenter (6 kicks). Basham blocked three field goals and four PATs, while Carpenter blocked six punts.
- Tech blocked more kicks in the 1990s than any other Division I-A team. The Hokies blocked 63 kicks during the decade – 31 punts, 18 PATs and 14 FGs. Tech had 46 blocks in the last decade.
- During the Beamer era, Tech has blocked two kicks in a game 22 times, winning 16 of those games. Tech blocked two kicks against four different teams in 1998.

TECH'S BOWL HISTORY

NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP APPEARANCE HIGHLIGHTS BOWL STREAK FOR THE HOKIES

Chris Kinzer's 40-yard field goal as time expired in the 1986 Peach Bowl gave Virginia Tech its first bowl victory.

The Virginia Tech bowl tradition dates back to 1947 when the Hokies appeared in the Sun Bowl, and in the 63 years since, more than one million fans have passed through the turnstiles to witness Tech compete in 23 bowl games in 11 different stadiums and in seven states. The closest distance Tech has traveled for a bowl game was to Atlanta, Ga., which is 413 miles from Lane Stadium, while in 2003, the Hokies traveled to San Francisco for their farthest game, 2,440 miles away.

No matter the mileage, members of the Hokie Nation have always showed up in droves to show their support, and the Chick-fil-A Bowl last season proved to be no different. Tech's invitation to the contest in Atlanta extended its bowl appearance streak to 17 consecutive years – the third-longest active streak in the country – as the Hokies defeated the Tennessee Vols in 2009.

1947 SUN BOWL

The first bowl bid that Tech received followed the 1946 season, when the Hokies played Cincinnati in the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Texas. An early snow covered Blacksburg that year and threatened to end all football practices. Bulldozers and snowplows were used to clear a practice area on the Drillfield and the Hokies got in their bowl preparations. The Tech team encountered more snowy weather when it reached El Paso. The Cincinnati team handled the weather and the Hokies, winning 18-6.

1966 LIBERTY BOWL

It was not until 1966 that Tech received another bowl bid. The Hokies were chosen to participate in the Liberty Bowl in Memphis, Tenn., against Miami (Fla.). The Hokies were 8-1-1 entering the contest and were led by All-American defensive back Frank Loria.

Miami, ranked ninth nationally, won 14-7 in a hard-hitting defensive struggle. The Hokies scored first on a 2-yard plunge by Tommy Francisco. But the Miami defense held Tech to only one first down in the last three quarters.

1968 LIBERTY BOWL

Tech returned to the Liberty Bowl two years later in 1968 and squared off against Mississippi. The Hokies were 7-3 after a rocky 2-3 start and were led by another defensive All-American, linebacker Mike Widger. Ole Miss had a quarterback by the name of Archie Manning and he sparked the Rebels to a 34-17 victory after Tech had taken a 17-0 first-quarter lead.

A member of Tech's 1966 and '68 bowl teams was none other than current head coach Frank Beamer, who was a starting defensive back. He was credited with three tackles in the 1968 game.

1980 PEACH BOWL

Tech next went bowling against Miami following the 1980 season and lost 20-10 in a hard-fought Peach Bowl contest. That Hokie team sported an 8-3 record and featured one of the finest defensive units in college football.

Tech tailback Cyrus Lawrence emerged as one of the biggest stars of the game. He rushed for 134 yards and scored the lone Hokie touchdown. Ashley Lee, then a freshman linebacker, had 15 tackles for the Techmen.

1984 INDEPENDENCE BOWL

In Tech's first trip to the Independence Bowl in 1984, Outland Trophy winner Bruce Smith led Tech against the Air Force Falcons. Tech's powerful defensive unit held Air Force to only three first downs in the first half, but the Falcons got rolling in the second half. Quarterback Bart Weiss, named the game's Most Valuable Player, was the ringleader as Air Force won the battle, 23-7.

1986 PEACH BOWL

Who will ever forget "The Kick"? It ended perhaps the most stirring bowl game of the 1986 season as Virginia Tech's Chris Kinzer booted a 40-yard field goal to vault the Hokies past North Carolina State in the New Peach Bowl. The 25-24 victory came with no time showing on the clock and provided Tech with one of its top moments in football history.

1993 INDEPENDENCE BOWL

Almost as dynamic was Tech's 45-20 win over Indiana of the Big Ten Conference in the 1993 Independence Bowl game.

The last minute of the first half of the Independence Bowl will be most remembered for its unbelievable action-packed ending. Virginia Tech was leading Indiana, 14-13, with only 35 seconds left until halftime. Indiana had the ball on the Tech 49-yard line, when DeWayne Knight exploded through the IU offensive line to cause a fumble. That is when Lawrence Lewis got "the world's greatest bounce," returning the loose ball 20 yards for a touchdown to give Tech a 21-13 lead over the Hoosiers.

The Hokies, however, were not finished with their dramatics. Tech's Jeff Holland blocked a Hoosiers' field goal try with no time left in the first half and Antonio Banks settled under the ball and raced 80 yards for a score to give the Hokies a 28-13 halftime lead.

1994 GATOR BOWL

At the end of the 1994 season, the Hokies fell to a tough Tennessee team, 45-23, in a transplanted Gator Bowl contest that was held at Florida Field in Gainesville.

The high-powered Volunteer offense totaled 495 yards in the affair behind another Manning, this time Archie's son Peyton, and highly-touted tailback James (Little Man) Stewart. Stewart, Tennessee's all-time leading rusher, ran for three touchdowns and threw for another score en route to earning the game's Most Valuable Player award.

Tech's Dwayne Thomas would not be outdone, dazzling the 62,200 fans in attendance by rushing 19 times for 102 yards and one touchdown. Thomas had a 1-yard burst for a score in the second quarter and rambled 27 yards to set up Maurice DeShazo's 7-yard touchdown run in the third quarter.

Bryan Still was named MVP of the 1995 Sugar Bowl after Tech beat Texas 28-10 and the Hokies jumped into the national limelight.

1995 NOKIA SUGAR BOWL

Tech's 28-10 Nokia Sugar Bowl victory over Texas in 1995 stands alone as the Hokies' biggest win in football postseason play.

The 1995 Sugar Bowl was special, indeed. It was, at the time, the most prestigious bowl appearance for the Hokies and they made the most of it. Tech overcame a 10-point deficit to beat Texas and earn one of the most stirring victories in the school's athletic history.

The momentum changed dramatically when game MVP Bryan Still returned a punt 60 yards for a Tech touchdown with 2:34 left in the first half.

Tech gained a lead in the third quarter (14-10) on a 1-yard plunge by Marcus Parker. Then Still hauled in a 54-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jim Druckenmiller on a play that spelled doom for the Longhorns.

It was Tech's defense that accounted for the team's final touchdown with 5:06 left in the game. All-American Cornell Brown picked up his second sack of the game, causing a fumble, and tackle Jim Baron scooped up the ball and ran 20 yards to score.

1996 FEDEX ORANGE BOWL

In 1996, the Hokies played Nebraska in another Alliance bowl, the FedEx Orange Bowl. That game, too, was a pressure cooker from start to finish. Nebraska won, 41-21, but led by only three points at 24-21 late in the third quarter.

A crowd of 51,212 at Pro Player Stadium saw Tech quarterback Jim Druckenmiller throw three touchdown passes despite a fierce rush by Cornhusker defenders.

1998 GATOR BOWL

The Hokies made their second trip to the Gator Bowl following the 1997 season to face North Carolina.

The Tar Heels impressed a crowd of 54,116 at Alltel Stadium by holding Tech to a total of 185 yards, its lowest total of the season, and beating the Hokies, 42-3. Tech's only points came on a 40-yard field goal by Shayne Graham late in the third quarter.

1998 MUSIC CITY BOWL

Tech bounced back strong in 1998 by capping a 9-3 season with an eye-opening 38-7 victory over Alabama in the inaugural Music City Bowl in Nashville. A sellout crowd braved freezing rain and a wind chill that dipped below 15 degrees to watch Tech post its first-ever win against the Crimson Tide.

Tech clung to a 10-7 lead at halftime before pulling away in the second half behind the defensive and special teams play of bowl MVP Corey Moore. The junior defensive end forced an interception that set up a Tech touchdown midway through the third quarter. Minutes later, he blocked an Alabama punt to pave the way for another Hokie TD. Tech went on to secure the win with two more touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

2000 NOKIA SUGAR BOWL

In the 1999 season, after a perfect 11-0 regular season campaign, the Hokies returned to the Nokia Sugar Bowl – this time to play for the national championship.

Tech once again put on a great show after a furious comeback led by quarterback Michael Vick. The Hokies led heavily favored Florida State heading into the fourth quarter before falling to the top-ranked Seminoles, 46-29.

2001 GATOR BOWL

For the second time in school history, the Hokies appeared in the same bowl back-to-back when they made the trip to the Gator Bowl in both 2001 and 2002.

Nearly 20,000 Hokie faithful watched Vick play his last game in a Tech uniform in the 2001 game in Jacksonville, Fla., against Clemson. Tailback Lee Suggs ran for three scores and the defense limited the Tigers to 88 yards rushing as the Hokies earned the fifth bowl win in school history. Tech capped its 10-1 season with 41-20 victory over Clemson.

2002 GATOR BOWL

Despite André Davis' 158 receiving yards in his final game as a Hokie, Tech was unable to hold off Florida State and lost the 2002 Gator Bowl, 30-17. The senior class that joined Davis in its last game at the Gator Bowl went down as the winningest class in school history, at the time, with a 39-9 record.

2002 DIAMOND WALNUT SAN FRANCISCO BOWL

The Hokies took their show to the West Coast following the 2002 season and captured a win in the Diamond Walnut San Francisco Bowl. Tech's 20-13 victory over Air Force gave the Hokies a 10-4 final record and marked the third time in four years that Tech had posted 10 or more victories. Tech quarterback Bryan Randall was named the game's most valuable offensive player. He completed 18-of-23 passes for 177 yards and did not have any turnovers.

2003 INSIGHT BOWL

Following the 2003 season, the Hokies made the trip out to Arizona, where they were downed by the California Bears 52-49 in the 2003 Insight Bowl, which was held in front of 42,364 fans at Bank One Ballpark in Phoenix. Cal kicker Tyler Frederickson made a 35-yard field goal on the final play of the game that lifted the Bears past the Hokies. The Hokies, who were playing in their 11th-consecutive bowl game, finished the season 8-5 overall.

The loss overshadowed a brilliant game by Tech's offense. Randall had four touchdown passes and a rushing TD, while Keith Willis became the first Tech player ever to catch two touchdown passes in a bowl game. Ernest Wilford broke Antonio Freeman's career mark for receptions, and Kevin Jones, who played in his final game as a Hokie before heading to the NFL, led the Hokie rushing attack with 16 carries for 153 yards and one touchdown.

2005 NOKIA SUGAR BOWL

In the 2004 season, Tech capped its improbable run to the Atlantic Coast Conference title by beating Miami, which led to a berth in the Nokia Sugar Bowl for the third time. Like in 1995 and 1999, Tech fans came out in droves to support their Hokies as the game was a sell-out and resulted in a an economic impact of $209.92 million for the city and state.

Randall had a pair of touchdown passes, but the third-ranked Auburn Tigers held on for a 16-13 win over the Hokies in a hard-fought battle in New Orleans. Randall's final toss, an 80-yarder to freshman Josh Morgan, broke the Tech career touchdown passing mark. The loss couldn't take away from a dream season which saw the Hokies win the ACC title in their first year in the league while posting a 10-3 mark and a final national ranking of No. 10.

2006 TOYOTA GATOR BOWL

Although the Hokies got off to a slow start in the Toyota Gator Bowl after the 2005 campaign, they twice rallied from an 11-point deficit to beat Louisville, 35-24, on Jan. 2, 2006, to break a two-game bowl losing streak.

The high-powered Cardinals' offense scored on both of its first two possessions to take a 14-3 lead, but Tech cut that margin to 17-10 at the half. Louisville built the lead back to 11 at 24-13 before the Hokies scored 22 fourth-quarter points – capped by an interception return for a touchdown by linebacker James Anderson – to rally for the win. Cedric Humes was named the game's MVP, and the defense gave up 343 yards of total offense to finish the season ranked No. 1 in the nation in total defense.

2006 CHICK-FIL-A BOWL

The Chick-fil-A Bowl matchup with Georgia on Dec. 30, 2006 was a tale of two halves, with the Bulldogs emerging by a score of 31-24 to halt the Hokies' six-game winning streak. At the intermission, it looked as if Tech might waltz to an easy victory after holding Georgia to 47 yards of offense while building a 21-3 lead.

The Hokies collapsed in the second half, however, as their opponent racked up 28 unanswered points and Tech turned the ball over on four straight possessions. Despite the loss, the Hokies ended the season with at least 10 wins for the ninth time in their history, and finished as the nation's top-ranked defense for the second-straight year.

2008 FEDEX ORANGE BOWL

After winning the ACC championship, the Hokies were awarded a bid to the 2008 FedEx Orange Bowl, their 15th-consecutive bowl game. Tech trimmed a 17-point first-half deficit to three points in the second half, but couldn't quite get over the hump, falling to the Kansas Jayhawks 24-21.

With the loss, Tech's season ended at 11-3 overall, and the Hokies saw their five-game winning streak snapped.

It certainly was not the best of evenings for the Hokies. Tech turned the ball over three times and those three turnovers led to 17 Kansas points. The Hokies also had a field goal blocked, allowed a first down on a fake punt that ultimately led to a score, and gave up five sacks.

Even with the loss, Tech's 20 seniors finished as the winningest class in school history, recording a 42-11 overall record.

2009 FEDEX ORANGE BOWL

The Hokies earned a return trip to the FedEx Orange Bowl after beating Boston College for the second-straight season in the ACC Championship Game. This time Tech approached its bowl preparation in a different manner and it paid off with a convincing 20-7 victory over No. 12 Cincinnati.

After giving up a touchdown on UC's first drive, Tech manhandled the BIG EAST champion Bearcats for the final 57 minutes of the game. The Hokies controlled the football for nearly 40 minutes, piling up 258 yards on the ground.

Redshirt freshman tailback Darren Evans spearheaded the rushing attack, carrying the football 28 times for 153 yards on the way to MVP honors in the game. Evans and quarterback Tyrod Taylor ran for touchdowns, while kicker Dustin Keys contributed a pair of field goals.

The defense stalled the high-powered Cincinnati offense and intercepted a Tech bowl-record four passes. One of those interceptions, a pick by end Orion Martin at the UC 10-yard line early in the fourth quarter, was the play of the game for the Hokies.

The win capped a 10-4 season for the Hokies and vaulted them to No. 15 in the final AP poll.

2009 CHICK-FIL-A BOWL

Tech played a near-flawless second half on the way to an impressive 37-14 victory over the University of Tennessee in the Chick-fil-A Bowl. The win capped a late-season run that saw the Hokies win their final five games to finish 10-3 and earn the No. 10 spot in the final AP poll.

Record-setting tailback Ryan Williams helped Tech bolt to a 14-0 lead early in the game with a pair of short touchdown runs. The Volunteers managed to tie the game in the second quarter, but with just 18 seconds remaining in the half, the Hokies stole the Vols' momentum. With the ball at its own 33-yard line, Tech gambled, and quarterback Tyrod Taylor connected with end Jarrett Boykin on a 63-yard pass that set up a Matt Waldron field goal as time expired.

Taylor's play set the tone for what would be a dominating second half for the Hokies. Williams carried the football on seven straight plays on Tech's opening possession of the second half. On the eighth play, Taylor scored from a yard out to give Tech a 24-14 lead.

The Hokies' offense scored on four of five second-half possessions, with Waldron booting two more field goals and true freshman David Wilson adding a final touchdown. Waldron's three field goals were a Tech record for a bowl game.

Defensively, the Hokies were relentless, posting six QB sacks, intercepting a pass, causing and recovering a fumble and holding UT to just 240 total yards. Tennessee managed only 5 yards rushing on 31 attempts and converted just four third-downs into first downs. The Tech defense finished the season without allowing a point in the second half of the final five games.

2011 DISCOVER ORANGE BOWL

Stanford scored touchdowns on its first four possessions of the second half to break open a close game and down the Hokies 40-12 in the Discover Orange Bowl played in front of 65,453 fans at Sun Life Stadium. The loss snapped an 11-game winning streak, leaving Tech with an 11-3 overall record.

Stanford quarterback Andrew Luck led the Cardinal attack, which posted 534 yards of total offense. Luck completed 18-of-23 for 287 yards and four touchdowns.

Tech's lone touchdown came early in the second quarter. Trailing 7-2 at the time, the Hokies went 75 yards in 10 plays in a drive that ended with a miraculous play by Tyrod Taylor. The senior from Hampton, Va., scrambled to his left, avoided a Stanford defender, made a pirouette, and fired an 11-yard touchdown pass to tailback David Wilson, who managed to get a foot down before falling out of bounds. Taylor completed 16-of-31 passes for 222 yards, with a touchdown and interception.

Tech's other scores came on a safety and a field goal by Chris Hazley right before halftime. The Hokies trailed just 13-12 heading into the second half but a pair of missed opportunities by Tech, coupled with a number of long plays by the No. 5 ranked Cardinal, quickly put Stanford in charge.

HOME OF THE HOKIES

LANE STADIUM/WORSHAM FIELD

The Virginia Tech football team has enjoyed over a decade of success, going to 18 straight bowl games. A big part of that success is the home-field advantage the Hokies enjoy at Lane Stadium/Worsham Field.

Billed as the toughest place in college football for opponents to play by Rivals.com, the Hokies play on not only one of the best playing surfaces in the nation, but with the south end zone and west side additions, the Hokies compete in one of the best stadiums in the nation.

Now entering its 47th season as an arena of collegiate football competition, Lane Stadium/Worsham Field has gone through numerous changes, renovations and additions. But through it all, it has always been regarded as one of the finest places to watch – and toughest places for opponents to play – a college football game.

A TOWERING NEW LOOK

The third in a series of upgrades was completed at Lane Stadium/Worsham Field prior to the 2006 season, finishing off a magnificent project on the west side of the stadium.

Ground was broken in November of 2004 for the project and crews began building around the former press box, laying the above and below ground settings, as well as removing the two light towers on that side of the stadium.

At the conclusion of the 2004 season, the old press box was removed and the structure was filled in to match what was built up during the 2004 season.

A new press area on the west side, toward the south end zone with a dining area and improved overall facilities, is just the tip of the iceberg.

Additional luxury suites, a new President's area, four private club seating areas, new concession stands, a ticket office, athletic fund offices, an athletics memorabilia area and a new student academic services area were also included in this project.

In addition, the fencing that surrounded the stadium was removed and the area on the west side exterior of the newly renovated stadium was landscaped with walkways and a weekday parking lot for ticket patrons as well as memorabilia-area and Hokie Club visitors. This includes a flagpole plaza near the southwest entrance. Dedicated to former football player and current Hokie Club supporter John Moody, it is a terrific meeting place with the U.S. flag flying alongside the commonwealth of Virginia flag and a Tech flag.

In the summer of 2003, $1.9 million was raised to fund the ongoing planning of the west side expansion, allowing for the ground breaking of the west side project.

In 2005, the inside of the stadium was also given a new look as Hokie Stone was added to the walls in each of the end zones, so there's no question as to where the game is being played for fans watching on television.

New kicking nets were installed in both end zones and a new video board – one-third larger – replaced the old one on the existing scoreboard. New lights that doubled the candlepower and reduced shadows on the field were added as part of the renovation.

With all of these additions and improvements, Lane Stadium has kept up its reputation as one of the best places for college football.

THE SOUTH END ZONE

Prior to the 2002 season, Tech added 11,120 seats in the south end zone to enclose that end of the stadium. The double-deck structure is similar to the Cleveland Browns' "Dawg Pound" section and has bleacher, bench-back and club seats. The structure is enclosed, but has gaps between the existing structure and the new one. This is because of new building codes and a desire to get fans closer to the field.

Below the south end zone stands are several features: A football visitor's locker room which can be divided and used for other sports' visiting teams in the winter and spring.

The June Oblinger Shott Media Center, which houses a press room, two press conference areas, three radio rooms, a dark room and several storage rooms.

The outside of the facility also received a new look, making the entrance more inviting. Walkways and landscaping give the south and west sides a more appealing entrance for fans and teams.

Another addition to the facility is the turf and drainage system that was replaced in the summer of 2001 as Tech became the first collegiate football team to have a new state-of-the-art GreenTech ITM natural Bermuda grass sports field system. It provides excellent drainage with irrigation lines and a vacuum system that can handle up to 16 inches of rain an hour. In the winter of 2003-04, a heating system was installed to keep the grass at an optimum temperature during the winter months.

This innovative system is in place in just a handful of other stadiums in the world and makes Worsham Field one of the finest playing fields around.

A WINNING TRADITION

On Sept. 22, 1994, Tech won its 100th game in Lane Stadium in memorable fashion before a national television audience on ESPN with a 34-6 win over rival West Virginia.

On Nov. 1, 2003, Tech upset No. 2 Miami 31-7 to pick up its 150th all-time win at Lane Stadium, marking the highest-ranked opponent the Hokies have ever defeated.

Tech's overall record at Lane Stadium is 191 wins, 68 losses and six ties in 46 years of play. The Hokies are 118-31-1 at home during Coach Frank Beamer's tenure at Virginia Tech and more impressively, are 100-17 in Blacksburg during the last 18 seasons.

Longest Winning Streak at Lane Stadium: 16 games
(first, 47-0, James Madison, 1999 - last, 34-20, Boston College, 2001)

Since joining the ACC prior to the 2004 season, Tech has accumulated a record of 41-6 at home, including a conference mark of 23-5. The Hokies went 32-9 at Lane Stadium/Worsham field while a member of the BIG EAST.

A large part of that impressive record is the home-field environment created by the fans as Lane Stadium has been sold out for 81 consecutive games entering the 2011 season, starting with the final home game of the 1998 season against Virginia.

LANE AND WORSHAM

On Sept. 5, 1992, Worsham Field was officially dedicated in honor of Wes and Janet Worsham, longtime Hokie supporters from Kilmarnock, Va. The Worshams pledged $1 million to the university's Second Century Campaign. The Campaign raised over $18.6 million, almost $1.7 million more than the original goal, thanks to the support of people like the Worshams.

The stadium is named for the late Edward H. Lane, a graduate of the university and a former member of the Board of Visitors. Lane headed an educational foundation project which raised more than $3 million for the original construction. Lane's personal donation was the first received by the fund.

The original cost was $3.5 million, compared with $3.2 million spent for the addition on top of the east stands. The stadium's original capacity was 40,000, but the addition, completed in 1980, raised that number to 52,500. The relocation of bleacher seats dropped the total capacity to under 50,000.

Lane Stadium, featuring a modern lighting system and a seating capacity of 66,233 for this season, ranks as one of the nation's finest collegiate football facilities.

Before moving to Lane Stadium, Tech played its home games in Miles Stadium, which had a seating capacity of 17,000. The late Stuart K. Cassell proposed the new stadium as a part of a general plan for a number of new facilities for the school.

THROUGH THE YEARS

Original construction of Lane Stadium began in April, 1964 and was completed four years later. The Hokies did not wait for completion, playing their first game in the stadium on Oct. 2, 1965. Tech defeated William and Mary, 9-7, that day with only the west stands and the center section of the east bleachers completed. Official dedication ceremonies took place Oct. 23 before a 22-14 win over Virginia.

Through the years, the stadium has seen several changes and renovations. In 1982, the lighting system was added to the facility. The system was first used in Tech's nationally televised 21-14 Thanksgiving Day victory over Virginia that season. The game was broadcast on WTBS and was the first-ever nationally televised game from Lane Stadium.

Prior to the 1989 season, Lane Stadium underwent further improvements. Tech received a donation of 16 flags with the "VT" logo for the stadium. Lane Stadium also received a new paint job which included the addition of maroon and orange stripes around the inner walls of the facility.

In 1991, a new scoreboard bearing BIG EAST Conference logos replaced the old scoreboard at the south end of the stadium, while a new auxiliary scoreboard was placed at the north end. In the spring of 1994, renovations were completed on seven lower sections of the east stands. Renovations included replacing concrete risers and the addition of wheelchair seating.

Before the 1994 season, plaques bearing retired jerseys of Tech heroes Bruce Smith, Carroll Dale, the late Frank Loria and Jim Pyne were added to the wall in the north end zone. With the addition of the north end zone seats, the four retired numbers now fly on flag poles above those stands.

In 2002, three more flags – those bearing the names and numbers of Frank Beamer, Michael Vick and Cornell Brown – were added, retiring their jerseys, but not their numbers. Three years ago, a banner for center Jake Grove was added to that collection.

In 2008, banners were placed on both the east and west sides on beams honoring conference player of the year and national award honorees, including Bronko Nagurski Trophy and Lombardi Award winner Corey Moore and Outland Trophy honoree Bruce Smith.

Prior to the 1998 season, the oldest bleachers were replaced with new locust wood and the stands were waterproofed and top coated. On the east side, the roof on the former visitors' locker room was replaced along with the wooden bleachers in the three sections above the dressing room. Also, additional handicapped seating was added.

In addition to the seats in the north end zone constructed before the 1999 season, the interior block walls and concourse tunnels were seal-coated to match the exterior of Cassell Coliseum and the Merryman Center.

Before the 2000 season, a new scoreboard, complete with "Hokievision" was installed behind the north end zone bleachers.

The south end zone construction project eliminated the old wooden bleachers in that area. But the north end zone bleachers were expanded down to the field, adding close to 600 new, permanent seats to make the north end zone look similar to the new south end zone. This is where The Marching Virginians – one of Tech's two marching bands – sit. These moves cut the capacity to 53,662.

Prior to the 2000 season, approximately 3,000 permanent bleacher seats were added in the north end zone, and, prior to the 1999 season, 2,100 permanent seats were added in the same end zone. In 2003, permacaps were installed over all the wooden seats to enhance fan comfort.

The past seven years, fans saw new conference logos around the stadium as the Hokies made the move to the ACC prior to the 2004 season. In that time, the Hokies have won four conference titles.

HALL OF FAME MUSEUM

Since the start of the 2008 football season, fans have had the opportunity to visit Virginia Tech's new Hall of Fame museum located on the west side of the football stadium. Covering two stories, the museum features all Hokie sports with galleries, display cases and interactive screens. Individual athletes honored include All-Americans, Academic All-Americans and Tech's Hall of Fame members. Fans can review the history of Tech athletics through a photo timeline. The museum is open to the public Monday through Friday between 9 a.m., and 3 p.m. It is closed on weekends and on game days.

Virginia Tech has had a lot of recent success with its players in the NFL. Last year, 23 former Hokie players saw action in an NFL game with 16 of those 23 earning at least one start. Michael Vick (Eagles) and DeAngelo Hall (Redskins) were named to the Pro Bowl and rookie Jason Worilds and the Pittsburgh Steelers made it to the Super Bowl.

PRIDE AND JOY OF VIRGINIA TECH FOOTBALL

Special teams are an integral part of Hokie football and one of the units is called "Pride and Joy." These NFL players and Tech support staff are also a source of pride and joy due to their commitment to Virginia Tech on and off the field. Virginia Tech has a prominent display in the Hall of Legends in the Merryman Athletic Center to honor such former players.

John Engelberger was a dominating defensive end who went from walk-on, to four-year starter at Tech, to second-round NFL Draft pick, earning All-America honors and his college degree along the way.

Waddey Harvey was a standout who started three seasons at defensive tackle and won the coveted Williams Award for leadership and character before joining the Buffalo Bills. Frank and Cheryl Beamer sponsored Harvey for recognition on the Pride and Joy display.

Before starting an NFL career, Jim Pyne, a powerful center in the early 1990s, started 41 games and allowed just one sack in over 2,700 snaps on his way to becoming the Hokies' first unanimous All-American.

Michael Vick was an electrifying quarterback who made a lasting impact on college football while helping Virginia Tech to a national championship game and back-to-back 11-1 seasons before becoming the top NFL Draft pick in 2001.

A two-time All-American, Cornell Brown became the first Virginia Tech football player to gain consensus All-America honors as a junior when he was named to five first teams in 1995. He was selected National Defensive Player of the Year by Football News in 1995.

Lester Karlin is a veteran member of the Virginia Tech staff who made his first contribution to Hokie athletics as a student assistant in the football equipment room from 1971-73 and now as the equipment manager since 1978.

Pierson Prioleau saw action on more than 2,000 plays at rover and on special teams, while starting 36 consecutive games for the Hokies from 1995 through 1998. A two-time first-team All-BIG EAST selection and a Sporting News All-America pick in 1997, he also excelled in the weight room, where he held every record for his position. After helping Tech to two bowl championships, Prioleau began a productive NFL career that included a Super Bowl title with New Orleans in 2010.

Mickey Fitzgerald was a bruising tight end and fullback at Virginia Tech in the late 1970s who earned the nickname "The Incredible Hulk" with his physical style of play. In 1977, Fitzgerald became the first Tech back of the modern era to rush for over 100 yards in each of his first four starts as a running back.

Shayne Graham is a local product out of Dublin, Va., who earned All-BIG EAST honors as a place-kicker. He helped lead the Hokies to the 1999 National Championship game, kicking a game-winner as time expired to beat West Virginia and keep the perfect season alive. He went on to become one of the most accurate kickers in NFL history.

NCAA COMPLIANCE

VIRGINIA TECH ATHLETICS WINNING THE RIGHT WAY

INFORMATION FOR PROSPECTS AND THEIR PARENTS:

Compliance with NCAA rules is a never-ending process that requires diligence on the part of the Virginia Tech Department of Athletics and the entire university community. Below is a brief summary of the basic issues that may face a potential student-athlete during his/her recruitment by a Division I college or university.

1. For NCAA rules purposes, you become a "prospective student-athlete" – commonly referred to as a prospect – once you have started classes for the ninth grade (seventh grade for men's basketball).

2. A "representative of an institution's athletics interests" (commonly referred to as a booster) is defined by the NCAA as anyone who:

- Is now, or previously has been, a member of any organization promoting the institution's intercollegiate athletics program;
- Has made a financial contribution to the athletics program or an athletics booster organization;
- Has helped arrange any employment for a student-athlete;
- Has been involved, in any way, in the promotion of the athletics program.

3. Please be aware that any former Virginia Tech student or former or current member of the Hokie Club is automatically considered a Virginia Tech booster. According to NCAA rules, once an individual is identified as a booster, he/she retains that status forever.

4. A booster may not solicit the enrollment of a prospect with the goal of athletics participation in any manner (no phone calls, letters or in-person encounters). On those occasions when a booster unavoidably comes into contact with a prospect, conversation must be limited to normal civility. The conversation must conclude quickly, and no recruitment may occur.

5. It is not permissible for you (or your family) to receive any benefit, inducement or arrangement such as cash, clothing, cars, improper expenses, transportation, gifts or loans to encourage you to sign a National Letter of Intent or to attend any college.

6. A "contact" is any off-campus, face-to-face encounter between you or your parent(s) or a legal guardian and a member of a college coaching staff during which any dialogue occurs beyond an exchange of greeting. NCAA rules do not permit contacts until July 1 prior to a prospect's senior year.

7. An "evaluation" is any off-campus activity by a member of a college coaching staff designed to assess your academic qualifications or athletic ability, including any visit to your high school (during which no contact occurs) or the observation of any practice or competition in which you participate.

8. The timing for phone calls depends on the sport that is recruiting you. Football coaches may begin on April 15 of the prospect's junior year (one call between April 15 and May 31 is permitted). After May 31, regular calls not to exceed one per week may begin for football on September 1 after the junior year.

If you are a prospect, unlimited calls to you or your family may be made under the following circumstances:

- During the five days immediately before your official (paid) visit to a collegiate institution;
- On the day of a coach's off-campus contact with you;
- During the time beginning with the initial National Letter of Intent signing date in your sport, through the two days after the signing date; and
- In the sport of football only, during the permissible off-campus contact periods and during the 48 hours prior to and 48 hours after 7 a.m., on the initial signing date for the National Letter of Intent.

Coaches also may accept collect calls, and athletics departments are permitted to utilize a toll-free number to receive telephone calls from you (or your family) on or after July 1 following your junior year. You or your family may call a college coach at your expense at any time.

9. In all sports except men's basketball, letters to you from coaches are permitted beginning September 1 following your sophomore year in high school. A Division I school may provide you with the following printed materials. These following materials must be sent via regular first-class mail service:

- General correspondence, including letters, U.S. Postal Service postcards and institutional note cards;
- Game programs which may not include posters and one Student-Athlete Handbook;
- NCAA educational information;
- Pre-enrollment information subsequent to signing a National Letter of Intent with the university;
- One athletic publication (media guide or recruiting brochure);
- Official academic, admissions and student services publications published or videotapes produced by the institution and available to all students;
- Schedule and business cards;
- Questionnaires which may be provided prior to your junior year; and
- Camp brochures, which may be provided prior to your junior year.

10. An "Official Visit" is a visit by a prospect to a college where the college pays for some or all of the prospect's expenses. These expenses may include transportation, lodging, meals and/or entertainment. Official Visits are permissible once a prospect has started senior classes.

The purpose of the Virginia Tech Compliance Office is to help make you aware of relevant NCAA rules and assist you in guarding your eligibility. Ultimately, however, you are responsible for protecting your eligibility. This page is provided as a quick-reference guide to give you a basic understanding of NCAA recruiting rules. We encourage you to visit our webpage at www.athletics.vt.edu/compliance for additional information and links providing comprehensive guidance concerning the full range of NCAA regulations. Also, please feel free to call or e-mail any member of the Hokie Compliance Team if you have any questions.

UNIVERSITY & MEDIA INFORMATION

VIRGINIA TECH: A UNIVERSITY INVENTING THE FUTURE

Beginning in 1872 with 132 students and two programs of study, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, popularly known as Virginia Tech, has evolved into a comprehensive university of national and international prominence. With 28,687 students in Blacksburg and about 2,500 other students statewide, the university provides a challenging academic environment that is a fount of world-class scholarship. University tradition is firmly rooted in its motto, Ut Prosim (That I May Serve), and its historic land-grant mission is brought to life through learning, discovery and engagement.

LEARNING

Virginia Tech's challenging academic standards attract high-achieving students. More degree programs – approximately 210 graduate and undergraduate – are available through the university's nine colleges (Agriculture and Life Sciences, Architecture and Urban Studies, Engineering, Liberal Arts and Human Sciences, Natural Resources and Environment, Pamplin College of Business, Science, The Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine, and Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine) and Graduate School than at any other university in the commonwealth. Some 93 percent of all departments offer e-learning courses, which have attracted more than 130,000 enrollments since 1999.

DISCOVERY

The university's groundbreaking research transforms lives and communities. With annual research expenditures exceeding $396 million, Virginia Tech ranks in the top 50 research universities in the United States. With more than 100 research centers, the university also consistently ranks among the top institutions in industry-supported research and in the top 15 in the number of patents issued each year. Tech's nationally and internationally recognized faculty and motivated students are involved in more than 3,500 research projects in fields ranging from biotechnology to materials, from the environment and energy to food and human health, and from transportation to computing information.

ENGAGEMENT

As part of Virginia Tech's outreach mission and in adherence to its motto, the university serves and engages the citizens of the commonwealth, the nation and the world. The university is involved in a multitude of economic and community development projects, many of which focus on education and the dissemination of knowledge to the global society in which we live.

Professionals, organizations and communities tap Virginia Tech's vast resources, expertise and research results through hundreds of continuing and professional education programs and five campus centers located throughout the commonwealth. The institution has a long history of providing innovative distance-learning techniques to meet the various needs of working adults and other nontraditional students.

The Inn at Virginia Tech and Skelton Conference Center on campus and The Hotel Roanoke & Conference Center in Roanoke, both owned by Virginia Tech, support the university's outreach mission by working with faculty to plan and host conferences and continuing education and professional programs.

Virginia Tech manages more than $64 million in funded economic development projects in 44 countries and encourages faculty members to develop global course content and study abroad opportunities for students. In 2009-10, more than 2,250 students from more than 100 foreign countries studied at Tech, while more than 1,100 Virginia Tech students studied abroad.

Virginia Cooperative Extension, operated jointly by Virginia Tech and Virginia State University, has been helping people improve their economic, cultural, and social well being for nearly a century. With 107 city/county offices, tens of thousands of volunteers and programs across the state, Extension reaches and teaches millions of Virginians annually.

AT A GLANCE

- Located in Blacksburg, Virginia
- Comprised of nine colleges and the Graduate School
- Approximately 65 bachelor's degree programs
- Approximately 145 master's and doctoral degree programs
- Total enrollment on and off campus is 31,006
- Main campus includes more than 125 buildings, 2,600 acres and an airport
- Ranks 44th in university research expenditures in the United States
- Adjacent Corporate Research Center
- The Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine and Research Institute opened in fall 2010.

INTERESTING FACTS & FIGURES

- The university's annual budget in 2010-11 is about $1.1 billion.
- Virginia Tech has approximately 215,000 living alumni from every state and more than 100 countries.
- All campus facilities, including residence halls, have high-speed connections to voice, data and video communications.
- Virginia Tech's fully computerized library contains more than 2.3 million volumes, an array of specialized collections and numerous electronic databases.
- Virginia Tech is one of three public universities in the country that offers the combined advantages of a military-style leadership development program – here it is through the Virginia Tech Corps of Cadets – and a traditional academic and social life.
- The Princeton Review ranked Virginia Tech eighth nationally among public universities in its "Best Value Colleges" for 2010.
- Dining Services was ranked No. 1 in the nation for Best Campus Food in 2010, and No. 2 in 2011 by the Princeton Review, and No. 3 in the nation in 2010 by the Parents and Colleges publication.
- U.S. News & World Report ranks the College of Engineering's graduate program 25th nationally, with four individual undergraduate programs in the top 10.
- A Wall Street Journal survey of 479 employers ranked Virginia Tech 13th in the nation for preparing graduates to succeed on the job.
- Virginia Tech consistently ranks among the top 15 schools in the nation in number of patents received.
- DesignIntelligence ranks Virginia Tech's undergraduate architecture program as one of America's World-Class Schools of Architecture with highest distinction. In addition, it ranks the university's undergraduate landscape architecture program best in the nation.
- The university's forestry program is top-ranked in North America, according to a study conducted by Auburn University.

CHARLES W. STEGER

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

Now in his twelfth year as President of Virginia Tech, Dr. Charles Steger is pursuing the course he laid out to establish Virginia Tech among the nation's premier research institutions. Steger has provided visionary leadership in the creation and implementation of a bold vision and strategic plan, with a demand for quality across all aspects of the academic enterprise. Among the highlights of his presidency to date are the university's adoption of the Principles of Community (2005) and the Virginia Tech Climate Action Commitment (2009). In the minds of many, Steger will best be remembered for making the impossible a reality. He will be forever credited with negotiating Virginia Tech's entrance into the Atlantic Coast Conference in 2004 – a 50-year dream-come-true for Hokie fans.

One of the most exciting new initiatives to become reality is the Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine and Research Institute, which is housed in a new 152,000-square-foot building in Roanoke. This is a partnership of Virginia Tech and Carilion Clinic. The medical school admitted its inaugural class in August 2010.

Another initiative on the horizon is the new Center for the Arts that will open in the fall of 2013. This 130,000-square-foot facility will feature a 1,300-seat performance hall, visual art galleries, and innovative creative technology lab spaces. At the intersection of North Main Street and Alumni Mall, its location symbolizes the university's commitment to the arts and its importance to the university and the broader community.

Since Steger became president, the university's annual research expenditures have increased 300 percent, now topping $390 million. According to the National Science Foundation (NSF), Virginia Tech ranks 46th out of 679 universities in the nation in sponsored research, the only Virginia university in the top 50. Shortly after Steger took office, the university launched the Virginia Bioinformatics Institute, which has already secured well over $100 million in external research funding. Virginia Tech has also partnered with a number of other universities to further leverage its research strengths and resources, including Johns Hopkins University, Wake Forest University, the University of Virginia, the University of Maryland, and Georgetown University. Early in 2011, construction will be completed on Virginia Tech's new 144,000-square-foot research facility in Arlington, Virginia, to enhance the university's presence in the National Capital Region and ability to compete for major research grants and contracts.

Concurrent with the expanding research agenda, the university has expanded its outreach efforts like never before. For example, Virginia Tech has partnered in numerous initiatives in Southside Virginia, including the renowned Institute for Advanced Learning and Research (IALR), which are advancing both educational and economic development opportunities.

A hallmark of Steger's administration is his commitment to the students. With his leadership, the university has reaffirmed its core mission of undergraduate education. The university is dedicated to fostering a research-intensive environment that offers students an opportunity to learn the scientific process while enhancing their critical-thinking skills. Recognizing that graduates will be entering a global economy, Virginia Tech initiated a comprehensive International Strategic Plan and has doubled the number of students participating in international education opportunities.

Earlier this year, Steger was selected as a recipient of the 2010 Michael P. Malone International Leadership Award, sponsored by the Association of Public and Land-grant Universities. During his presidency, five international centers have been established around the globe, and another is being developed in India. While dean of CAUS, Steger was the driving force behind the establishment of Virginia Tech's Center for European Studies and Architecture in Switzerland, which has hosted hundreds of study abroad students from departments across the university.

Another of the most memorable contributions of Steger's administration was his role in the Higher Education Restructuring Act, which took effect in July 2006. Steger was one of the leaders among university presidents to help define a ground-breaking new relationship between the commonwealth of Virginia and its colleges and universities, which enables greater institutional flexibility and potential for growth. This legislation allows Virginia Tech to perform long-range planning, ensure a stable and predictable revenue stream, and ultimately ensure a quality education for its students.

The university is in the midst of an aggressive $1 billion fundraising campaign to "invent the future." With more than $920 million raised, the university is well on its way to acquiring the funds to provide the university with a margin of excellence for its academic agenda. Today, private support from Virginia Tech's alumni and friends continues to play an essential role in this university community.

Virginia Tech remains one of the most competitive institutions in the state. The university received more than 20,000 applications for the class entering in the fall of 2010. Students offered admission posted an average math and critical reading SAT score of 1250 and an average high school GPA of 3.96. Nearly 6,000 of those offered admission had a GPA of 4.0 or higher. The number of students from underrepresented groups who accepted admission is up slightly over last year.

Steger received his Bachelor of Architecture degree, Master of Architecture degree, and Ph.D. in Environmental Science and Engineering from Virginia Tech. His passion for teaching led him to leave a career in the private sector as a professional architect and planner to return to Virginia Tech to teach in the College of Architecture and Urban Studies (CAUS). When he became Dean in 1981 at the age of 33, he was the youngest architecture dean in the nation. After 12 years in that role, he was appointed Vice President for Development and University Relations (1993-2000) before being named President in 2000.

Dr. Steger is President of the Council of Presidents of the Southeastern Universities Research Association (SURA). He is a member of the National Council on Competitiveness, the Association of Governing Boards, the Economic Club of Washington, D.C., the Senior Advisory Group of the Northern Virginia Technology Council Board of Directors, and the Board of the Innovative Technology Authority that oversees Virginia's Center for Innovative Technology. He is past-Chairman of the Virginia Council of Presidents and chair of the Virginia Space Grant Consortium. He serves on the Council of Higher Education's General and Professional Advisory Committee and the Virginia Business Higher Education Council. He has been appointed by five Governors of Virginia to serve on various entities including the Steering Committee of the Governor's Higher Education Summit, Virginia Institute for Defense and Homeland Security, and the Secure Virginia Initiative. In May 2010, he was named to the Governor's Commission on Higher Education Reform, Innovation, and Investment. His most recent publications include book chapters on the topics of the business of education and the university presidency.

Steger is a Fellow in the American Institute of Architects (AIA) and holds the William C. Noland Award and the Distinguished Achievement Award from the Virginia Society AIA. The New Century Technology Council awarded him its 2004 Compass Award for visionary thinking and leadership in the field of information technology.

Credited with calm leadership during a very difficult period, President Steger led the university through an extended recovery period in the aftermath of the April 2007 tragedy.

In 2009, President Steger received the Chief Executive Leadership Award from the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) District III for outstanding leadership and service in support of education.

JIM WEAVER

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

James C. Weaver, whose innovative ideas and work as a reformer have made him one of college athletics' most popular administrators, is the director of athletics at Virginia Tech.

Weaver, 66, was appointed on Sept. 24, 1997, and has been a tireless leader on behalf of Tech athletics. His efforts were recognized in 2009 when he accepted the prestigious John L. Toner Award, which is presented annually by the National Football Foundation & College Hall of Fame. The award is given to a director of athletics who has demonstrated superior administrative abilities and shown outstanding dedication to college athletics and particularly college football.

In his 14 years on the job at Tech, Weaver has taken steps to place increased emphasis on projects benefiting student-athletes. Under his leadership, the athletics department entered into a comprehensive agreement with NIKE beginning in 2007-08 which provides uniforms, clothing and equipment for all Virginia Tech varsity teams over an eight-year period. He created a comprehensive awards program for letterwinners and has initiated and funded an annual awards banquet. The Monogram Club was revitalized in 1998 and provides several benefits to former Hokie athletes, trainers and managers.

A top personal priority for Weaver is the continuing improvement of Tech's facilities. Progress is evident in a number of new facilities now in use or currently under construction.

A new football locker room and lounge has been constructed adjacent to Jamerson Athletic Center. The three-story building was completed in 2010 and features a spacious locker room for players and coaches, as well as a lounge on the second floor and a wrestling facility on the third floor. The vacated space in Jamerson is being renovated to provide expanded weight training, sports medicine and locker room facilities for Olympic sport teams.

The remodeling of Lane Stadium's west side was completed in time for Tech's 2006 home opener. It involved the construction of additional new luxury suites, a new President's area, four private club seating areas, a ticket office, athletic fund offices, a memorabilia area and a new student academic services area.

Tech's basketball staffs and teams moved into their new practice facility in 2009. The $20 million building boasts two practice gyms, a 3,000 square-foot basketball weight room, coaches' offices, film rooms and locker rooms.

Weaver presided over Tech's move into the Atlantic Coast Conference in 2004-05, when Virginia Tech and Miami were officially introduced as the 10th and 11th members of the ACC, effective July 1, 2004.

Weaver renegotiated Tech's multimedia rights contract with IMG College, creating an agreement which went into effect in 2008-09 and extends for 10 years to provide enhanced revenue for the athletics department. In the Fall of 2000, Weaver arranged a joint venture with IMG to commit $2 million to purchase new scoreboards, upgrade sound systems, install an L.E.D. video display screen at Lane Stadium (which was enlarged for the 2005 season) and place two wall-mount L.E.D. video screens in Cassell Coliseum.

Weaver came to Tech from Western Michigan University where he was director of athletics from January 1996 until he came to Blacksburg. Prior to that, he was AD for three and a half years at UNLV, where he reconstructed a troubled athletic department.

Weaver brings a "Penn State mentality" to the position. He says that various schools' interest in him as a reformer through the years can be traced to Penn State and its reputation for how it conducts business in intercollegiate athletics.

It was with the Nittany Lions' football team that Weaver first made a name for himself in athletics. He was a center and linebacker on Penn State teams coached by the legendary Rip Engle and Joe Paterno.

A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Weaver was recruited to Penn State by Engle. He played three seasons under Engle and one under Paterno, who is still the coach of the Nittany Lions.

"I learned a lot from Joe Paterno," Weaver says. "One thing he said certainly has stuck with me. 'You either get better or you get worse. You never stay the same.' "

Weaver graduated from Penn State in 1967 with a bachelor's in psychology and rehabilitation education. He received a master's in college counselor education, also from Penn State, in 1968.

Weaver started a coaching career as an assistant at Penn State for six seasons. During that time, the Lions played in five bowl games – the Cotton, Gator, Sugar and Orange (twice).

He later was the offensive coordinator at Iowa State and head coach for one season at Villanova in 1974. He also spent five years as an assistant professor at Clarion State and three years as director of franchise sales at Athletic Attic.

Prior to landing the athletic director's job at UNLV, Weaver spent nine years at the University of Florida. He was a strong force at Florida in the field of compliance and concluded his time there as associate athletics director.

Weaver drew rave reviews at UNLV for his fund-raising expertise. He generated nearly $15 million in his time there and built a new athletic complex.

While at Western Michigan, Weaver announced creation of a $7 million football center, stabilized fluctuating revenues and installed a CHAMPS Life Skills program.

Weaver and his wife Traci have four sons – Josh, Paul, Cole and Craig.

VIRGINIA TECH ATHLETIC FUND

HOKIE CLUB WORKS TO KEEP TECH'S MOMENTUM BUILDING

Virginia Tech's seventh season in the ACC was successful, both in competition and fundraising results. Thanks to the hard work of the Hokie Club, donors continue to support the athletics program with their gifts to the annual fund and for new facilities. The Hokie Club is charged with raising funds to support the scholarship, capital projects and programmatic needs of the Athletics Department.

"Virginia Tech's high national profile in football continues to motivate our fans in their support of the program. They are proud that their football team has been to bowl games in each of the last 18 years, including seven BCS games. Winning four ACC championships in football in seven years added momentum to our fund raising efforts," said Lu Merritt, who has served as director of the Athletic Fund since 1994.

Donors make gifts in outright forms such as cash and real estate, or through planned or deferred gifts such as a will or retirement plan.

The Athletic Fund is proud of its staff and its volunteers who help ensure that the 65 Hokie Clubs throughout the region continue their active efforts to support and promote athletics at Virginia Tech.

O.A. Spady of Smithfield, Va., is the current president of the Athletic Fund and Glenn Reynolds of Blacksburg, Va., is the vice president.

THE MONOGRAM CLUB

STAYING CONNECTED WITH FORMER TEAMMATES AND COACHES

Virginia Tech's student-athletes hold a special place at the university, even after their playing days are over. That is why the Tech Athletics Department created the Virginia Tech Monogram Club, an organization that caters to former athletes, trainers and managers.

Current Athletics Director Jim Weaver resurrected the Monogram Club in 1998 and has added several incentives for former athletes. After being hired in 2001, former track and field coach Russ Whitenack has guided the Club to new prominence. Under his leadership, the Club has served as host for tailgates prior to most home football games and bowl games. During the weekend of the Spring Game, the Monogram Club holds a golf tournament and several socials for members and their families. Whitenack also organizes many team and sport reunions as part of his role.

Club members receive several other benefits. Each member receives a complimentary subscription to Inside Hokie Sports. Additionally, the Monogram Club receives an allotment of 100 tickets for each home football game that it can sell on a first-come, first-serve basis. For many games, Club members are the only people who can buy individual game tickets.

The Monogram Club maintains a website for its members – www.vtmonogram.com. The site offers several new features such as the ability to search for the addresses of former teammates and get information about upcoming events and reunions.

In hopes of helping former athletes reconnect with their teammates, all registered with the Monogram Club get invitations to Virginia Tech athletics reunions.

These added perks have naturally translated into larger membership numbers for the Club. However, Whitenack wants to see those numbers continue to grow, particularly among recent graduates. A one-year membership costs $40. A five-year membership costs $160, and a lifetime membership costs $800. Recent graduates are given a three year complimentary membership if they register on line.

Russ Whitenack

If you are a former Hokie athlete, trainer or manager, contact Russ Whitenack to join the Monogram Club at 540-231-9156 or rwhitena@vt.edu. It is one of the best values in Tech athletics, and it is the department's way of continuing to say thank you for your service to the university.

VIRGINIA TECH IMG SPORTS NETWORK

'FROM THE BLUE WATERS OF THE CHESAPEAKE BAY TO THE HILLS OF TENNESSEE, THE VIRGINIA TECH HOKIES ARE ON THE AIR!'

That familiar refrain – delivered by Bill Roth, the Voice of Virginia Tech football – opens every Tech sports broadcast and reflects the network's goal of reaching Hokie fans everywhere. So, whether they're sailing off Virginia's eastern shore, hiking in the Blue Ridge Mountains, or sitting in their homes anywhere throughout the Commonwealth, Tech fans know they're always within range of a Tech network radio station.

With a massive network of radio and television stations throughout the region, the Virginia Tech IMG Sports Network serves as the main communications link between Tech's football program and the Hokies' avid legion of fans.

Roth – who has been named Virginia's Sportscaster of the Year eight times – is in his 24th season as the Voice of Virginia Tech football and basketball. A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Roth graduated from Syracuse University in 1987, earning a degree in broadcast journalism. He also won the distinguished Robert Costas Academic Scholarship in 1986.

Roth's cries of "TOUCHDOWN TECH!" have become a favorite of Hokie fans of all ages, and his accurate and exciting descriptions of Tech football and basketball have made him one of the most popular figures on the Tech athletic scene.

"Bill Roth is very much a part of what we're all about here," head coach Frank Beamer said. "When you hear his voice, you immediately think Virginia Tech football."

During the off-seasons, Roth has worked for ESPN in a variety of roles, including calling play-by-play of NCAA lacrosse, baseball, basketball, kickboxing and field hockey. Bill's column, The Kroger Roth Report, appears weekly on hokiesports.com and in Tech's official monthly news magazine, Inside Hokie Sports.

Former Virginia Tech tight end Mike Burnop is serving his 29th season in the booth as the network analyst. Burnop, a star for the Hokies in the early 1970s, was inducted into Virginia Tech's Hall of Fame in 2000. He still holds the Virginia Tech record for receptions in a season by a tight end with 46. Mike and his wife Ellen own New River Office Supply, with offices in Blacksburg, Pearisburg, and Salem, Va.

Bill Roth and Mike Burnop

In addition to his role as analyst, Burnop handles all post-game interviews from Tech's locker room. He has shown his versatility as a broadcaster by shining as the analyst on Tech's basketball broadcasts over the years.

Adam Witten serves as the scoreboard anchor and host of Virginia Tech football broadcasts. Witten provides pre-game, in-game, and post-game reports during the course of each game broadcast. A native of Sarasota, Fla., Witten graduated magna cum laude from Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C. in 2004 with a degree in Electronic Media/Broadcasting. Witten also spent five years with the Appalachian Sports Network, serving a variety of roles on the radio airwaves including football sideline reporter and tailgate show host, men's basketball courtside host and analyst, women's basketball play by play announcer and host of the Mountaineers' football and basketball call-in shows.

Tech radio broadcasts are available to fans anywhere in the world via Tech's official Web site (hokiesports.com).

Virginia Tech IMG Sports Network Television programming includes Virginia Tech Sports Today, a weekly 30-minute program that is seen every Sunday on a network of TV stations and cable networks throughout the mid-Atlantic and Southeast regions. The program features highlights of every Virginia Tech game, features and interviews with Tech players and coaches.

Hokie Playback is a weekly television re-broadcast of Virginia Tech home football games shown each Sunday afternoon and evening.

VIRGINIA TECH IMG SPORTS NETWORK GAMEDAY BROADCAST SCHEDULE

VIRGINIA TECH GAMEDAY TAILGATE SHOW

The network's radio coverage begins 90 minutes prior to kickoff. The program features Tech Director of Athletics Jim Weaver and other guests who preview the day in college football.

THE NTELOS WIRELESS PRE-GAME REPORT

The perfect tailgating companion, the Hokies' Countdown clock starts 60 minutes before kickoff with a complete preview of the game, interviews with Tech coach Frank Beamer and the opposing head coach, the ACC Report, late-breaking news, and features such as Great Moments in Virginia Tech History presented by the University Bookstore, the NTELOS Star Watch and the Kroger Roth Report.

THE GAME BROADCAST PRESENTED BY THE VIRGINIA LOTTERY

TOUCHDOWN TECH!! Bill Roth and Mike Burnop fill the airwaves with their unique blend of excitement and wit. The two have called every Tech football game since the 1988 season. Whether the Hokies are playing in Lane Stadium or on the road, you can always find Hokie fans by the thousands with their portable radios following the action on the Virginia Tech IMG Sports Network.

THE KROGER POINT AFTER

Perhaps the network's most popular show, the Kroger Point After is a fast-paced, 90-minute postgame show which features locker room interviews, score reports from around the country and game highlights and features such as the SunTrust Frank Beamer Report, the Stop In Food Stores Stop of the Game, the Virginia Lottery Moment of the Game and the Kroger Player of the Game.

The Davenport Virginia Tech Sports Quiz, a daily one-minute program, airs on radio stations every weekday from August through March.

VIRGINIA TECH IMG SPORTS MARKETING

IMG College, a national leader in the collegiate sports marketing industry, is in its 16th year as the exclusive worldwide multi-media and advertising rights holder for Virginia Tech Athletics through its 2010 acquisition of ISP Sports. In this partnership with the athletics program, Virginia Tech IMG Sports Marketing develops, produces and sells an extensive range of sports marketing opportunities for Tech. Radio play-by-play and call-in shows, television coaches shows and other related programming, Lane Stadium and Cassell Coliseum venue signage, video board and promotions, along with print and Internet advertising are available.

During its very successful partnership with Virginia Tech, IMG College has developed the Virginia Tech IMG Sports Network into the largest collegiate sports radio network in Virginia. Broadcast coverage includes the commonwealth of Virginia, as well as portions of Maryland, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Washington D.C., and West Virginia.

The network's television coverage of Tech athletics is centered around Virginia Tech Sports Today, a weekly magazine show aired on a network of affiliates throughout the region, including WDBJ 7 in Roanoke and Comcast SportsNet across the region. The 30-minute show features an action-packed, magazine-style format, and with its superior production, animation and videography, has the look and feel of a national sports telecast. Virginia Tech Sports Today airs from mid-August until mid-March.

In cooperation with Virginia Tech Video Services, IMG College also offers Hokie Playback, a weekly re-broadcast of Virginia Tech home football games featuring the Virginia Tech IMG Sports Network radio call. The Hokie Playback is also carried on WDBJ 7 and CSN Washington.

Other advertising and marketing opportunities represented by Virginia Tech IMG Sports Marketing include the state-of-the-art videoscreens ("HokieVision") in both Lane Stadium and Cassell Coliseum, venue signage, ribbon board LED advertising and promotion, pre-game hospitality events and a wide array of print and digitial opportunities across all sports are other very popular items managed by IMG.

The company also provides a wide variety of sponsorship opportunities for Tech supporters at every level, through not only football and basketball but every other Virginia Tech varsity sport as well. So, whether your interest is in radio or television media, print, promotions, signage, video board, event impact or digital ... Virginia Tech IMG Sports Marketing is your corporate connection to Virginia Tech athletics.

JUST VIRGINIA TECH, PLEASE

While the full name of the school is Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, the school is commonly referred to as "Virginia Tech." Founded in 1872, as Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College, the university changed its named to Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1896. Fans of the athletics department, as well as media covering the Hokies, shortened the name to VPI, but it eventually became Virginia Tech. The "State University" was added in 1970 to bring the official title to what it is today.

Those covering Hokie athletics are asked to refer to the university as simply "Virginia Tech." Virginia Tech University, VPI and SU, VPI&SU, "Vah Tech," VT or VA Tech are not recognized names and should not be used.

MEDIA INFORMATION

ATHLETICS COMMUNICATIONS

Football media services are coordinated by the Athletics Communications Office, headed by Assistant Athletics Director Dave Smith and Associate Director of Athletics Communications Bryan Johnston. Please direct interview requests for any of the coaches, as well as credential requests to Smith. All player interview requests should be made to Johnston. For photo requests, please contact photography coordinator Dave Knachel.

The Athletics Communications Office is located on the fourth floor of the Jamerson Athletic Center, which is connected to Cassell Coliseum and the Merryman Athletic Center. The office is next to the Bowman Room.

All media members coming to campus during the week need to stop by the Visitor's Center, located on Southgate Drive across from the "VT shrubs" to pick up a visitor's parking pass.

Media will be responsible for paying any fines they incur while on campus.

THE PRESS BOX

The press box at Lane Stadium/Worsham Field comprises seven levels. Newspaper, radio and television reporters work on the fifth level.

The media area of the press box is accessible via elevators Nos. 4 & 5, which are located on the west side, in the south tower.

Admission to the press box is by credential only. Smoking is not allowed in the stands or in any enclosed area of Lane Stadium, including the press box and rest rooms.

PRESS CREDENTIALS

Requests for press credentials are screened with care due to the demand for credentials and to ensure a working press box. Traditional print, television and radio (media agency) regularly assigned to cover Virginia Tech and the visiting school will receive first priority, as well as national news-gathering agencies. Credentials for online Internet sites will be granted to Virginia Tech-operated websites, the visiting team's official website and the Atlantic Coast Conference's official website.

The Virginia Tech Athletics Communications Office uses an online credentialing system for individual game requests. Email Bryan Johnston at blj@vt.edu for information on how to apply. Requests the week of the game will be honored on a space-available basis and will be left at the Will Call window at Lane Stadium/Worsham Field if they cannot be mailed. Parking passes can not be left at will call.

Spouses, dates, children, equipment carriers and non-workers are restricted from the press box, sidelines and locker rooms. Any abuse of a working credential will result in the media agency losing credential privileges.

In some instances, due to space limitations, meeting the identified criteria does not guarantee credentials for every game.

Virginia Tech does not allow radio stations to broadcast live shows or segments from the press box – before, during or after a game.

ADDITIONAL ACCREDITATION GUIDELINES

- Only full-time, salaried employees intending to provide actual game coverage may receive a credential.
- A requesting media agency must represent a collective, organizational editorial voice, not simply the offerings of a single individual.
- Membership in a writer's association does not automatically qualify an agency for credentials.
- A traditional media agency may assign one of its credentials to its online entity.
- An online entity, not associated with a traditional media agency, may qualify for one credential, subject to the following conditions:

An online entity may receive a credential only if its own full-time staff writes a majority percentage of that site's material.

Online entities that focus primarily on Virginia Tech athletics and also sponsor message boards or chat rooms, may receive credentials provided they adhere to a policy that requires that a posted message or opinion is identified with the actual name and city of the individual.

Any online service that is recognized as an outlet intended primarily for the purpose of delivering news related to the recruitment of student-athletes will not qualify for credentials.

Online entities will not receive photography credentials.

Online entities (other than those identified above) registering 20,000 legitimate unique users per month in each of the past 12 months will be given first consideration.

The "Real-time" transmission of digital images, audio and data, including live game play-by-play and statistics, of any home game or any Tech-sponsored media event is the exclusive property of Virginia Tech and/or its rights holder(s). "Real-time" is defined as "live continual coverage or description of an event."

Media members blogging or using Twitter from the press box are subject to all of Virginia Tech's real-time policies.

The Atlantic Coast Conference has adapted an Internet Real-Time Policy. Virginia Tech adheres to this policy.

MEDIA WILL CALL

In most cases, credentials will be mailed. Credentials may be picked up through Friday of a game week from secretary Donna Smith in the Athletics Communications Office. Credentials not mailed or picked up will be held at the public Will Call window located a few steps from elevator No. 5, outside the press entrance to Lane Stadium/Worsham Field.

PHOTO CREDENTIALS

The NCAA has established a control policy to keep the field free from congestion. Only photographers on assignment and members of the television media are given photo credentials. Freelance or amateur photographers will not be issued credentials.

All photographers must work outside the 30-yard lines as prescribed by the NCAA. Photographers are not permitted in the bench area. On the front line of the sidelines, as well as in the south end zone, photographers are required to kneel. Those photographers shooting from behind the second line, as well as in the north end zone, are allowed to stand.

For those who need to transmit photos electronically, a work room for photographers is available. This room is located in the June Oblinger Shott Media Center, on the ground level beneath the south end zone. A member of the Athletics Communications staff will be on the sidelines to lend assistance during the game.

RIGHTS RESTRICTION

Virginia Tech is and shall be the sole owner of any and all copyrights, intellectual property rights and proprietary rights for images, sounds and data arising from or during Virginia Tech home athletics contests and Tech-sponsored media events.

The use of photographs, video and/or audio for purposes other than traditional news coverage is forbidden. No redistribution is permitted.

ENG CREW RESTRICTIONS

Electronic news gathering ("ENG") crews acknowledge and agree they shall abide by the following restrictions regarding the use of television footage of home football games of Atlantic Coast Conference ("ACC") schools. If the ACC football game is telecast by ABC or ESPN ("ABC/ESPN Games"), ENG crews (i) may not use television footage of the ABC/ESPN Game, except for excerpts consistent with ABC's or ESPN's, as applicable, news access guidelines, and (ii) may not authorize the use of any such television footage by any third parties. ENG crews acknowledge and agree that ABC and ESPN have the exclusive right to telecast live home football games of ACC schools between 3:30 p.m., and 11 p.m., east coast time (excluding telecasts of games commencing

PARKING

Game day media parking is available on a limited basis in two media-designated areas. Requests for parking credentials should be submitted to Dave Smith, Assistant AD for Athletics Communications. If you plan to visit the Tech campus Monday through Friday, you must obtain a visitor parking permit (see map on this page).

TELEPHONES

Telephones will be located in the rear of the press box for use. These phones require collect calls or a credit card for billing. Newspeople desiring their own telephone or ethernet lines should submit requests to Virginia Tech CNS at (540) 231-4350. If you request your own phone, please notify the Athletics Communications Office so we can give the phone company the proper location. The same applies for photographers wishing to activate a phone or ethernet line in the south end zone work room, where two pool phones and one pool ethernet line are provided. Please make all requests well in advance of the game.

WIRELESS INTERNET

Virginia Tech offers free wireless Internet to members of the media working the game. To be able to use this feature, you must have a wireless (802.11 compatible) card in your laptop, tested and configured prior to arriving. To register for this service, you are encouraged to sign up prior to arriving on game day, or in the press box or south end zone when you arrive. To obtain the URL, please contact Tommy Regan in Athletic Computing Services at vtacs@vt.edu. After registering, your e-mail address will serve as both your user name and password.

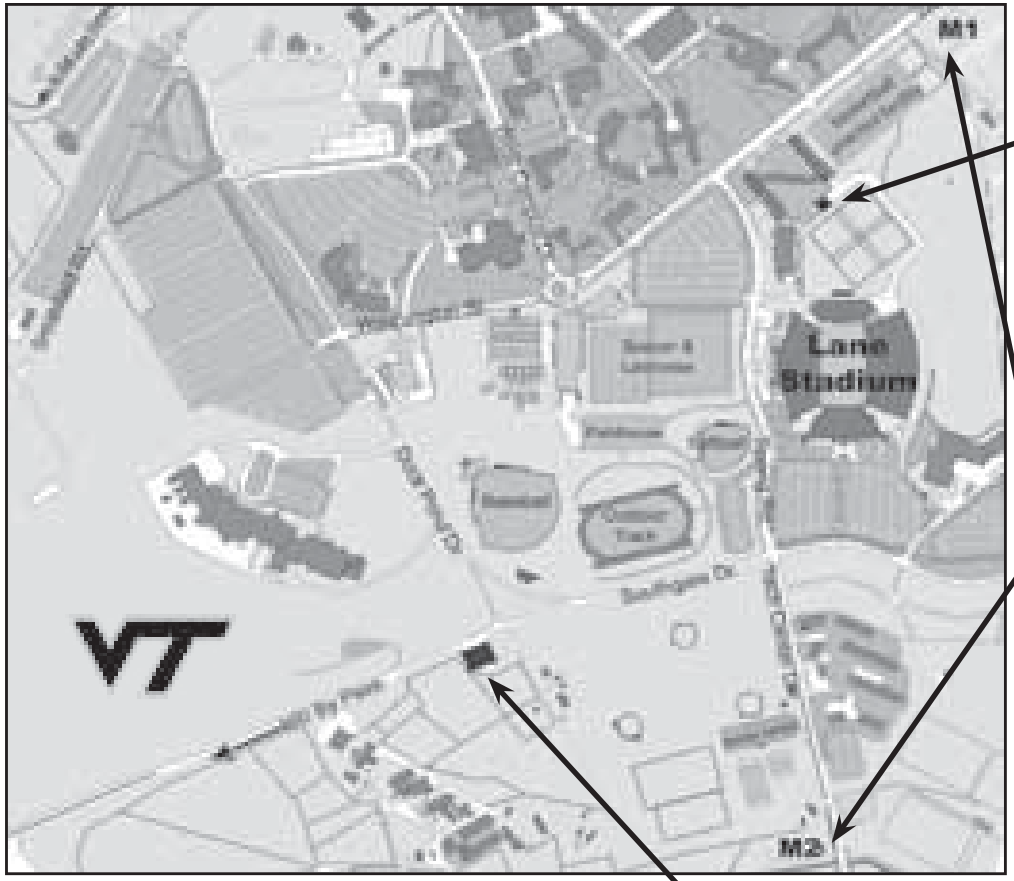
POSTGAME INTERVIEWS

All postgame interviews take place in the June Oblinger Shott Media Center, located on the ground level of the south end zone. After a short cool-down period, Coach Frank Beamer will address the media on the podium, followed by four top players. When that session is completed, 4-5 of the remaining top requested players will meet with the news media after each home game. Media members with special player requests need to make those known prior to the fourth quarter.

A separate room, located directly across the hall from the Tech interview room, is available for interviews with the coaches and players from the visiting team. Directions to both interview areas will be available in the press box or through the Athletics Communications Office. Media access to visiting players will be determined by the visiting SID.

WEBSITE FOR ATHLETICS

Notes, releases, statistics and other pertinent information are available on Tech's official athletics website (hokiesports.com).



JAMERSON ATHLETIC CENTER
The Virginia Tech Athletics Communications Office is located on the fourth floor of the Jamerson Athletic Center, behind Cassell Coliseum.

Virginia Tech also has a media-only website, where members of the media can access high-quality head shots, logos and other pertinent information. For the address to this site, please contact Bryan Johnston.

THE ACC ON THE WEB

The ACC site on the Internet is available at www.theACC.com. The site contains current information on all facets of the Atlantic Coast Conference. In addition, in-game scores for football contests involving ACC teams will be updated in-progress. Please contact Mike Finn in the ACC media relations department for more information.

ACC MEDIA SITE

CollegePressBox.com is the official media website for ACC football. Access and download weekly game notes, quotes, statistics, media guides and more for the conference and each of its 12 member schools throughout the season. Login information will be distributed to accredited media.

INTERVIEW POLICY

Virginia Tech's coaches and players will be available throughout the season for interviews with members of the news media on Mondays and Tuesdays of a normal game week. It is important, however, that all requests for interviews be made through the Athletics Communications Office.

Interviews with players and assistant coaches (offense one day; defense the other) will be held in a 20-minute session after Monday's and Tuesday's practices (10 minutes for players; 10 minutes for coaches). Any media person wishing to come to practice and talk to a specific player or coach needs to contact the Athletics Communications Office before practice to get those requested on the master list. All requests for pre-practice interviews need to be submitted to Bryan Johnston by 3 p.m. You may call him at (540) 231-3387 or e-mail him at blj@vt.edu.

Players may be requested for features only before meetings on Mondays and Tuesdays if it can be arranged around the player's schedule. All phone interviews must be done before practice.

Monday's practices are closed to the media. On Tuesdays, the stretching and warm-up sessions, plus the first two periods are open to media and pro scouts. A 20-minute interview session will follow these two days for those who were requested before practice.

At no time will a player's phone number be given out and media are asked not to call, e-mail or contact the players or coaches through social networking websites (i.e., Facebook, Twitter, etc.) or ask for their contact information.

BEAMER TELECONFERENCE

On Mondays during the season, Coach Frank Beamer will be available via teleconference for approximately 15-20 minutes. The interview session will begin at 11:40 a.m. Media interested in this opportunity are asked to call the Athletics Communications Office at (540) 231-6726 for the phone number.

WEEKLY PRESS INTERVIEW SESSION

On Tuesdays prior to each Tech game, Coach Frank Beamer and selected members of the Tech team will be available to meet accredited media in the Shott Center, located in the south end zone. A light lunch will be served at approximately noon with 2-3 players going at 12:30 p.m., after the meal is served. Coach Beamer will begin his interview session at 1 p.m. All interviews will be held on the podium in the home interview room.

An audio copy of Beamer's session with the media will be available by 4 p.m. The telephone number for these reports is (540) 232-3719. A video feed of Beamer, along with the players, is available both live and archived on hokietv.com.

TALKING TO COACH BEAMER

The best ways to reach Coach Frank Beamer are on his Monday teleconference, his weekly press interview session on Tuesdays, on the ACC teleconference on Wednesdays or after practice.

Any additional requests should be made through Dave Smith at (540) 231-6726.

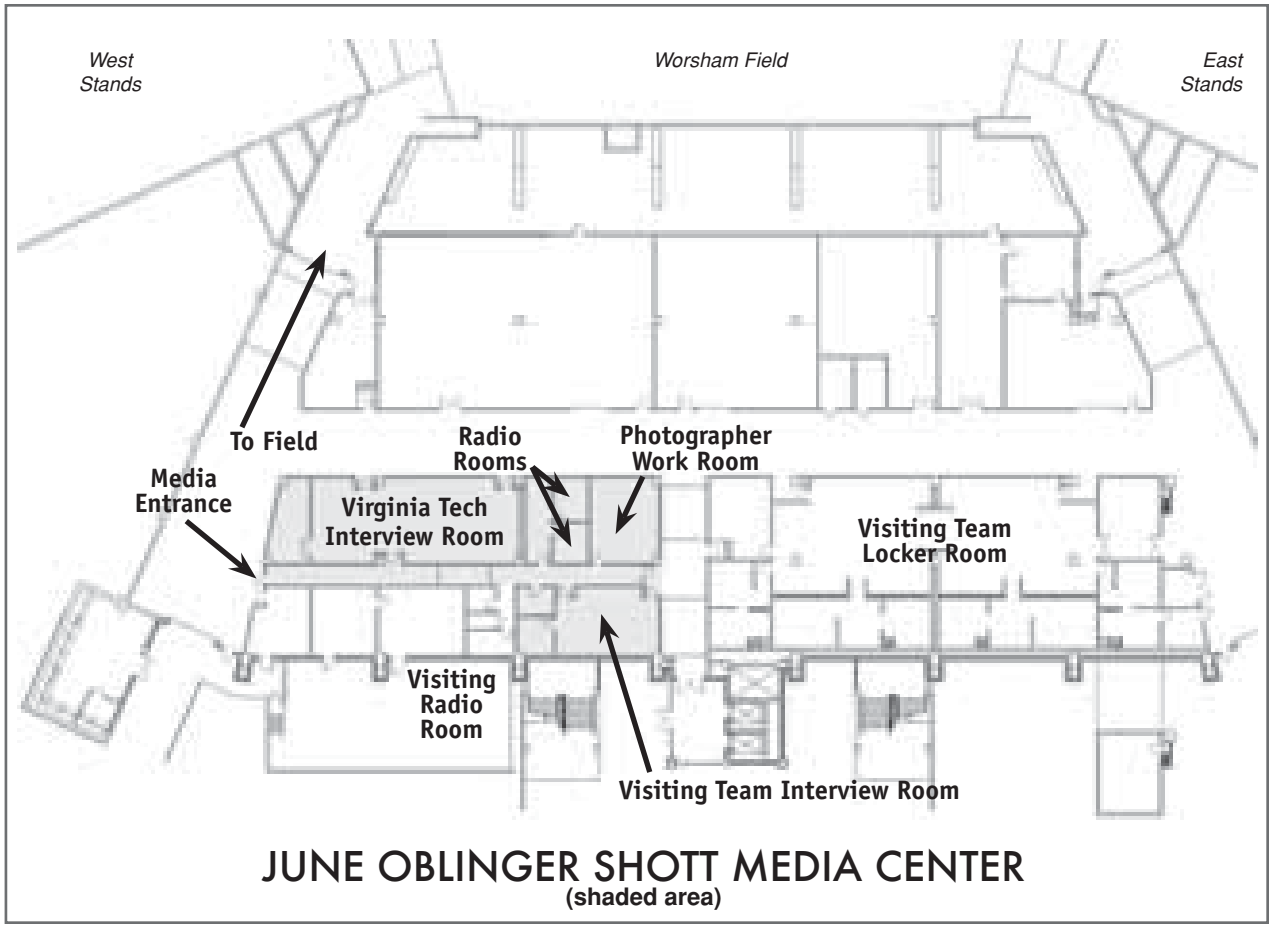
ACC TELECONFERENCE

The ACC football coaches will be featured on a weekly teleconference, beginning on Wednesday, Aug. 31. The final teleconference, for the Virginia game, will be on Tuesday, Nov. 22. Each coach will be available for 10 minutes with Coach Beamer scheduled to start at 10:50 a.m.

The teleconference number will be mailed to media members who cover Virginia Tech football. Members of the media can also secure the number by contacting the ACC office at (336) 851-6062.

SATELLITE FEED

The ACC provides weekly feeds with highlights, along with coach and player interviews. Information is available through the ACC office.



HOKIESPORTS.COM

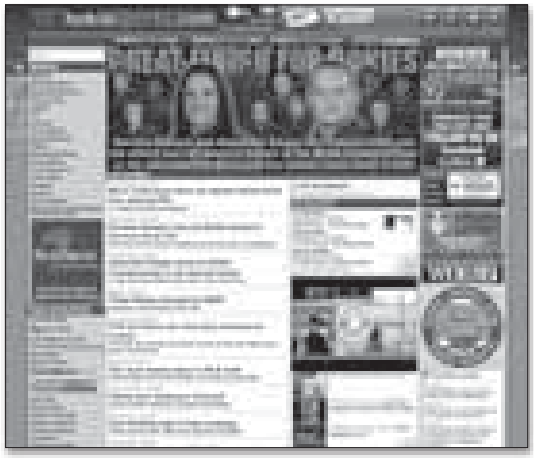
Virginia Tech sports fans have the luxury of getting up-to-date information on their favorite Tech sports or athletes on a daily basis regardless of location. Hokiesports.com is every Tech fan's source for fast, accurate and official coverage of all Hokie sports teams and events.

On the main site, one can find an array of information on Tech athletics. Through the efforts of the athletics communications staff, Hokiesports.com provides the fastest, most complete source for Hokie news on the web. Pregame releases, game stories and individual features, as well as up-to-date statistics and results for all 21 athletic teams are posted. The Notebook provides readers with behind the scene news and notes. Other offerings include individual home pages for each Tech sport, featuring breaking news and archived releases along with media guides containing player and coaching staff profiles, schedules, records, historical information and other pertinent facts for every sport.

Also accessible on each sport's home page are rosters with links to player bios, schedules, results and conference standings. With fast "live stats," fans have access to stats from home football, men's and women's basketball, baseball, softball, lacrosse, men's and women's tennis, men's and women's soccer, volleyball and wrestling as they happen via the web.

The in-house site was first launched on July 1, 1996. This past year, hokiesports.com averaged more than 27 million page views and over 800,000 visitors per month. In a 2008 survey of BCS school official websites, hokiesports.com ranked seventh in total traffic and first within the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The site is managed by director and webmaster Damian Salas. Salas is assisted by graphic designer Mary Frances Czarsty.



Hokiesports.com is the lead site of five official Tech athletics auxiliary sites, including hokiephotos.com, hokietickets.com, hokieshop.com and inside.hokiesports.com.

INSIDE HOKIE SPORTS

The Virginia Tech athletics department made a bold switch in 2008, converting its in-house newspaper of more than 20 years into a full-color, glossy magazine with nearly 50 pages worth of content and a new name.

The debut of Inside Hokie Sports drew overwhelmingly positive reviews, and now, for a fourth season, the magazine returns to continue providing information on all of the Hokies' 21 varsity sports.

The magazine features:

- Roth Report & monthly columns
- Hokie Club's monthly news
- In-depth feature articles on student-athletes
- Extended coverage on Olympic sports
- Season previews
- Features on former Virginia Tech athletes
- Updates on Hokies in the professional ranks

The publication is printed 11 times a year, with a month off in the summer.

"We'll continue to write in-depth stories not just on student-athletes, but also on a wide array of people and topics surrounding Tech athletics that traditional media outlets tend to ignore," said Jimmy Robertson, the editor of Inside Hokie Sports. "I thought that made us a unique entity among the groups covering the Hokies.

"At the same time, we kept some of the things from the newspaper that were popular - things like columns and our football recruiting profiles. I thought we had a nice blend of ways to present information, and now, our objective is to expand and improve to make our publication even better."

The staff is headed by Robertson, a 1994 graduate of Roanoke College who has won six national awards since starting as the editor of Tech's in-house publication in 1996. He is aided by a talented staff. Marc Mullen, who graduated from Bloomsburg University with a mass communications degree in 1998, is in his second year with the publication as an associate editor/writer. David Knachel serves as the staff photographer, his role for more than 20 years, and Bill Roth, the Voice of the Hokies, continues to provide his monthly column.
